How to Play
Game Modes

Before we get to the really good stuff, let's take a big-picture view of what's in store for you in Mario Party 9.

Topics in this chapter include a look at the different game modes and Main Menu options, along with an overview of everything you'll see and do when rolling around those beloved Mario Party game boards.

The Main Menu. It's so...main!

Mario Party 9 boasts a myriad of game modes and special secrets. Let's take a look at your first slew of options—the Main Menu!

Solo Mode

One of the first things you should do in Mario Party 9 is play through the adventure-packed Solo mode.

This fun and engaging story mode will familiarize you with many of Mario Party 9's nuances while also earning you valuable Party Points, which you use to unlock special prizes at the Museum.

Beating Solo mode will unlock special boards, game modes, and hidden characters for play in other modes. Skip ahead to the "Let's Party" section for an overview of how Solo mode games are played.

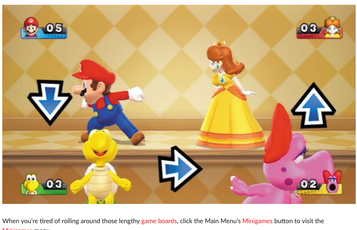

Party Mode

Party mode is a lot like Solo mode, except you get to play with friends instead of COM (computer-controlled) rivals. Up to four players can participate in Party mode, and you can choose to play on any game board you like.

If you're short on buddies, you can also fill any open spots with COM rivals to pack your party full of characters! Skim ahead to the "Let's Party" section to learn the ins and outs of traditional Party mode games.

Minigames

When you're tired of rolling around those lengthy game boards, click the Main Menu's Minigames button to visit the Minigames menu.

Here, you can cut to the chase and choose to play Mario Party 9's array of fun and imaginative minigames in all sorts of new and exciting ways!

Refer to the "Minigames" and "Minigame Modes" chapters of this guide to learn all about every minigame and the special game modes that are available at the Minigames menu.

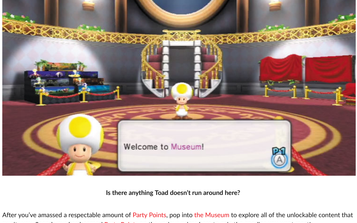

Extras

As if all those different game boards and Minigame modes weren't enough, you can also visit the Extras menu to play a small assortment of exciting bonus games!

These special Extras are great little diversions that boast a bit more depth than the traditional minigame. Check out the "Extras" chapter of this guide to learn all about these cool modes!

Museum

Is there anything Toad doesn't run around here?

After you've amassed a respectable amount of Party Points, pop into the Museum to explore all of the unlockable content that awaits you. Spend your hard-earned Party Points on the various prizes here to gain the goodies you want most!

Note

A handful of special items won't be added to the Museum until you accomplish certain feats in Mario Party 9. Flip to the back of this book to find a complete list of every Museum prize you can buy, along with tips on how to quickly amass those precious Party Points!

Let's Party!

Here Mario, Yoshi, Peach, and Daisy are getting a unique reward for their efforts in Episode 1: Let's Party!. Though everyone scored roughly the same amount of points, the player who got the most coins in the game is given more! Whoever has the most Mini Stars at the journey's end will be crowned the Superstar!

Bonus Stars up high when Magikoopa's behind the school!

Fast-player takes turns at hitting the "switch" that presses in the shell case. The captain calls a Dice Block at the start of their turn, and then the switch turns forward by as many spaces as the Dice Block shows.

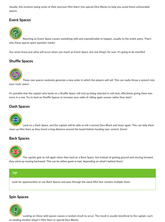

Rolling the coins has its ups and downs. On the one hand, only the captain will collect Mini Stars that hover between spaces on the board. Whenever you land on the captain, you can easily exchange those sparkling stars!

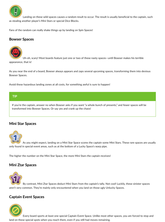

On the other hand, sometimes you'll end up passing through this building purple dust. These are called Mini Stars, and they'll subtract Mini Stars from the captain's total whenever they drop through a patch.

The rest ends up as one of those sixteen hindrances.

Special Spaces

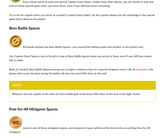

Every game board boasts a host of special spaces that you'll end up landing on at some point. Most special spaces will affect only the player who lands on them, but a few will affect all players in the game.

Keep reading to learn about the many different spaces you might find yourself partied upon.

Tip
Check the following "Dice Rocks!" chapter to learn all about every board's unique spaces and rules!

Green Space

Okay, so not every space has something special going on. Nothing happens when you land on these plain old green spaces. You haven't seen nearly such, and the next player takes the actual. Party poopers!

Dice Block Space

The unfortunate will of the Dice Block Space is the Dice Block. When something unpleasant is set to happen to them.

Sometimes the Dice Block number cannot fall the Dice, and can make certain extra because the Mini Stars or antagonist like the Following "Special Dice Blocks" section to learn all about the different kinds of Dice Blocks.

Lucky Spaces

Also known as Lucky Spaces, and something good will happen to the captain. Common Lucky Spaces lead to Treat boxes and make players gain Coins, while rarer Lucky Spaces can even award Mini Stars and Power Stars and warrant Dice Blocks.

Sometimes a Lucky Space can be turned against you. Try to land on them others.

Unlucky Spaces

The unfortunate will of the Dice Block Space is the Dice Block. When something unpleasant is set to happen to them.

Usually, this means losing some of their precious Mini Stars! Use special Dice Blocks to help you avoid these unfortunate spaces.

Event Spaces

Resulting as Event Spaces causes something wild and unpredictable to happen, usually to the entire party. That's why Event spaces are labeled boldly!

You never know just what will occur when you touch an Event Space, but one thing's for sure: it's going to be eventful!

Shuffle Spaces

Shuffle Spaces cause random, unpredictable changes to everyone's Coin and Star totals. Can you really choose a second-to-last place?

It's possible that the captain who lands on a Shuffle Space will end up being selected to roll next, effectively giving them two turns in a row! Be sure to land on Shuffle Spaces to increase your odds of rolling again soon rather than later!

Duel Spaces

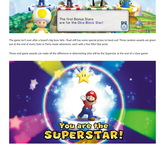

Duel Spaces are a special kind of Event Space that can be found on Duel Mini Game boards. They're the only Event Space that can be found on Duel Mini Game boards. They're the only Event Space that can be found on Duel Mini Game boards.

Activating an Event Space causes something wild and unpredictable to happen, usually to the entire party. That's why Event spaces are labeled boldly!

You never know just what will occur when you touch an Event Space, but one thing's for sure: it's going to be eventful!

Back Spaces

Like regular spaces, but with an agent where they land on a Back Space, but instead of gaining ground and moving forward, they end up moving backward. They are another great tool, depending on what's behind them!

Tip
Look for opportunities to use Back Spaces and pass through the same Mini Star stations multiple times.

Spin Spaces

Landing on these wild spaces causes a random result to occur. The result is usually beneficial to the captain, such as landing another player's Mini Star or special Dice Block.

Use Dice Blocks on duels, make things up to the captain's favor!

Bowser Spaces

Bowser Spaces are the worst of every Super Mario Bros. series, and Super Mario Bros.: Bowser makes his terrible appearance, too!

As you land the end of a board, Bowser appears and says several upsetting words, transforming them into destructive Bowser Spaces.

Avoid these mysterious looking zones at all costs, for something awful is sure to happen!

Tip
If you're the captain, answer to when Bowser asks if you want "a whole bunch of presents," and Yoshi! Spaces will be transformed into Bowser Spaces. It's up one to end up with the prize!

Mini Star Spaces

As you might expect, landing on a Mini Star Space scores the captain some Mini Stars. These rare spaces are usually only found in special event areas, such as at the bottom of a party board's main path.

The higher the number on the Mini Star Space, the more Mini Stars the captain receives!

Mini Star Spaces

As a bonus, Mini Star Spaces deduct Mini Star Stars the captain's rolls. You can't justify, these sinister spaces aren't very common. They're usually only encountered when you land on those ugly Unlucky Spaces.

Captain Event Spaces

Captain Event Spaces work a lot like special Captain Event Space. Unlike most other spaces, you can't travel to one and stop on it. Instead, you must land on one to trigger the event that's written on the space.

Due to the captain-only nature of a board's Captain Event Spaces, for the captain should be the advantage in the special Captain Event Spaces.

Boo Bath Spaces

Boo Bath Spaces feature two Boo Bathe Spaces, one around the Yahoo prize and another at the board's end.

Land on the Boo Bath Space, you're forced to sign up a Boo Bathe Spaces when you land on them, even if you still have money left to take.

Avoid these Boo Bathe Spaces around up to fight a ruthless boss for a special minigame event. Like all minigames, the player who scores the best during the battle will earn the Lost Mini Star at the end!

Note
Whoever was the captain at the start of a board battle gets some bonus Mini Stars at the end of the fight. Score!

Free-for-All Minigame Spaces

Land on one of these minigame spaces and everyone competes in your vehicle will be thrust into an exciting free-for-All minigame!

It's common for themselves during these minigame events, and the better you perform, the more Mini Stars you'll receive at the end.

There aren't limited to seven minutes or the end of a board, and appears like mini-boss offers as you journey toward the end.

1-vs.-Rivals Minigame Spaces

As a bonus, minigame spaces are the captains against their plans in a hectic minigame battle! The captain always acts as the solo player, facing off against the other three players. Can you defeat the captain on your own?

If every one member of the trial team manages to succeed, the entire team scores an equal amount of Mini Stars. The captain must be the best on your team to win!

Bowser Jr. Minigame Spaces

Fortunately, the captain won't have to go it alone. Instead, a computer-controlled assistant is sent to assist the captain in their efforts to help. A duo. The ended your efficiencies and starts up to always that asking catalog!

Battle Minigame Spaces

Battle Minigame Spaces are similar to Free-for-All Minigame Spaces, except that you'll be playing for each other's Mini Stars instead of simply seeking Mini Stars for your team.

That's right, a Bowser Bar, appears and steals Mini Stars from each player. Whomever finishes in first place has to earn to steal all Mini Stars back!

Play hard and don't let your rivals trade off with your hard-earned Mini Stars or take to the journey.

Special Dice

Landing on special dice, such as Dice Block Space and Lucky Spaces that hand it. Treat boxes, can cause the capital special Dice Blocks. These blocks also can give players key advantages when used at the right times. Let's take a close look at what each special Dice Block does.

Note
You have only one special Dice Blocks at a time. If you stumble upon a third, you'll be asked to choose one to discard.

Tip
Check the score symbols on the screen's left side to see each player's current special Dice Blocks—this can help you guess what they're about to roll!

Normal Dice Block

Your run-of-the-mill Dice Block has no sides and can roll any number between one and six. Don't bother wrecking your noodle by studying the normal Dice Block's path—you can't possibly predict what number will pop up! show you roll!

Slow Dice Block

The granddaddy of all Dice Blocks, the Slow Dice Block rumbles so sluggishly that it's easy to roll the exact number of spaces you want to move.

Slowly work on a Slow Dice Blocks only for up to five turns and can pick the Dice Block a good idea to roll the precise number you need to reach the Blocks, like if you're one Star Block away from victory!

1-3 Dice Block

This is another low-value Dice Block—numerically speaking, that is. Like the 0-2 Dice Block, this 1-3 Dice Block can't move a long way for the board, a player's position.

These two rolling dice can also be used to set up the next player's turn, giving the captain that might be chasing after you're from behind!

4-5-6 Dice Block

Once the high-value 4-Dice is known that you move four, five, or six spaces ahead, tapping and nearby hazards or engaging a duel on the Dice Block and Bowser's Dice Block.

1-10 Dice Block

This one-side shaped Dice Block sports 10 sides instead of six, letting you roll and score up to 10 spaces in a single go. Some to be unwieldy to roll 1-10 and end up moving just one measly space. Talk about painful bad!

The Final Tally

The game isn't over after a board's big Star falls. Toad still has some special prizes to hand out! Three random awards are given out to the end of every four or five, in total awesome, each with a title like the party.

These end-game awards are all the difference in determining who will be the Superstar at the end of a nine game!

Oh, come now. Who did it more Mario-ize cause?

Here are the possible prospect scores that Toad might dole out. Remember, Toad only gives three of these at the end of each party, and you never know which ones he'll pick!

Coin Star: Awarded to whoever ended up with the most Coins at the end of a game, or in case Toad picks them at the journey's end.

Star Boss: Awarded to the player who won the most special Dice Blocks.

Star Boss: Awarded to the player who had the highest total from rolling Dice Blocks throughout the stage (including special Dice Blocks).

Minigame Star: Awarded to the player who won the most minigames.

Mayor Star: Awarded to the player who hit the most Mini Stars.

Item Star: Awarded to the player who had the highest total from rolling Dice Blocks throughout the stage (including special Dice Blocks).

Star Star: Awarded to the player who landed on the most Spin Spaces.

Board Overview

Here's a map of the entire map, screen and numbered coin zones and boxes to find by scrolling up! Donkey Kong!

You can pass the second banana tree after you land on Space 7 and pick Path A. You're be asked to an 8 if you take more than 8 spaces to get there. Path B is the shortest route to the finish.

Path A has two variations to the ground environment: the Banana Bear and a Shell.

The second board shared with Path B's branch has 3 coin boxes but can't receive 3 Bananas max about, and have big sets of boxes under it that will come in one Banana Bear and a shell.

Though it appears to be the shortest branch of all, you're probably required to make two stops around DK's Jungle Ruins, and Minimap Meadow to boot.

There are also special zones to this where you can use Bananas for the Banana Bear's Jungle Ruins to a Coin and for board with Bananas. Bananas are also used to buy Mushrooms from the Banana Bear's Jungle Ruins to a Coin and for board with Bananas.

Use the Coins and Bananas you have at the end of the game to buy 8 Mini Stars that will aid in Rosa Peach to your Mario Party.

Minigames

Free-for-All Minigames

Welcome to our magnificent Minigames chapter! Here we cover every Mario Party 9 minigame in complete detail, providing plenty of tips to help you score big.

Each of these minigames is a unique and exciting affair, and some of them have some seriously sneaky tricks to learn. Read on and discover what every minigame has to offer!

Most minigames fall into the Free-for-All category. There are 44, to be exact. Up to four players can compete against one another during these exciting events, and to the victor go the spoils!

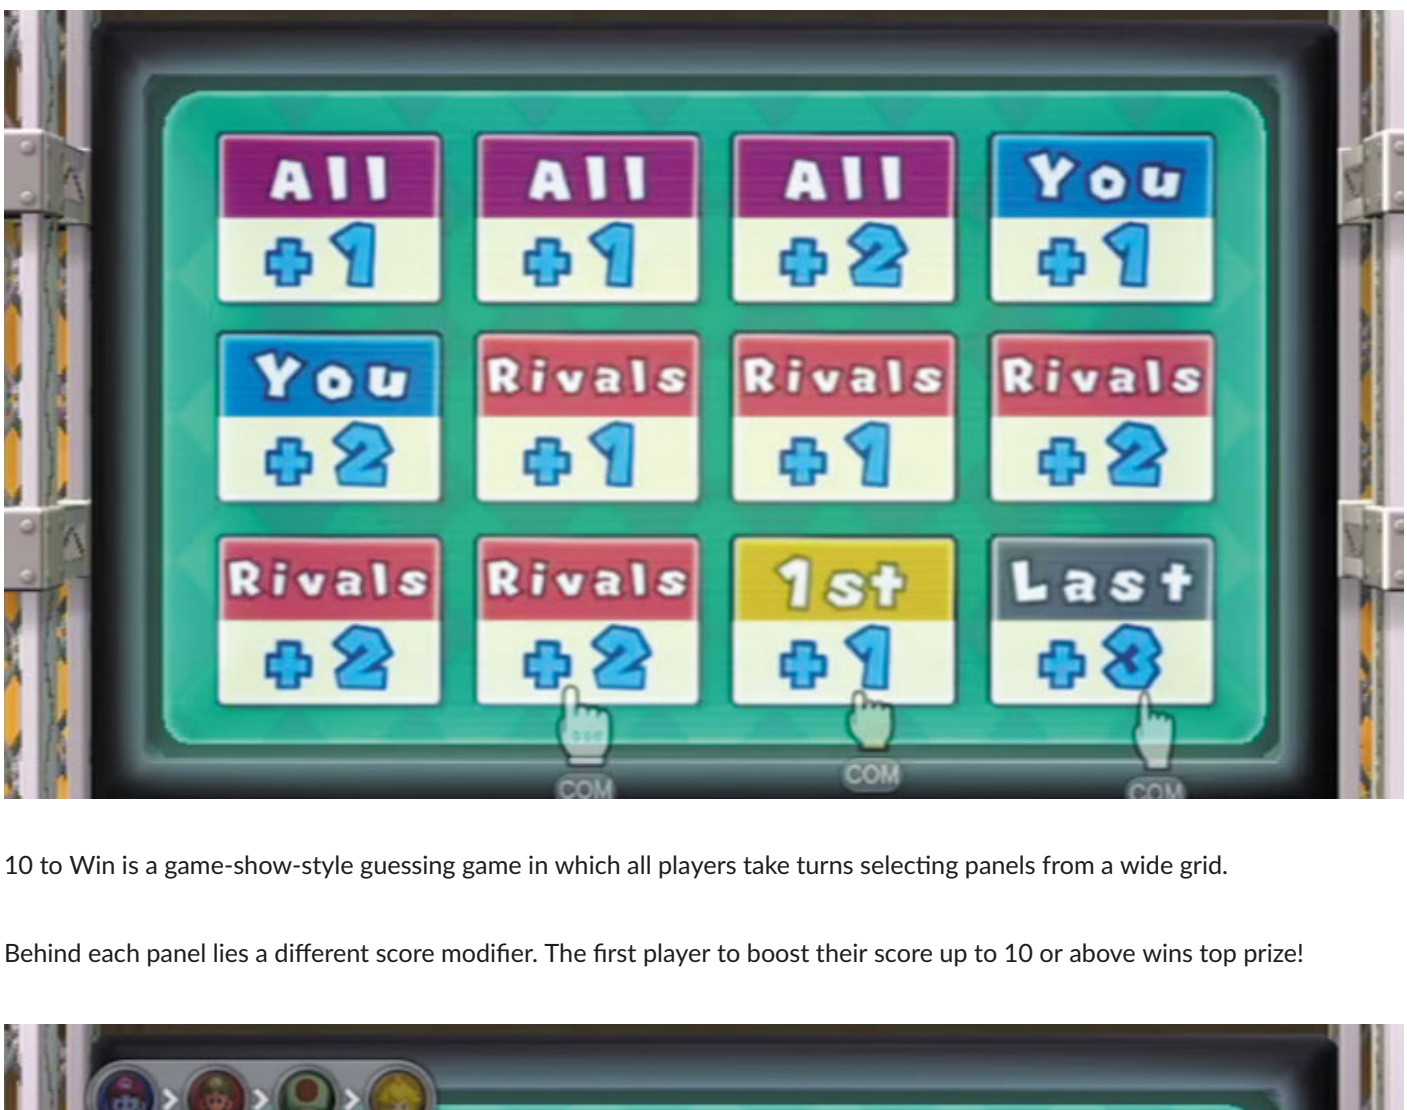

Minigames
10 to Win

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at the panel you want, and press A to flip it over.

10 to Win is a game-show-style guessing game in which all players take turns selecting panels from a wide grid.

Behind each panel lies a different score modifier. The first player to boost their score up to 10 or above wins top prize!

All the panels are shown to the contestants at the start of each 10 to Win game. The panels then change to “?” logos and are shuffled around, making it tough to remember which ones where which.

Mentally pick out the panel you think is best and try to keep track of it during the shuffle!

The best panels are those that boost your score by a high number. These panels will have your score soaring sky-high in no time!

It’s really tough keeping track of the panels during the shuffle, so this game usually boils down to pure luck.

The game ends the moment at least one player boosts their score to 10 or more. Nobody likes consolation prizes, so here’s hoping Lady Luck is on your side!

Minigames

Ballistic Beach

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to aim your cannon and press 2 to shoot.

Ready to blast some beach balls? In Ballistic Beach, up to four players use a cannon to blast colorful balls that hover way out over the briny blue.

Each player has their own balls to blast, and the event ends the moment a player pops all of their balls!

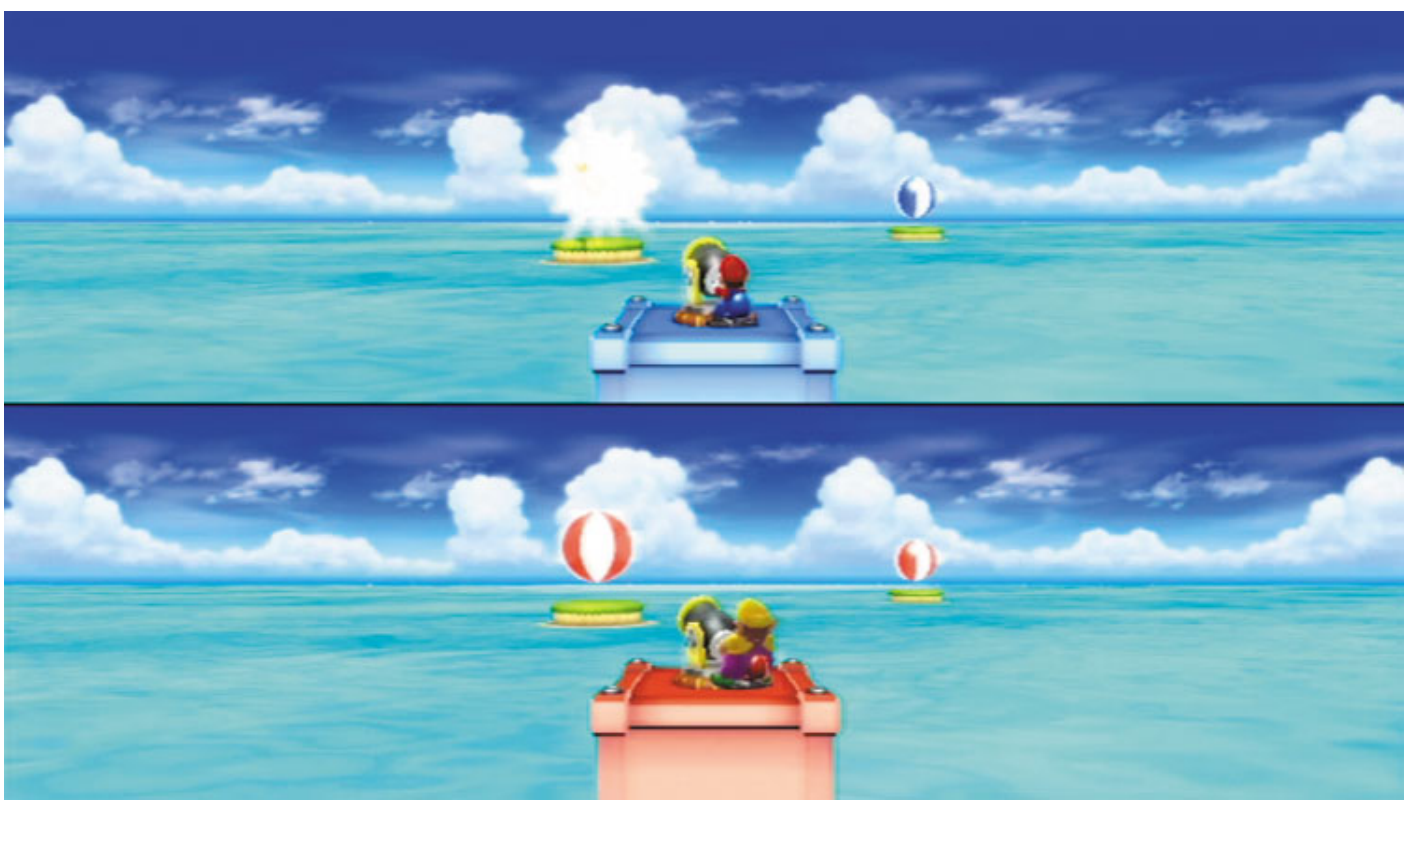

These cannons are surprisingly sensitive, and it doesn't take much tweaking to drastically change your aim.

Watch where your cannonballs splash down when you miss, then make minor adjustments to compensate. Aim your cannon upward to increase its range—but be careful not to overshoot your mark!

Tip

Start with the closest ball and work your way backward. Nearby targets are larger and easier to hit!

Of course, you don't want to spend too much time lining up the perfect shot. There's a slight reload delay between cannon blasts, so it's best to take the "shotgun approach" and fire your cannon as often as possible.

Just keep blasting away and making minor adjustments until you pop every ball.

Though each player has their own balls to burst, they're all lined up exactly the same to keep things fair. Ballistic Beach is a test of speed and skill, but it becomes easier each time you play.

Once you've gained a feel for the aiming sensitivity, you'll be outshooting your rivals with the ease of an expert!

Minigames

Billistics

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move.

At the top of a treacherously tall tower, a barrage of Bullet Bills come flying at you from all directions.

In Billistics, your sole objective is to avoid being blasted by Bullet Bills. Outlast your rivals to become master of all you survey!

The Bullet Bills are pretty easy to avoid at first, but they soon come in greater numbers as time steadily ticks away.

You'll be bombarded by Bullet Bills before long, and it's nearly impossible to survive the entire length of the game. Just do your best up there—it's a long way down!

It doesn't really matter where you stand on the tower, because you can't fall off, and being struck by a Bullet Bill at any point will send you soaring out of the playing area.

The Bullet Bills come from every which way, so keep moving and be quick to identify safe zones. It's possible to slip between Bullet Bills most of the time, but sometimes you just can't help being hit.

Caution

Steer clear of your rivals, or they might get in the way and cause you to bump into a Bullet Bill!

Try relaxing your vision and taking in the whole screen while playing Billistics—it helps you spy those inbound Bills.

Simply make sure you're nowhere near them as you frantically dash about. Outlast your opponents to bring this towering challenge to an end!

Minigames

Bomb Barge

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

Ready for a rough and rowdy raft ride? In Bomb Barge, all players sail down a rushing river on a small wooden raft, and Bob-ombs quickly begin to rain down from above!

Don't get caught standing near a Bob-omb when it blows or you'll be blasted off the raft. The last player standing is the winner!

Caution

Don't take a tumble off the raft while attempting to avoid the Bob-ombs—the water is way too cold this time of year!

Watch the raft carefully for tiny shadows that signal inbound Bob-ombs, then bolt out of the way as fast as you can.

Running into a Bob-omb before it erupts causes you to kick it a short distance. Try kicking the Bob-ombs toward your rivals to rid the raft of them fast!

Within moments, your raft will be inundated with dangerous explosives. It doesn't take long for the Bob-ombs to blow, so hurry and flee, or kick them away!

When a Bob-omb becomes bright red, it's about to go boom—get out of there on the double!

Jumping can help you dodge the Bob-ombs, and it also helps you leap over pesky players who get in your way.

But don't jump too often or you won't be able to kick those short-fused Bob-ombs out of your path! Bomb Barge minigames are usually short, so just do your best to survive this silly trip downstream.

Minigames

Buddy Bounce

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move.

Ever wish you could bounce around above the clouds? Well, that's just part of everyday life in Buddy Bounce!

During this lighthearted event, you and your rivals get to bound onward and upward, attempting to pop colorful balloons that are each worth points.

The player with the most points after time runs out is declared the winner!

The highest balloons are worth the most points, but you can't reach those rare red balloons without the help of a rival.

Bounce off of a buddy's head to soar up even higher than normal and burst those red 10-pointers!

Tip

Look for rivals who are bouncing out of sync with you—these buddies are your best bets for bouncing way up high!

Although the red balloons are worth the most, the green ones are more plentiful and much easier to reach.This makes them equally valuable, even though they're only worth three points apiece.

Go for the greens whenever you see them, and try to keep away from your rivals so they can't bounce off of you and head for the reds!

The balloons will reappear a few seconds after they've been collected, and you can find a few more hiding offscreen by bouncing over to the far right or left.

Try to keep track of the general direction that you've traveled and be ready to double back for those green and red balloons when they start to return!

Minigames

Bumper Bubbles

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt left or right to move. Hold 2 to rise.

Ready for more good times in the sky? In Bumper Bubbles, players tilt the Wii Remote to steer their characters as they drift ever upward inside a delicate bubble.

Maneuver into the floating balloons that you see along the way to collect them. Whoever catches the most balloons by the end of the journey will win!

There are many colors of balloons up here, but all of them are worth one point.

Watch out for those giant spiked balls, though—touching one of these obstacles causes your fragile bubble to burst, and you'll lose all of your balloons!

Caution

Keep away from your rivals or they might bounce you off-course and possibly into a spiky ball!

Whenever someone's bubble bursts on a spiked ball, all of their balloons are released. Try bouncing your rivals into the balls, then be quick to claim their balloons before anyone else!

More and more spiked balls begin to appear as time passes, and it's pretty tough to avoid them all.

Expect to lose your balloons once in a while, and try to recoup your losses whenever a rival suffers the same fate.

Keep an eye on the timer and strive to stockpile those balloons during the final seconds!

Minigames

Card Smarts

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to select a card and 2 to confirm. You can change your card as often as you want before the timer runs out.

All right, smarty-pants, let's see your skills shine in a slick game of Card Smarts! In this unique minigame, each player must play one of the cards in their hand every turn.

The player who plays the highest card will win the hand and earn one point. Be the first player to score three points to rake in the win!

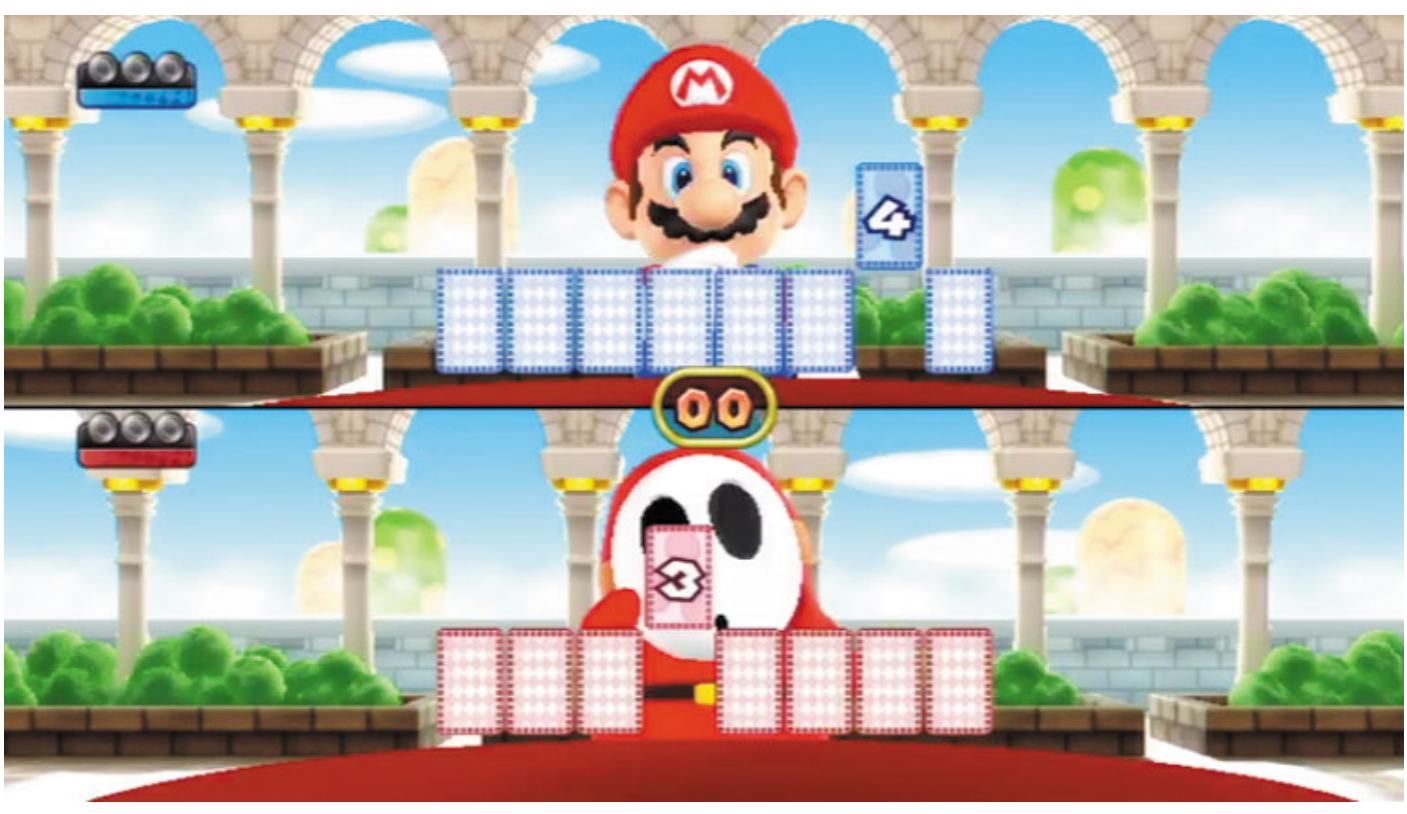

Card Smarts seems simple enough at first, but there's some serious depth to this deceptive event.

Playing your highest cards right from the start might earn you a point or even two, but your cards vanish after they've been played, meaning you might end up struggling to earn that final point if you play all of your high cards too soon.

Watch which cards your rivals are choosing and play only the highest card necessary to win the hand; otherwise you'll waste your best cards too soon!

Note

In the event of a high card tie, nobody wins any points.

Pressing 2 locks in your card selection, but you can move to another card and press 2 again to change your choice as many times as you like.

When time runs out, your selection is made final and the hand is played. Practice bluffing your rivals by locking in one card, then quickly switching to another at the last second!

Tip

Sometimes, fooling your rivals means not changing your card but making it seem like you're about to!

Remember: It doesn't matter if you lose a hand or two, so long as you're the first one to win three hands.

Plan ahead and do your best to trick your rivals, preserving your highest cards until you really need them. And never count your money at the table!

Minigames

Chain Event

How to Play

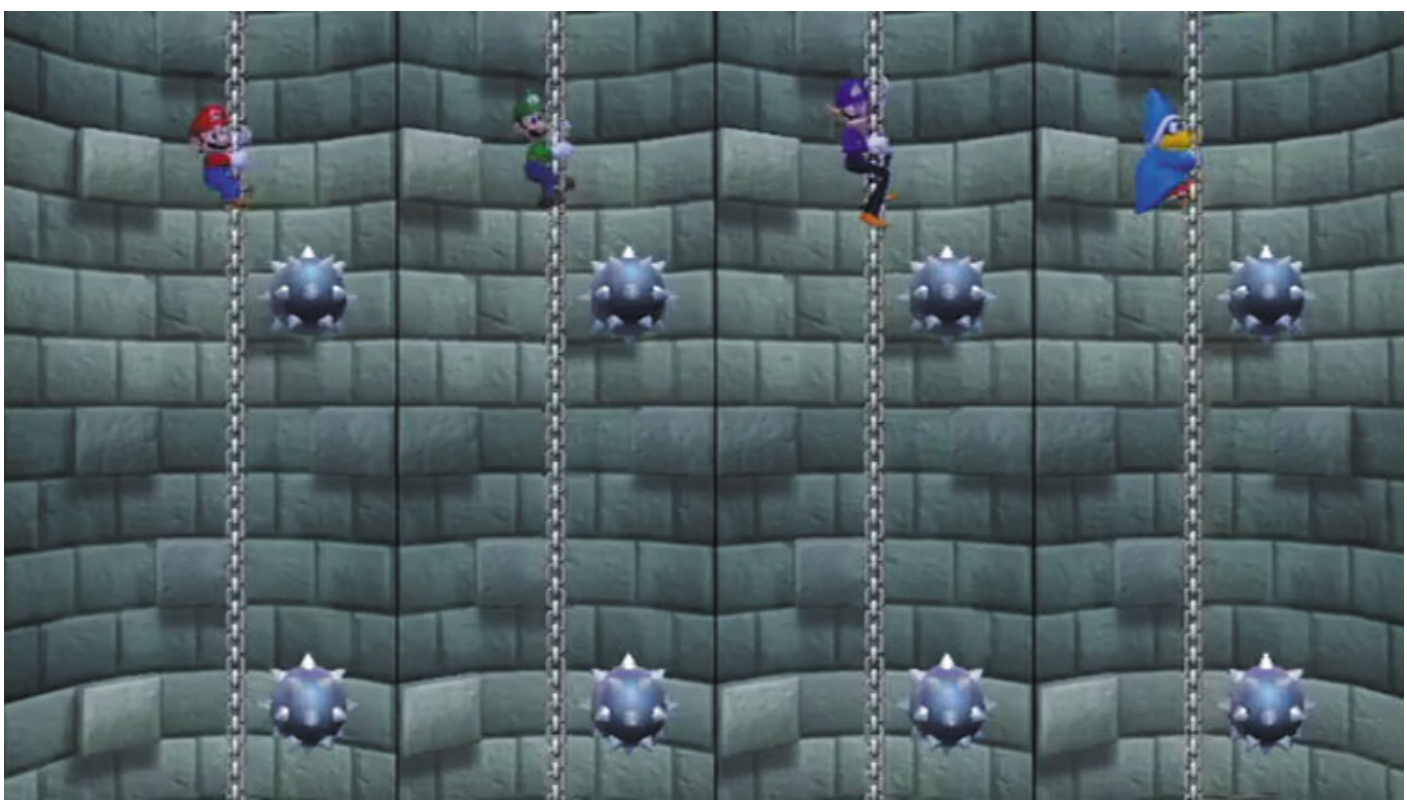

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Tilt it in the direction you want to move.

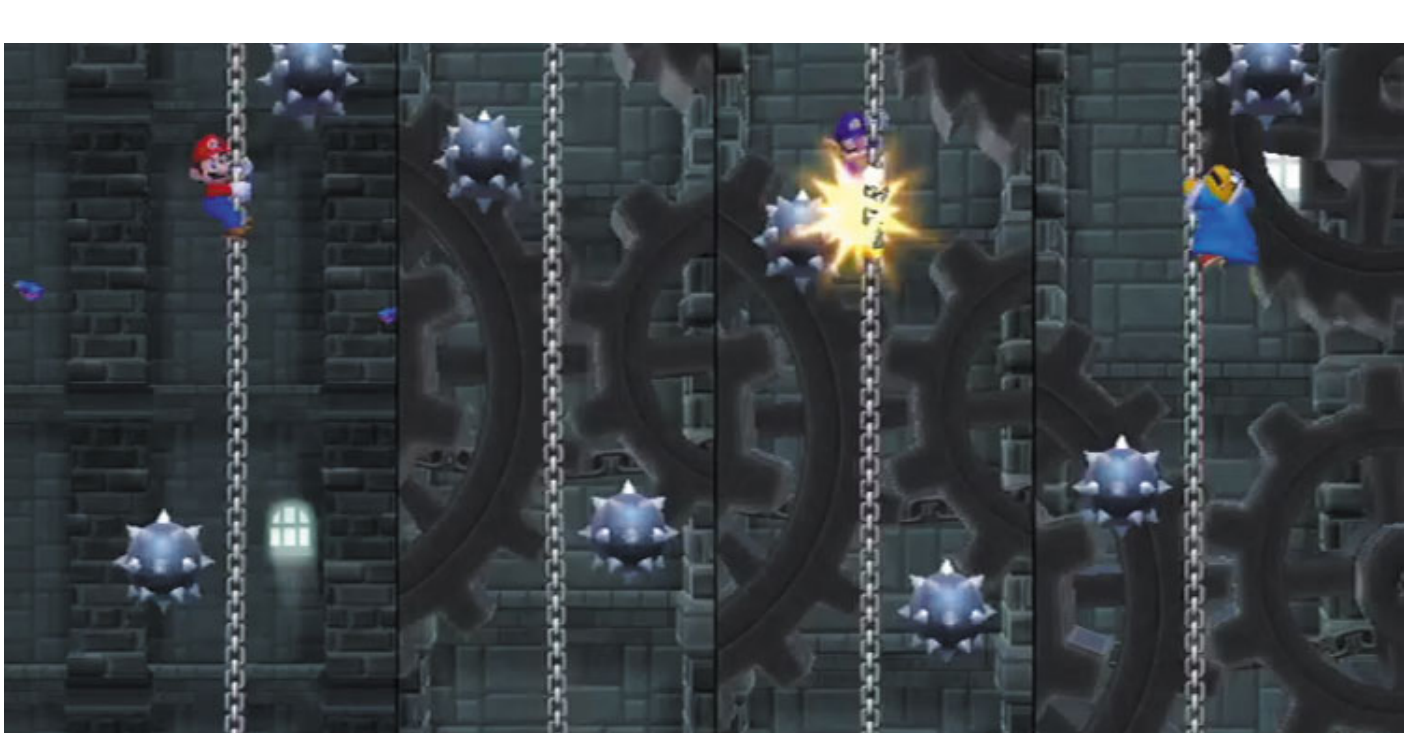

Ladies and gentlemen, this is the Chain Event of the evening! In this lightning-fast minigame, each player tries to zip to the end of their long chain as quickly as possible.

Be the first to reach the bottom of your chain to reign victorious!

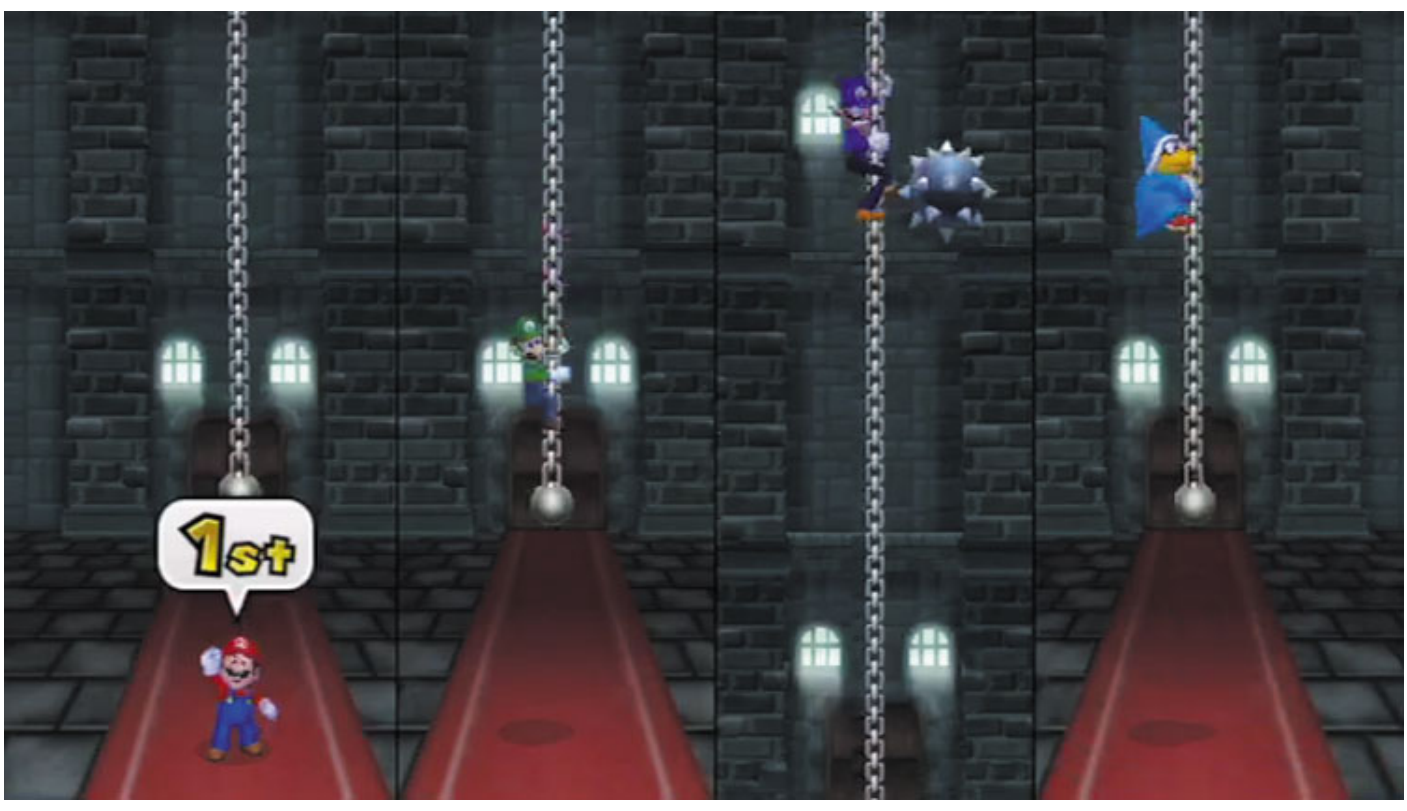

Sounds pretty simple, yeah? Not so fast! Obstacles in the form of giant spiked balls will appear on either side of the chain, and you must be quick at waving your Wii Remote left or right to scoot around the chain and avoid being hit.

Don’t slam into those big ol’ balls or you’ll slow way down!

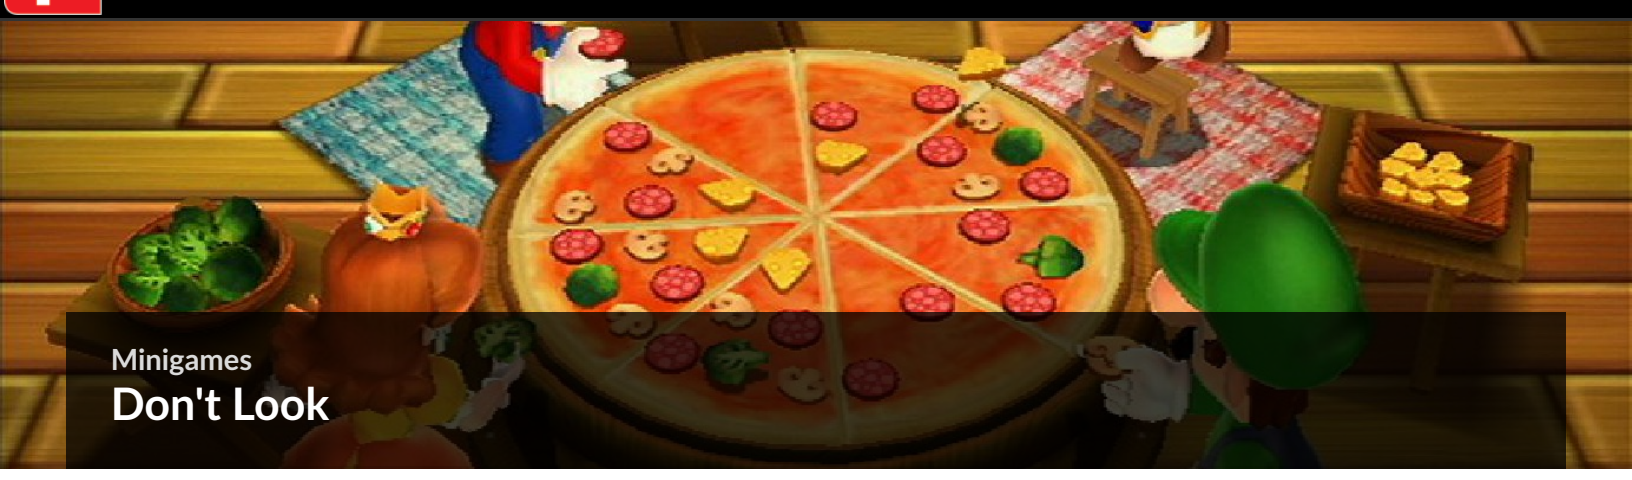

At first the spiked balls are pretty easy to avoid, but they become more and more challenging to slip past as you begin to gain momentum.

It’s a long way down to the bottom of your chain, so keep your eyes locked on the bottom of your screen and do your best to skirt those dangerous spikes!

Each time you smack into a ball and are forced to slow down, take a second to peek over at your rivals’ progress.You can tell how far along they’ve traveled by looking at their backgrounds.

First you speed past gears as you near the middle of the tower; then you’ll start seeing lots of windows toward the bottom. Land on that red carpet before anyone else and strike your most victorious pose!

Minigames

Don't Look

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Swing the Wii Remote up, down, left, or right to control which direction your character looks.

Everyone knows that it's not polite to stare, and this age-old piece of etiquette is exemplified in Don't Look, a hilarious minigame in which your goal is to glance in a different direction than the tricky arrows that appear onscreen.

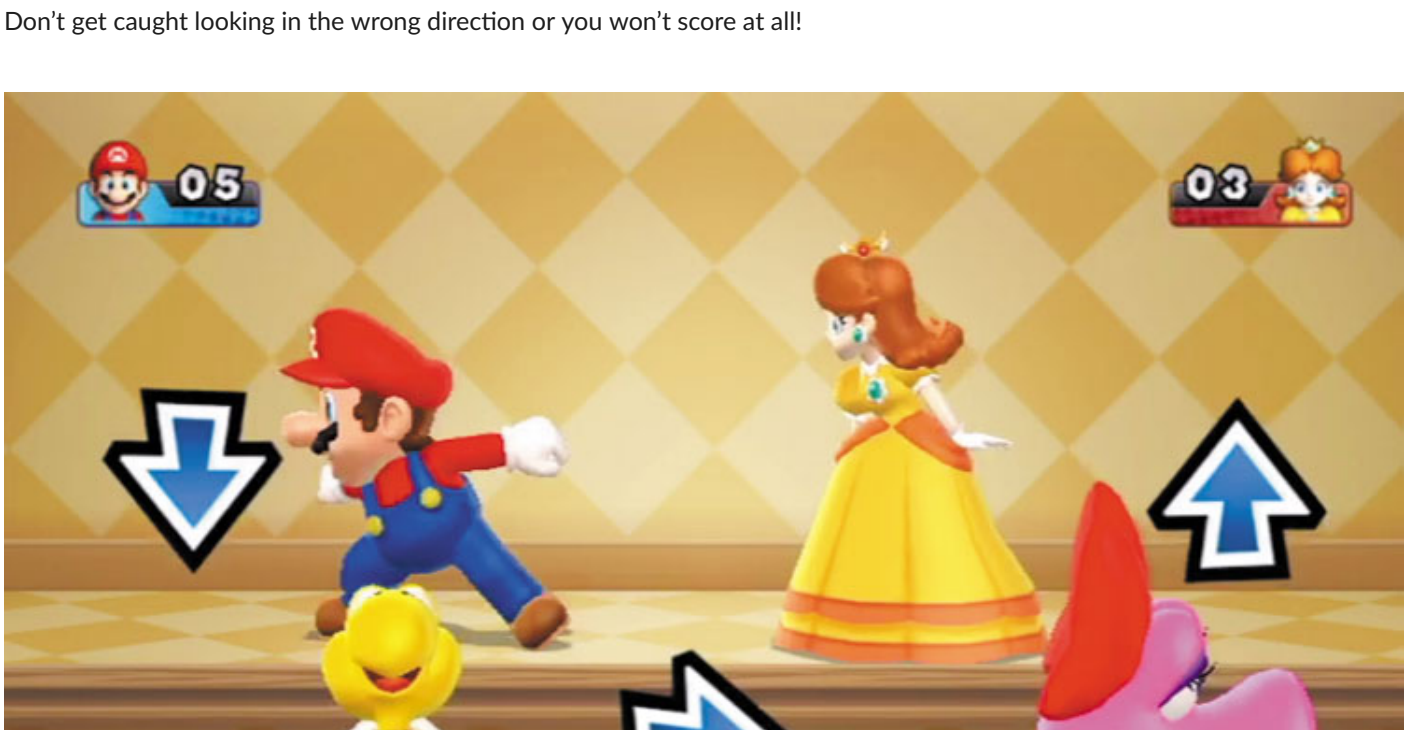

Points are awarded each time you gaze in an acceptable direction—keep your eyes on the prize and win the game!

Simply wave the Wii Remote up, down, left, or right to make your character peer in the desired direction.

You get only one chance to glance, and there's just seconds to make your decision. Each time you look in an acceptable direction, you earn one point.

Don't get caught looking in the wrong direction or you won't score at all!

There are ten rounds to Don't Look, and more and more onscreen arrows will appear as the game advances. By the seventh round, there will be only one proper direction in which to peer!

Those sneaky arrows attempt to trick you by appearing on various sides of the screen; for example, an arrow that's pointing up may appear on the screen's bottom, messing with your head and making you think you need to look up to avoid the arrow.

Don't pay attention to where the arrows pop up—only notice the directing in which they're pointing. Now you're looking good!

Minigames

Flinger Painting

How to Play

Point the Wii Remote at the area you want to hit with your paint.
Press A to shoot. Hold A to charge up a large paint shot. Release A after charging to fire.

Few things are more enjoyable than making a big, colorful mess. In Flinger Painting, that's exactly your goal!

Hurl huge gobs of colored paint at a wide canvas, hoping to cover more area with your color than your rivals. Pile on that paint to perfect your masterpiece!

Tapping A will hurl a good-sized gob of goo onto the board, but you can't beat holding A to charge up a really big blast.

Watch as your targeting cursor expands, then release A to unload a massive gob! Try to get the timing down so that you're spraying the board with plenty of paint as often as possible.

Note

Don't rely on the sound your Wii Remote makes as you hold A to charge up a shot.

The sound keeps playing even after you've reached maximum splattering size, so pay attention to your cursor instead!

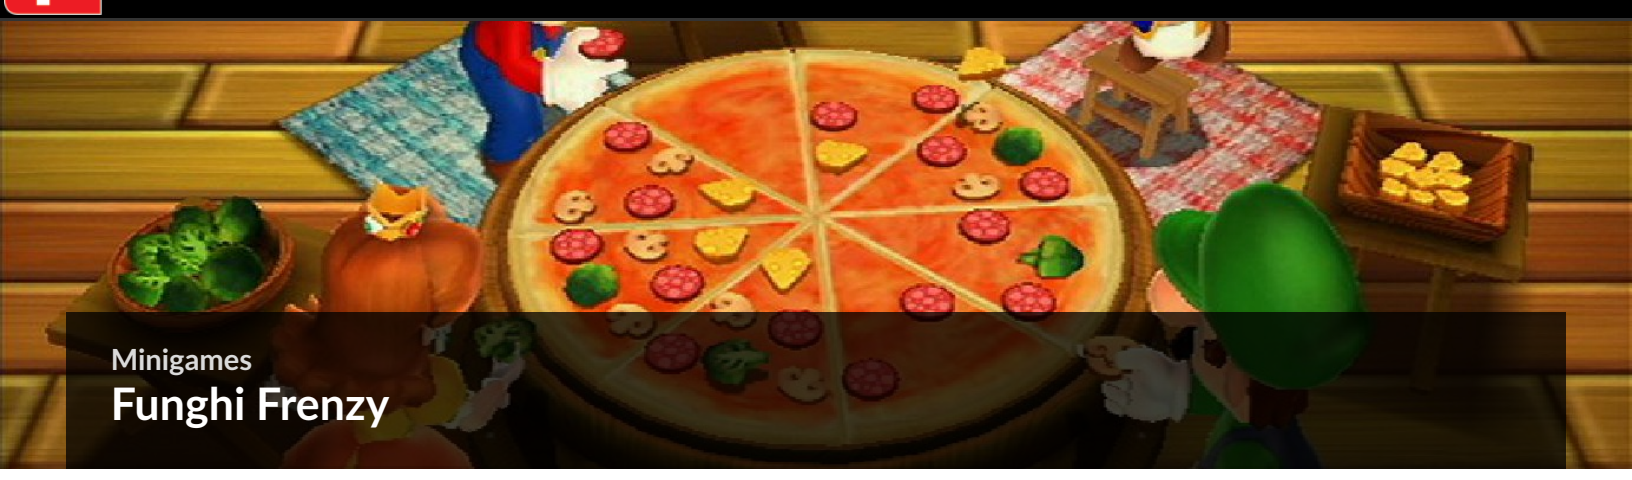

Most players will mistakenly attempt to cover the middle of the canvas early on. That's the work of amateurs!

The center is an easy target, so shoot big gobs at the board's edges and corners instead, filling in those blank areas as you spread your color more evenly across the canvas. What an eye you have!

When the final seconds begin to tick down, the time comes to touch up your rivals' work. Charge up a big blast and try to be the last one to land a huge gob of paint on the board.

Aim to cover up whichever of your rivals' colors is most prevalent to snatch away the victory. Priceless!

Minigames

Funghi Frenzy

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move, 2 to jump, and 2 while jumping to perform a ground-pound.

This minigame makes you motor around in a mad dash for mushrooms! During Fungi Frenzy, you compete with your rivals to dig up mushrooms from beneath special panels on the ground.

The player who gets their hands dirty and unearths the most mushrooms will be the victor!

Fungi Frenzy plays out over three rounds. At the start of each segment, the mushrooms that hide beneath the panels are briefly displayed.

Look for groups of three and take stock of where your character is standing, then go after the most mushrooms that are within easy reach.

To expose mushrooms from beneath a panel, simply press 2 to jump and then hit 2 again to come crashing down with a ground-pound.

The mushrooms will then be added to your total. Hurry over to another nearby panel and start pounding away!

Tip

Tap 2 as fast as possible to perform short ground-pounds that will get you those mushrooms more quickly.

Jump high and press 2 to perform a larger ground-pound that can flatten your rivals, hampering their harvest!

Fast reflexes and a keen memory are your best friends during Fungi Frenzy. Play hard in those gardens and grab all the mushrooms you can carry.

Stuff 'em into your pack and maybe cook them up a little later as a snack!

Minigames

Goomba Bowling

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Press A to switch between your position and your angle. Press the D-Pad to adjust the two. Swing the Wii Remote while holding B to throw the shell.

It's the Mushroom Kingdom's favorite pastime, Goomba Bowling! In this skill-based minigame, players take turns heaving hefty shells down a long lane filled with moving Goombas.

Whoever hits the most Goombas wins the match!

Your success at Goomba Bowling hinges entirely on your setup. First, watch carefully how the Goombas are moving, then adjust your position and throwing angle accordingly.

Try to line up so that your angle matches the line that the Goombas form as they shuffle back and forth.

Once you've found the right position and angle, hold B and swing the Wii Remote just like you would if you're throwing a bowling ball.

If you set it up perfectly, your shell will smack into every Goomba, bounce off one of the walls, and continuing hitting Goombas all the way to the alley's end!

Tip

Throw your ball a little early to give it time to travel and hit the first Goomba head-on.

Goomba Bowling takes some getting used to, so use the practice mode and perfect your skills. The Goombas move at different speeds and angles each turn, so no one setup will work every time.

Each player gets only one throw as well. Pat yourself on the back if you manage to score that elusive 20-Goomba strike!

Note

Love Goomba Bowling? An even more engaging version of this minigame can be played at the Extras menu!

Minigames

Goomba Spotting

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Press A once for each Goomba you count.

I spy with my little eye...a whole crew of Goombas! In Goomba Spotting, your goal is to tally up the total number of Goombas that you see sprinting across a narrow field.

The player who comes the closest to the exact count wins!

Goomba Spotting might sound simple, but those Goombas are a wily bunch. At first, only a few Goombas stroll across the clearing; then they start sprinting past in big, speedy waves!

Press A each time you count a Goomba, but press A only once per Goomba you spy; otherwise your count will be way off!

Caution

Critters other than Goombas will move through your view as well. Don't press A for these silly pranksters! Only Goombas are worth counting.

Tip

Press the Home Button and turn down the volume on your Wii Remote speaker if you don't want your friends to hear your button presses.

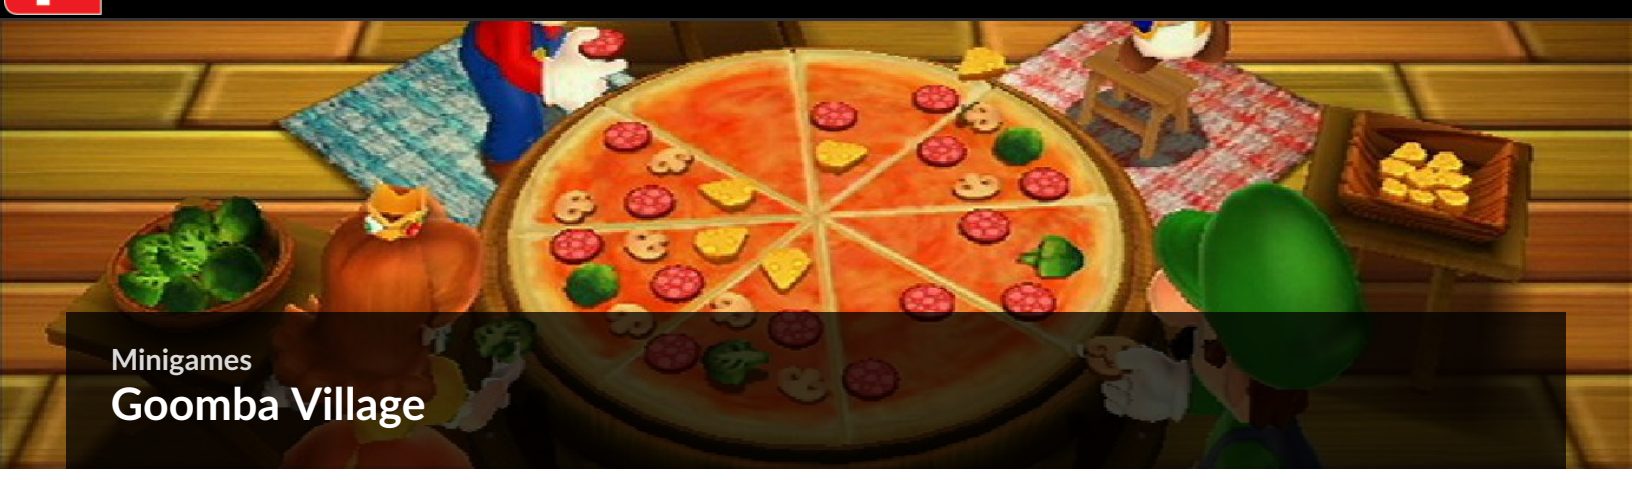

Some Goombas will even stand atop one another and move past your view in a teetering stack.

These guys can be tough to count, but do your best to press A for every Goomba in the group. And don't let them distract you from any other Goombas that zip past at the same time!

The Goombas all line up after the event ends, and everyone's total button presses are revealed. Did you manage to count them all? If so, congratulations—that's no easy feat!

Minigames
Goomba Village

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at the Toad House you want to choose, and press A to confirm.

Good grief, it's a whole Goomba Village! In this unique minigame, a host of Goombas will run through the streets of their humble hometown, each one bolting into one of five houses.

Be the first player to pick the house that holds the most Goombas to ensure your entry into the local neighborhood watch!

Just look at those Goombas go! Something really scary must be chasing them. Relax your vision and try to take in the whole crazy scene as the Goomba horde rushes into their different homes.

Tip

Each house gives a little bounce when a Goomba enters. Pay attention to those houses to see which ones are really rocking!

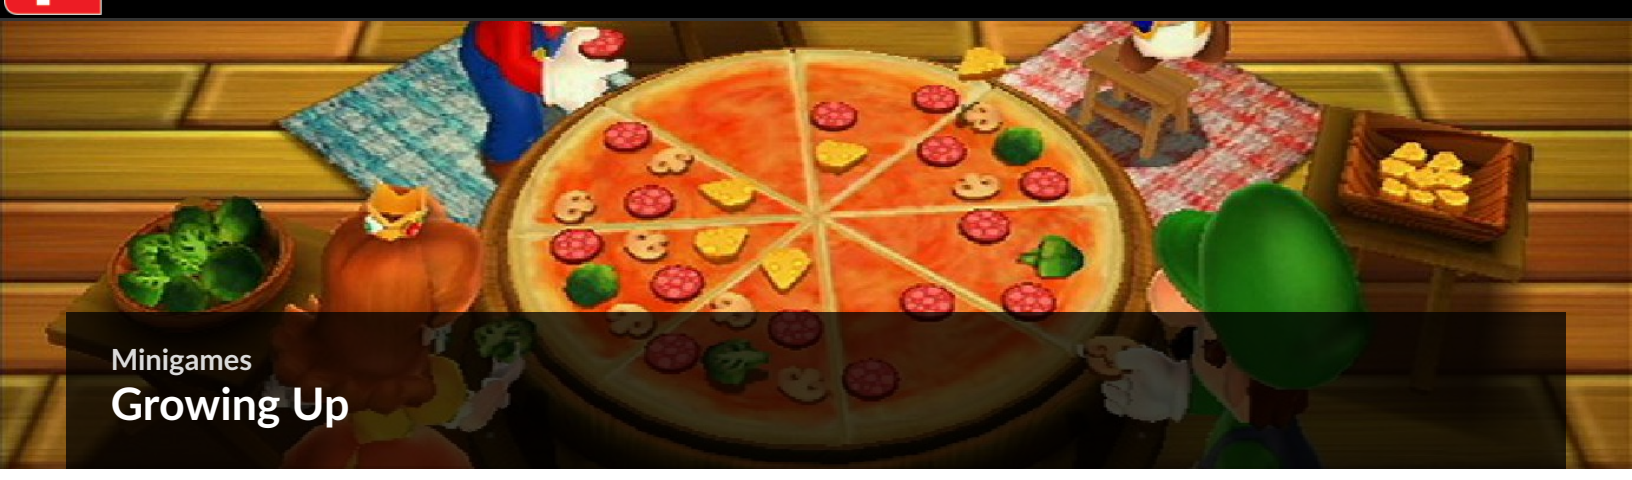

The Goombas spread themselves out fairly evenly, but a few houses will be left without quite as many Goomba guests.

Work backward in your mind as you watch the Goombas zoom and the houses bounce, and mentally eliminate any houses that don't seem to be bursting with very many of these little baddies.

By the end of this zany minigame, you'll likely have narrowed your choices down to one or two homes.

Each player can choose only one house, so be quick to make your selection before a rival steals your top pick! Guess right and those Goombas will really be impressed—for whatever that's worth!

Minigames

Growing Up

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Depending on the button that appears onscreen, press the D-Pad, A, B, 1, or 2 to make your vine grow.

Growing Up...it happens to us all. But you won't find any growing pains in this lively minigame! In Growing Up, you must be quick to press the right buttons that appear onscreen in an effort to make your vine grow taller.

The player with the tallest vine at the end of the event will tower over their peers!

Watch as the icons on the central block spin by like a slot machine. When the all that spinning stops, quickly press the button that's shown on the block to make your vine grow.

The first player to guess correctly will grow their vine the most, while guessing wrong means no growth at all.

The icons will spin by faster or slower and for different lengths of time each turn. Don't try to anticipate when they'll stop; just be ready to hit the correct button the moment that they do.

There are five different button possibilities, so be prepared to press any button on your Wii Remote—even that tough-to-reach B button on the underside!

Note

When the D-Pad icon shows up on the block, pressing in any direction on the D-Pad will work.

Because the vines grow so high offscreen, it's tough to tell who's in the lead during close Growing Up matches.

Don't worry about your rivals' progress—just keep guessing correctly to keep growing your vine higher and higher. Gotta love the view from the top!

Minigames

Jigsaw Jumble

How to Play

Point the Wii Remote at the puzzle piece you want to take, and press and hold A.
While still holding A, move the piece to the missing area and release A.

This is a fast and fun puzzle game! In Jigsaw Jumble, your goal is to complete a series of five puzzles faster than your rivals. Think you can finish this formidable task the fastest? Sure you can!

Only one piece is missing from each puzzle, but several spare pieces appear nearby. One of the presented pieces turns out to be the perfect fit—the others are just there to confuse you!

To try fitting a piece, simply point at it and press and hold A, then drag it to the missing spot and release A. Did it fit? If not, hurry up and try again!

The first few puzzles are pretty easy, but things become more challenging as you progress. More and more spare pieces are presented, making it tough to pick the right one right away.

It helps to choose the proper shape first; this lets you narrow your search and eliminate some of the false pieces. Now start looking at the pieces' patterns to seal the deal!

Tip

There's no penalty for guessing wrong, so in a pinch, just start throwing pieces at that pesky puzzle!

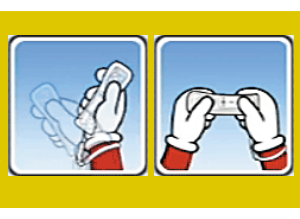

The dots next to each player's portrait indicate how many puzzles they've completed. Piece all five of those puzzles together before your rivals and claim the top prize!

Minigames

Launch Break

How to Play

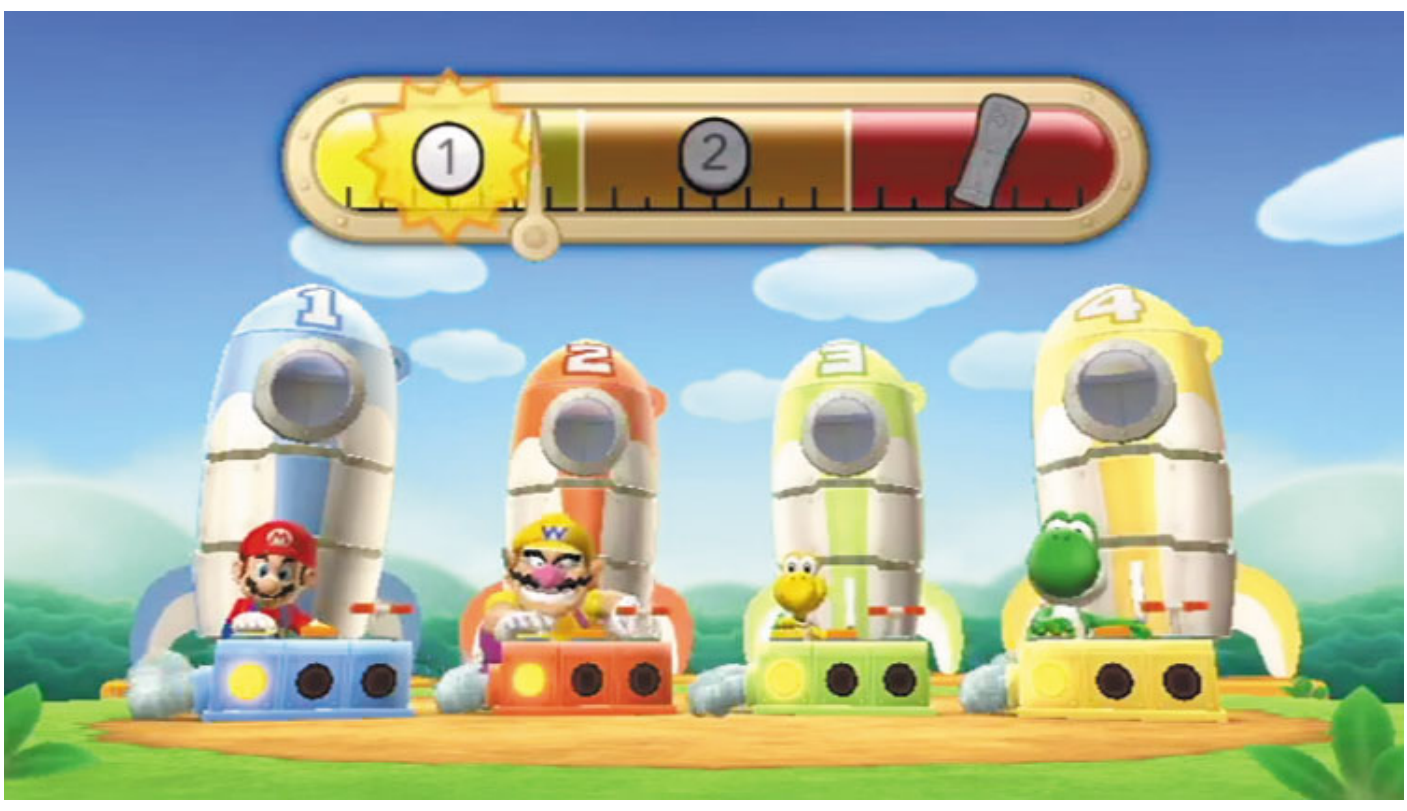

Rapidly enter the controls seen on the Energy meter at the screen's top:
first 1, then 2, and finally, shake the Wii Remote.

Few things are cooler than rockets, especially when you get to launch one yourself! In Launch Break, each player must rapidly enter three different commands in an effort to launch a three-stage rocket.

Whoever enters their commands the fastest will soar to the greatest heights!

This challenge is a button-masher's dream. Simply watch the meter at the screen's top and press the indicated button as fast as you can to juice up your rocket's engine.

Keep hammering that button until the meter moves to the next segment, then quickly switch to the next button and continue tapping away!

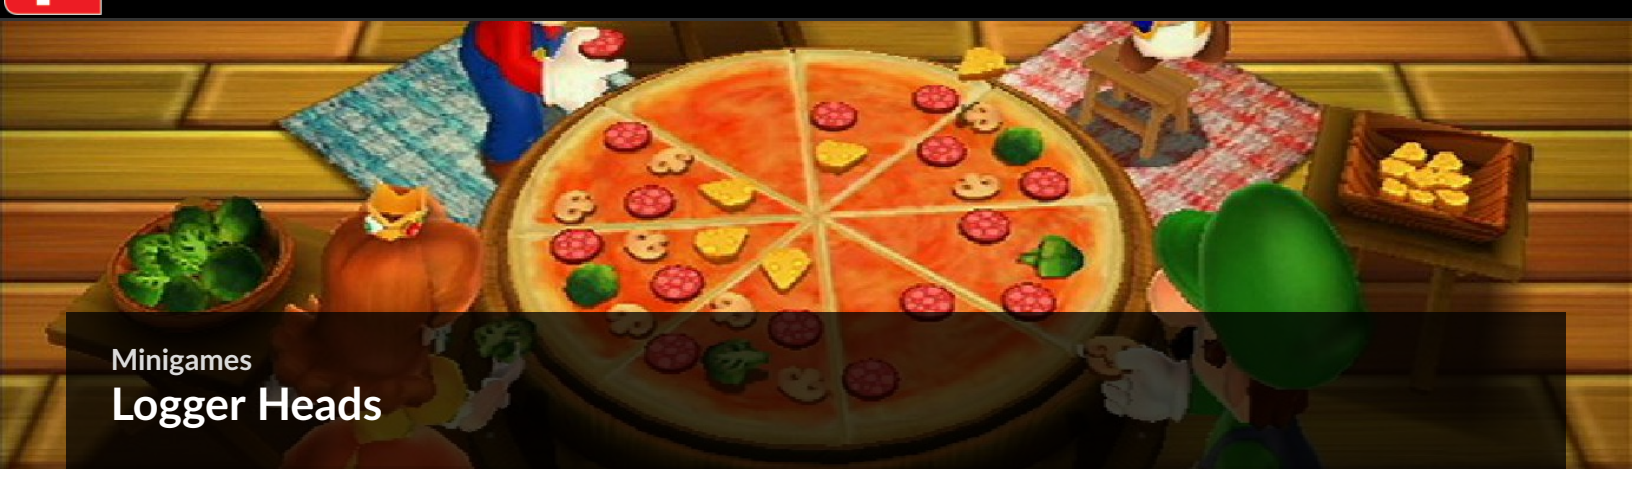

Every second counts, so quickly make your transition between the different buttons.

In a close match, the switch from pressing 2 to shaking the Wii Remote becomes a critical moment—flip that controller over as fast as you can and shake it like you've never shook before!

When the meter finally reads full, all of the rockets blast off in unison. As the shuttles streak gloriously toward the heavens, they begin to initiate their three-stage boost protocols.

Players who weren't quite so fast at this button-mashing madness soon begin to sputter and fall behind, leaving only the fastest masher to boldly go where no one has gone before!

Logger Heads

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Swing the Wii Remote downward to chop with your ax. When a Bob-omb appears, press and hold A to duck and avoid the explosion.

Hey there, Jack, want to cut some lumber? In Logger Heads, you get to learn the value of an honest day's work.

Swing your Wii Remote like an ax and chop each log before your opponents do the job for you. The first player to split three hunks of wood will find a bonus in their next paycheck!

Wait patiently with your ax poised at the ready while a curious wooden fellow takes his time picking out the perfect piece of wood.

The moment he lays down a block, hurry and swing your Wii Remote downward to hack it in half with your trusty ax!

Beware: Sometimes the little wooden fellow will place a dangerous Bob-omb on the chopping block instead of a chunk of wood. Does that guy need glasses or what?

Wait, never mind what he needs—you need to hurry up and press 3 to duck for cover before that Bob-omb blows!And perhaps later, a long talk with the safety supervisor might be in order.

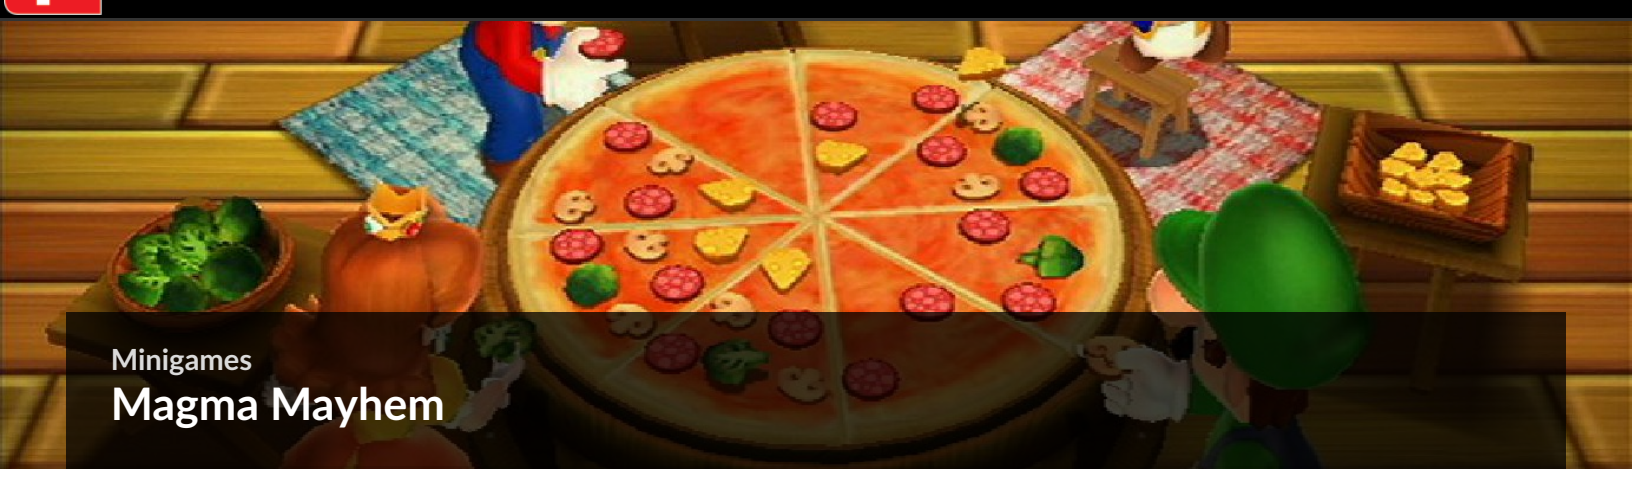

Caution

Be careful not to swing your ax at a Bob-omb or it'll blast away one of your progress points!

Chopping wood sure is hard work, but the faster you cut, the sooner your hard day's work will be done.

Always be ready to swing your Wii Remote downward at any given moment, but keep your thumb over that A button just in case a Bob-omb appears on the block. Now put your back into it!

Magma Mayhem

How to Play

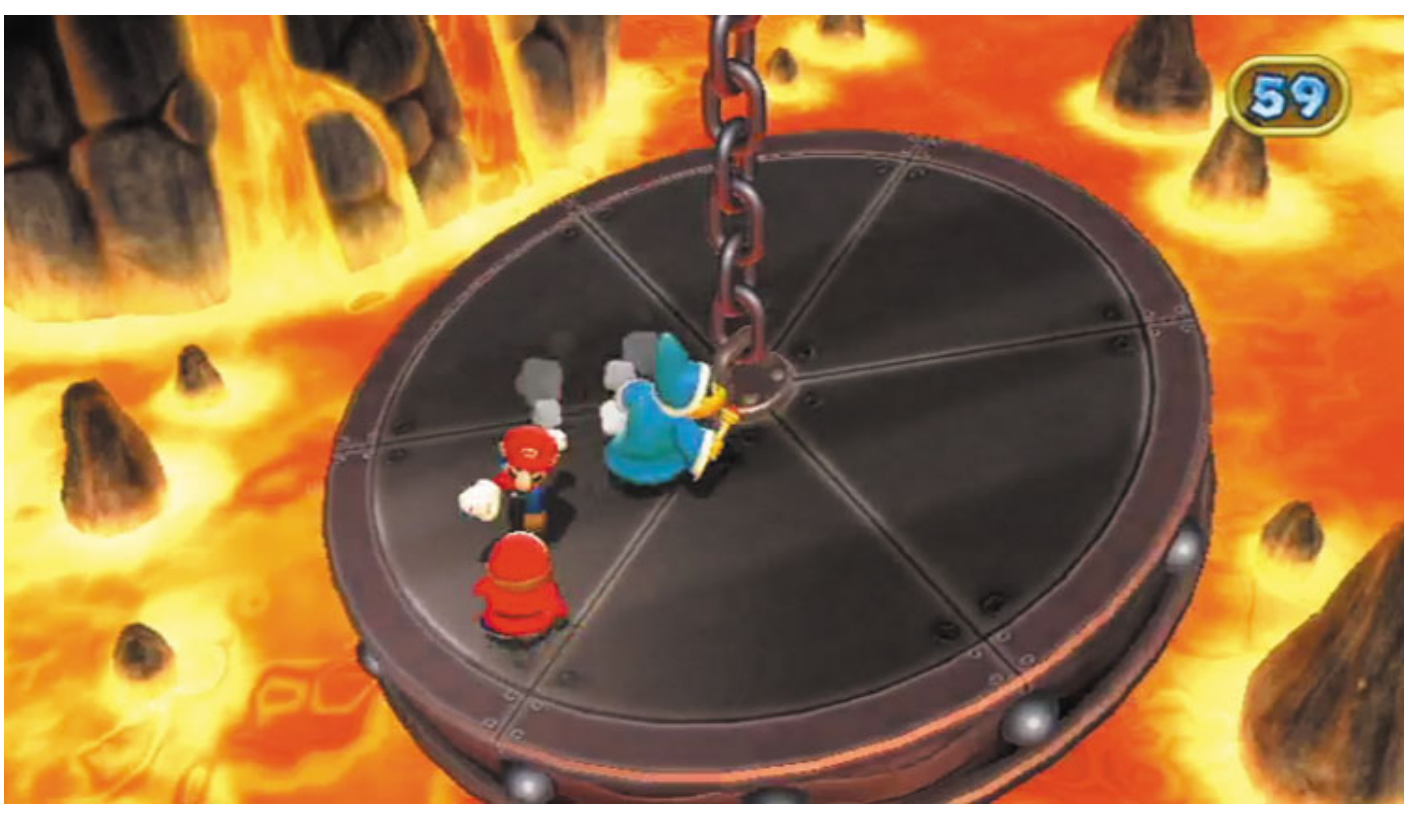

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move, 1 to punch, 2 to jump, and 1 while jumping to kick.

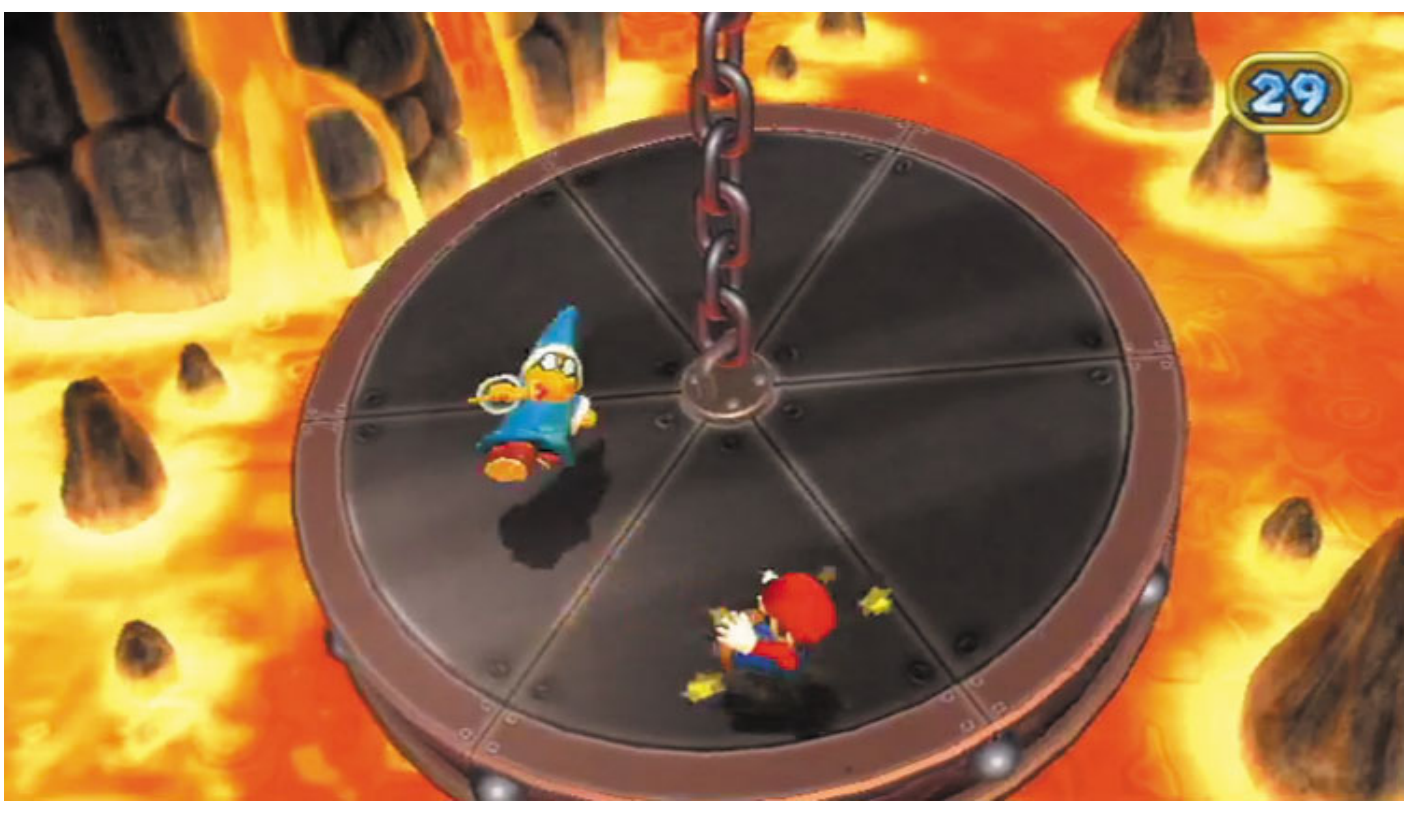

The heat is on during Magma Mayhem! In this frantic Free-for-All, players battle it out atop a teetering platform that's suspended above a huge pool of liquid-hot magma.

Throw punches and kicks in an effort to knock off your opponents and be the last player standing!

This treacherous iron platform is suspended by a central chain, meaning it will lean like a balance beam under the players' weight.

Do your best to keep away from the edges as you sprint around the center, and jump when you're near the edge to escape a fiery fate!

Of course, knocking your rivals around is also important, because they'll be trying to do the same to you.

Pressing 1 to throw a punch is all well and good, but your fisticuffs don't pack much of a wallop. Instead, try pressing 2 to jump, then quickly press 1 in midair to unleash a powerful dropkick!

You can boot players much farther than you can punch them, making kicks the ideal method of rival disposal.

Note

Players are granted a brief moment of invincibility after being punched or kicked, so if your first hit doesn't cause a fall, back off before trying again.

By the same token, take advantage of your invincibility and go on the offensive without fear!

Tip

If you're quick to press 1 immediately after jumping, you can unleash a short kick that will strike standing opponents just like a punch!

With a small teetering platform and a bunch of rowdy rivals to worry about, Magma Mayhem certainly is a pulse-raising affair.

Keep to the center whenever possible and use quick kicks to knock your opponents into the unforgiving lava below. Hey, it's survival of the fittest up here!

Manor of Escape

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move. Press up on the D-Pad while standing in front of a door to enter.

What a creepy old building this is! In Manor of Escape, your goal is to pick the right path to the exit door at the bottom of the mansion.

Do this by entering the many doors you find on each floor until you find the right one. The first player to flee through the exit door will be the winner!

Each time you enter a door, you'll emerge from another one in disorienting fashion. Usually you end up stepping out of a different door on your current floor, but when you pick the right portal, you'll pop out of a door on the floor below.

Keep this up until you manage to make your way to the bottom!

Note

There's no chance of moving upward through the manor—it's only possible to work your way down.

You could rush randomly from door to door, trying them all in any order, but it helps to have a system. Running around wastes time, so from the start of the event, simply enter the nearest door to your character.

Then, each time you emerge from a new door, immediately press up on the D-Pad to turn around and reenter it.

You'll end up popping out of yet another door—just keep on pressing up on the D-Pad to check all the doors as fast as you can!

When you emerge from a door that you've already entered, you'll have to run over to another—there's no sense in checking the same door twice!Keep track of the doors you've been through so you don't waste time retracing your steps.

Pay attention to your rivals, too, and be quick to give chase when they manage to find the right door before you.Don't stop moving through the manor until you finally escape this freaky place!

Mecha Choice

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press A, 1, or 2 to choose between the different routes. You can change your pick until time runs out.

What's this? Another creepy old building full of doors! But in Mecha Choice, you've got more than just doors to worry about—a huge Mechakoopa army is hot on your heels!

To survive this suspenseful scene, you've got to pick the right path at every junction. Choosing wrong leads to a dead end—and that's not the kind of place you want to wind up here!

You have a choice of three doors at every junction. Two of these doors will lead you to the next chamber, but passing through the wrong one will end your romp. Let's hope that doesn't happen!

Because you never know which door leads to where, this event boils down to pure luck. Should you follow your rivals through the same door, or do you prefer to blaze your own path into the unknown?

You can change your choice as many times as you like before time expires—then the Mechakoopa horde will be upon you, and it's time to mosey!

If your luck holds out, you'll keep making the right decisions and progressing through this creepy abode.

All you need to do is survive longer than your rivals to achieve victory. Here's hoping you don't wind up Mechakoopa food!

Peak Precision

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad, A, 1, or 2 to match the icon on the handholds to climb.

Peak Precision is a fun minigame that favors players who love rapid button-input combos.

In this event, your goal is to climb a sheer cliff by pressing the correct buttons as quickly as possible. Be the first to reach the top to stand tall and proud in victory!

Simply press each button in sequence to grab each handhold and climb higher and higher. You can hit those buttons as fast as you like, so get into a rapid rhythm and shoot for speed!

You can see several buttons ahead of you—this can help you prepare for each button as you quickly climb the cliff.

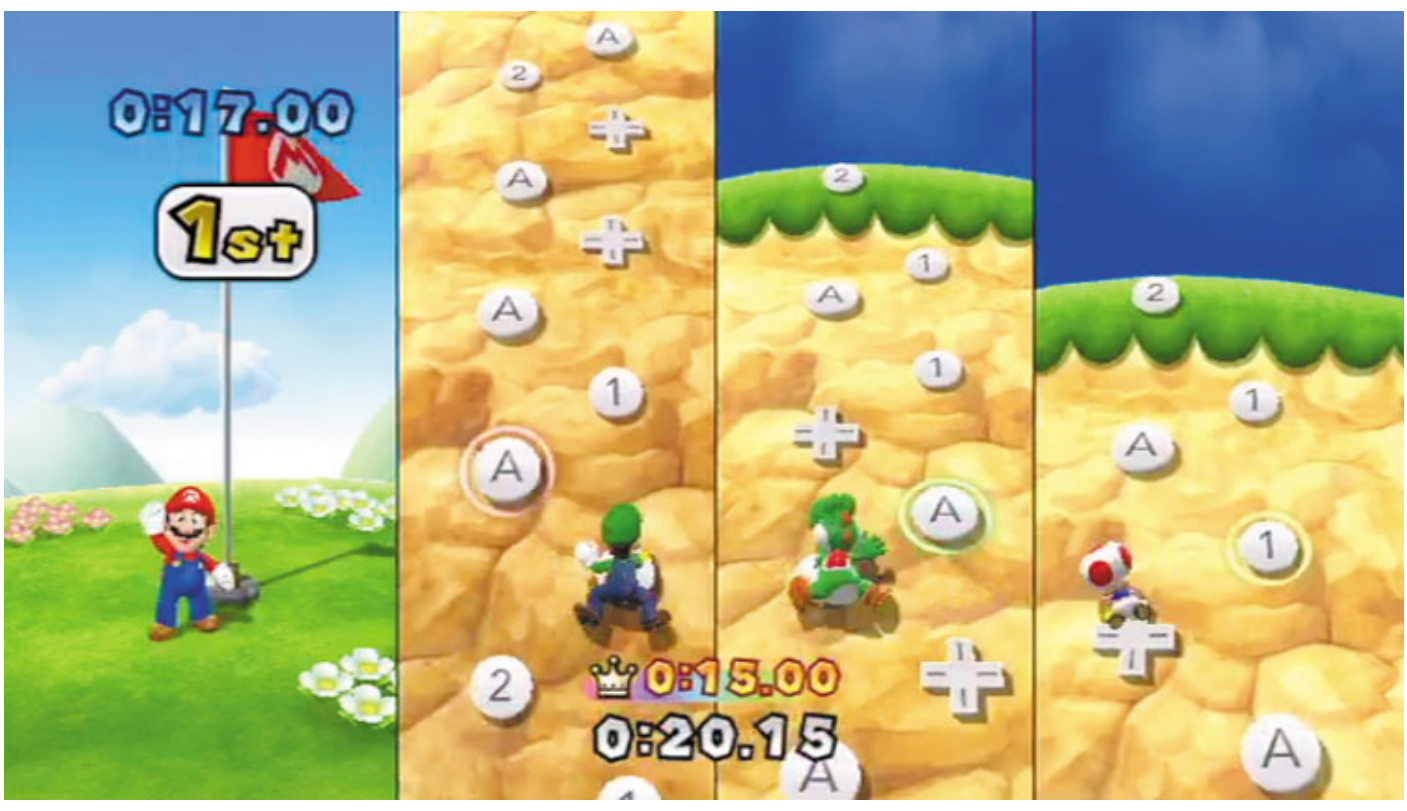

Note

You can press any direction on the D-Pad when you see a the D-Pad handhold.

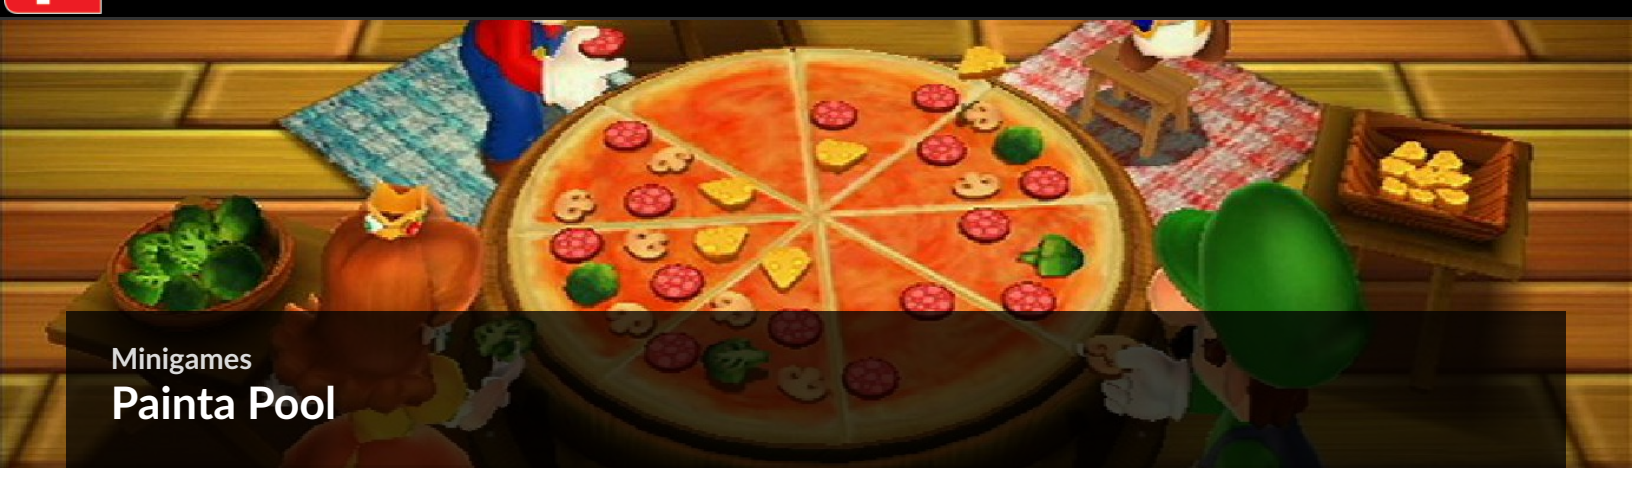

Careful: Pressing the wrong button will make you slide back a spot! This can really mess you up, because now you have to enter the previous button again just to get back to the point from which you fell.

Missing buttons slows you down, and it forces you to input extra commands. Speed is important, but so is accuracy!

Boy, this is quite a cliff! There are lots of handholds to scale, so don't become too discouraged if you happen to slip up once or twice—it happens.

Just do your best to keep your rhythm going as you bound from one grip to the next. The fresh mountain air smells so much sweeter when you finish first!

Painta Pool

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt it in the direction you want your character to move.

If you're up for cool times in a pool, then Pianta Pool is the game for you! Have fun in the sun while a friendly Pianta tosses colored rings into a tropical pond.

Hurry and tilt your Wii Remote to swim after those rings! You score points each time you pick up a ring, and the player with the most points at the end of the game wins an all-expenses-paid tour of Isle Delfino!

Pink rings are worth three points, while gold rings are worth five. Watch the shadows of the rings the Pianta tosses to see where they'll land, and start swimming after those valuable golds while they're still sailing through the air.

However, give up on the golds if you see they'll land too far away—pink rings are worth only two points less, so it's better to grab a pink ring than to risk not scoring at all.

Note

The Pianta will always throw one ring less than the total number of players. Make sure you grab a ring every round!

Once you collect a ring, a school of tropical Cheep Cheep will leap through it, and points will be added to your score.

After all of the rings have been collected, the players automatically toss them back to the Pianta, who will in turn hurl them into the water again.

Watch those shadows and paddle over to a ring before your rivals swipe them all!

Bumping into rivals can send you off-course, so try to keep your distance. Or go on the offensive and bump your buddies all about to add laughs to this lighthearted event.

You can score points right up to the final second in Pianta Pool, so don't stop swimming after those rings until the pool closes!

Pier Pressure

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to pick a fishing rod while in front of it.

The pressure is on during this game of chance! In Pier Pressure, each player takes turns reeling in one of the many finishing rods that line a wooden jetty.

Players who pull up an Urchin are eliminated, and the last player left on the pier wins the catch of the day!

This simple minigame comes down to pure luck, because there's no sure way to tell which rods hold Urchins and which ones don't.

The turn order is also chosen at random at the start of the event, adding yet another layer of chance to this game of catch and release.

Simply run up to any rod you like and press 2 to reel in its line. Breathe easy if you pull in a Cheep Cheep—you've survived this round!

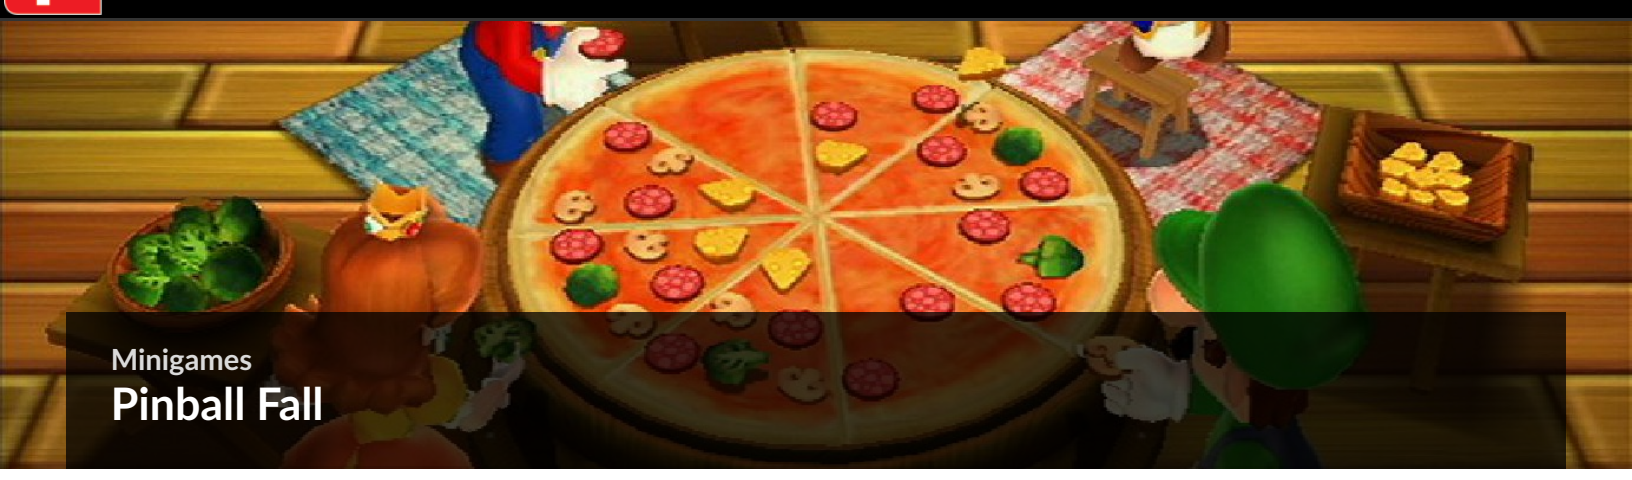

Depending on how many players are fishing for the win, up to three of the pier's rods will sport ugly Urchins.

Yanking up one of these nasty baddies earns you a dunk into the blue, ending your day on the lake. Here's hoping the Cheep Cheep are biting instead!

Though the rods bob and bend to different degrees, there's no discernible pattern to be found in this.

You never know what might be waiting beneath those waves, so just yank any pole to see what luck you're having today.

Pinball Fall

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at a ball, and press A to select. If your ball gets trapped in a hole, shake the Wii Remote to free it.

Pinball Fall is another fun and simple game of luck. Players who participate in this wacky event stand atop a tall hill, and each one chooses a ball.

The balls are then sent tumbling down the hill, and the first one to reach the bottom wins this crazy race!

Take a good look at the hill as the camera pans up toward the players at the start of the game.

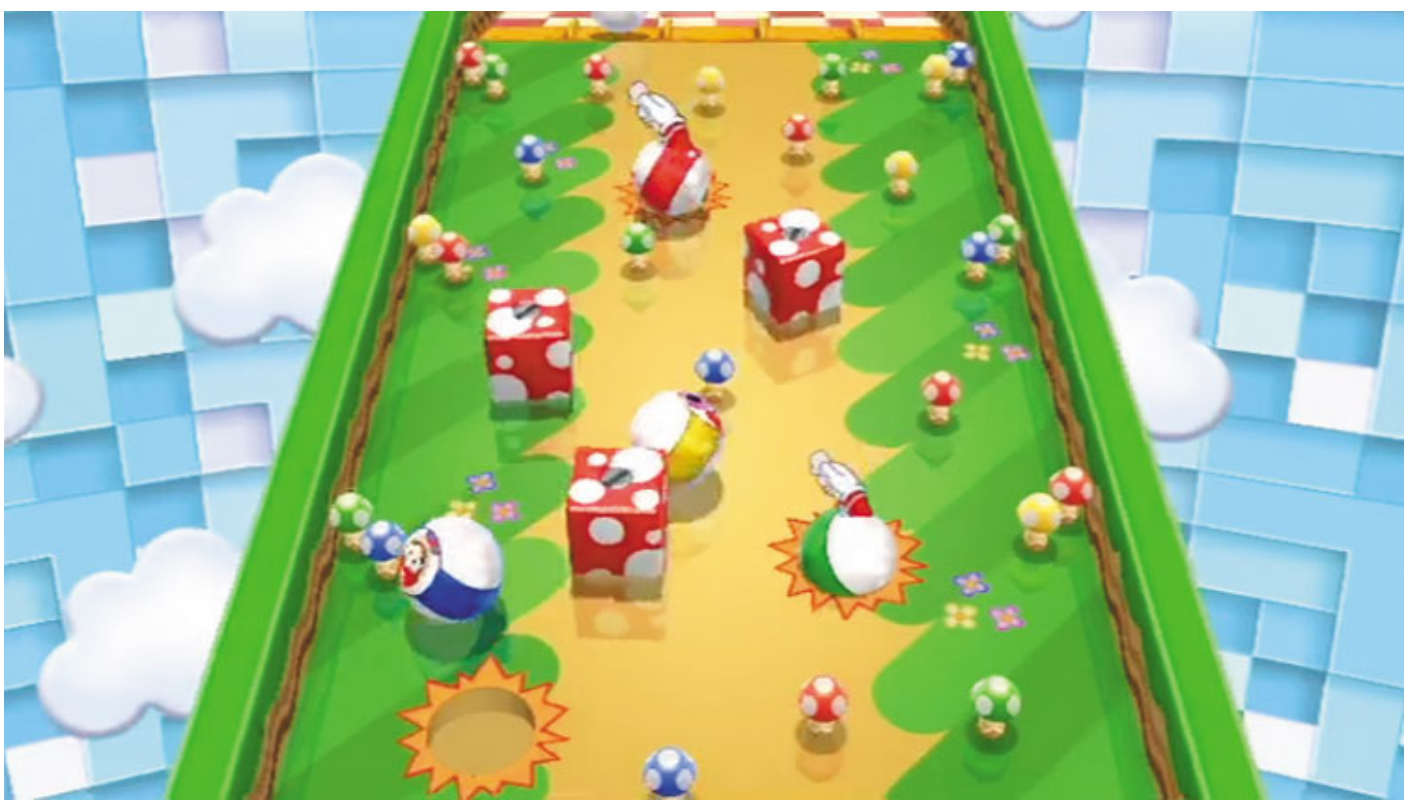

Try to spy potential trouble areas, such as large clusters of mushrooms, big spinning blocks, and shallow holes that your ball might fall into.

The idea is to send your ball rolling down the path of least resistance, so pick a ball that doesn't seem like it will veer off and hit too many obstacles.

Chance plays a big role in determining how well your orb will tumble. Balls will bounce off of mushrooms and blocks, causing them to take an unpredictable route down the hill.

They'll also become stuck inside of those shallow holes if they roll over them—be ready to frantically shake your Wii Remote to free your ball whenever it becomes stuck!

Of all the hazards your ball might hit, those holes are usually the worst. Pick a ball whose path seems least likely to send it tumbling toward too many holes, and see if your luck is rolling high!

Piranha Patch

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move.

An afternoon of flower picking can be relaxing and fun—unless your field is full of pesky Piranha Plants!

In this fun yet frantic minigame, players run around a grassy garden in search of budding flowers.

Each flower you pick is worth points—whoever winds up with the highest score when time expires will be crowned the ultimate picker!

Pink flowers are worth one point, while rare gold flowers are worth three. Watch out for those sneaky Piranha Plants, though—they'll pop up from time to time and chomp away one of your points if you get too close!

Tip

Hang out near the tall grass in the center of the garden—that's where the gold flowers tend to grow! But note that your speed is reduced in the tall grass, so keep this in mind.

Flowers can be collected only after they've blossomed, but you never know what might emerge from those growing buds.

Therefore, it's best to keep a little distance from the buds as they begin to sprout, because a Piranha Plant might just pop up instead of something more pleasant!

Caution

Piranha Plants can stretch out and bite you from a short distance. Keep away once you've spied one of these ugly pests!

Though gold flowers are great grabs, they're really rare. Pink flowers are far more plentiful, so hurry and grab them the moment you see one pop up.

All flowers wilt after a brief time, and your rivals are also racing after them, so you've got to be quick! Pack your basket full of sweet-smelling flora and enjoy the rest of your golden afternoon.

Pit or Platter

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt the Wii Remote to control the angle of your platter.

In Pit or Platter, your goal is to maneuver a ball around a plate by tilting the Wii Remote to adjust the platter's angle.

Roll the ball into the spaces that light up to score points. The first player to clear 100 points gets dessert!

Simply tilt your Wii Remote to maneuver your platter—the ball will roll on its own, adhering to the laws of physics.

To score points, tilt the platter so that the ball rolls into contact with the edges that light up—but don't tilt the plate too drastically or your ball will tumble over the side!

The trick to scoring high in Pit or Platter lies in keeping your ball on the plate. At first you earn only one point for touching the lit areas, but the more you hit without dropping your ball, the higher your score multiplier will soar!

Your multiplier resets each time the ball takes a tumble, so do your best not to let that happen. The maximum score you can earn for hitting the lit segments is five.

There's a bit of a lip at the plate's edge, which helps to keep the ball from tumbling off. As your ball nears the lip, begin to counter-tilt in the opposite direction to slow its roll and prevent it from falling.

It takes a little getting used to, but as long as you keep your ball on the platter, you won't find yourself in the pits!

Pizza Me, Mario

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Swing the Wii Remote to toss your toppings onto the pizza.

Ever made a pizza from scratch before? It's really fun, and so is Pizza Me, Mario! In this unique minigame, players must toss their special toppings upon a big pizza pie.

The pizza spins round and round. Be the first to hurl all of your goodies onto every slice to be crowned top chef!

Simply wave the Wii Remote upward to toss your toppings onto the spinning pizza. If a slice is already covered by your type of topping, additional ones will simply bounce off.

There's no penalty for wasting toppings in this manner, so just wave that Wii Remote as fast as you can!

Once the pie is mostly covered, you'll need to be a little more tactful with your tosses.

You usually need to throw your toppings when the desired slice is two slices away—but sometimes the pizza will start spinning faster than normal, meaning that you need to toss your toppings even earlier in advance.

Focus on one slice at a time, following that slice with your eyes so you can work at perfecting the timing of your tosses.

This minigame starts off as a frantic affair, but by the time that pie is nearly done, it really comes down to proper timing.

Do your best to make each throw count until every slice is packed with premium deliciousness. Now that's amore!

Player Conveyor

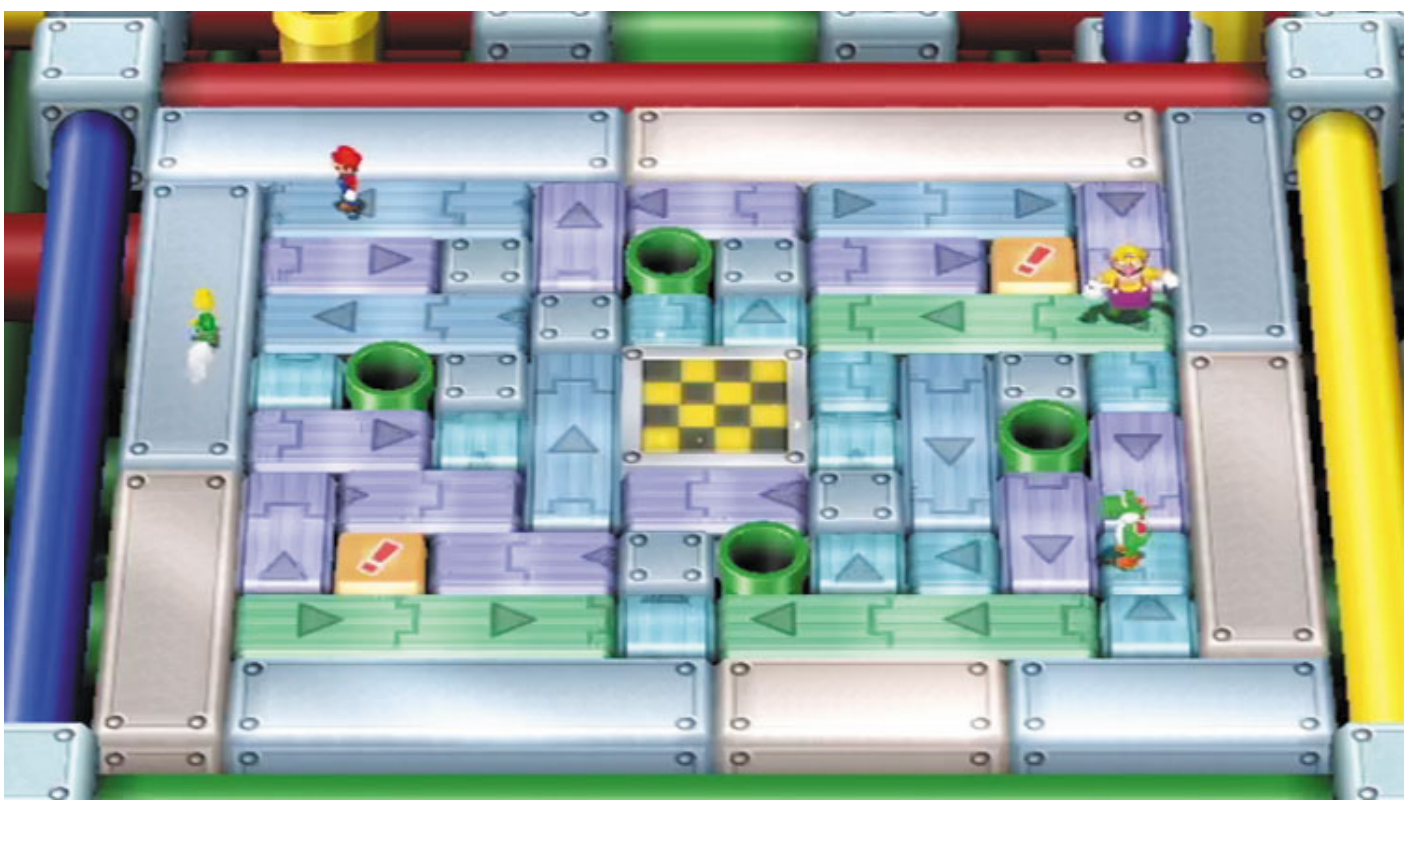

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move.

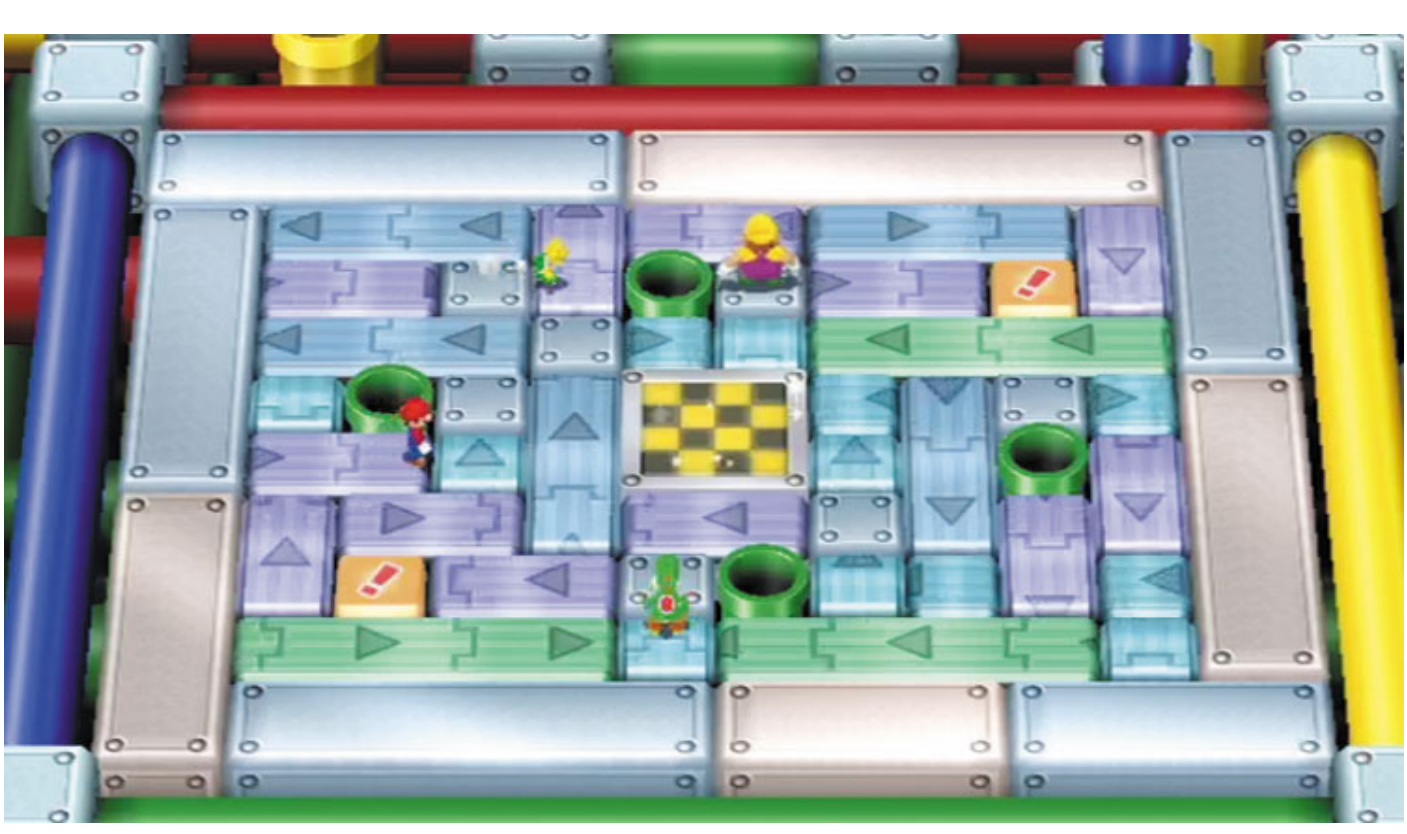

In Player Conveyor, you must make a mad dash for the goal at the center of a very unusual room. This is easier said than done, for you must navigate several conveyor belts and warp pipes to reach the goal. The first player to step foot on the goal zone is the winner!

Every game of Player Conveyor is different because the belts are always randomized. Once you step onto a belt, you can't step off of it until you reach the end of the line. Stepping on one belt might take you on a wild ride across several more, so think before you move!

Tip

You can run all around the outside edge of the area. Use this to quickly reach the belts you want to ride!

You need to use those green warp pipes in order to reach the goal. Entering one warp pipe will spit you out of another—look for the pipe that presents you with a passage toward the goal, then do your best to pop out of it by entering the other pipes in the room. The warp pipes are always set in the same position in the room, but the way the pipes connect will be different each game.

Play continues until all but one player have reached the central goal. Just keep aiming to enter those warp pipes until one of them spits you out near a belt that will bring you to the center. If you're feeling lost, try mentally working backward from the goal—one of those belts is sure to lead there!

Plunder Ground

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move. Press 2 when standing in front of a chest to select it.

In Plunder Ground, your goal is to reap the most jewels by keeping track of a bunch of moving treasure chests. The chests are carried by Monty Moles that burrow underground until they surface, and then you can make your choice. Pick the right chests and finish with the most loot to walk off with a fortune!

Plunder Ground takes place over three brief rounds. Jewels drop into the open treasure chests at the start of each round, and each chest receives the same amount of jewels except for one, which is always left empty. Keep your eye on that empty chest, but only so that you don't choose it!

Once the chests are packed full of loot, the Monty Moles quickly burrow underground and begin to tunnel about in a circle. Keep track of the chest that's empty to ensure you don't wind up claiming it! When the Monty Moles surface, grab any of the other chests to add points to your score.

Tip

Run around the area while the Monty Moles are moving to confuse and mislead your rivals while you keep your eyes on the prize!

The Monty Moles will move faster and faster each round, upping the challenge factor as this zany event plays out. During the third and final round, one of the chests will receive more jewels than the rest. Do your best to keep tabs on this most precious chest and try to claim its valuables to ensure a rich victory!

Polar Extreme

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.
If you fall into the water, rapidly press 2 to climb back onto the ice.

This minigame is cool as ice! In Polar Extreme, players must rush from one drifting iceberg to the next, steadily sprinting along a treacherous and frigid course. A rescue boat lies at the far end of the run—first one there gets a hot cup of cocoa!

Careful: Those innocent-looking icebergs will teeter and crack as you jump on them, quickly breaking apart under the weight of you and your rivals. Just keep running and jumping as the bergs break up, aiming to land safely on the drifting chunks that remain. This will keep you above the waterline and out of that freezing sea.

Caution

Smaller icebergs will quickly sink when you hop to them. Hurry and jump to the next hunk of ice or you'll take a frigid dip!

If you ever find yourself treading water, hammer 2 as fast as you can to quickly hop back up to dry ice. The faster you press 2, the quicker you'll escape the freezing fluid. Now hurry and start running again to warm yourself up!

It's not long before you see the bow of the rescue boat. Don't try jumping onto the boat too soon; the ship drifts off a bit, and you'll end up plunging into the bitter blue! Leap to the foreground icebergs instead and circle around the bow of the craft, aiming to leap aboard from the side. Now, how about that cup of cocoa?

Ring Leader

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Swing the Wii Remote upward to make your dolphin jump. Hold A to dive, and then swing the Wii Remote upward to perform a high jump.

In Ring Leader, you get to ride a racing dolphin through the warm summer waters, leaping up to soar through a series of hovering hoops. Each floating ring you pass through scores you some points, and the player with the highest score at the run's end will be named the ace racer!

Your dolphin is highly trained: With a simple wave of the Wii Remote, it obediently leaps upward with fluid grace. Jump your dolphin in this manner whenever you see pink rings headed your way. These rings are worth one point apiece, but only if you time your jumps properly and pass directly through them!

Gold rings are worth three points when you sail through them, but they require a little more effort to reach. These rings float way up high, so you've got to prepare your dolphin for the big jump. Do this by pressing and holding A when you see gold rings on the horizon. Your dolphin will then dive underwater, ready to bound up and soar even higher than normal. Flick your Wii Remote upward as you approach the rings to sail through them and score those sweet, sweet points!

Note

You need to jump a little earlier than you might suspect when aiming for gold rings.

Tip

Keep an eye on upcoming rings even as you pass through the hoops so you can prepare yourself for the next jump.

Properly timing your dolphin's jumps takes a bit of practice, but you'll soon be gauging the distance and leaping through those rings with ease. Do your best to pass through them all, but work especially hard at nailing those valuable golds—that's where the money is! The meter at the screen's bottom indicates how far through the run you've gone. Step up your game if you're trailing behind and make those last few leaps count!

Skipping Class

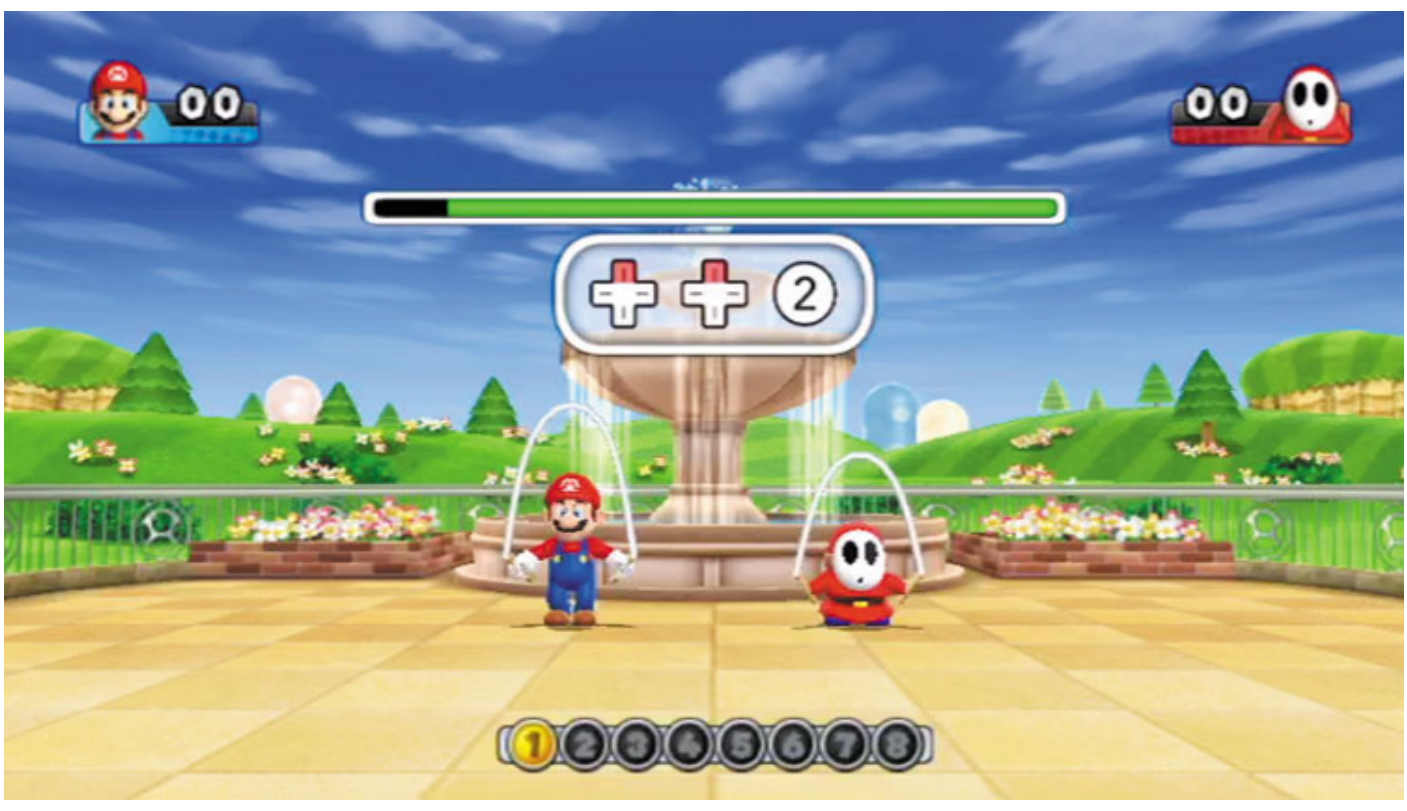

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press 2 or up, down, left, or right on the D-Pad in the order shown onscreen from left to right.

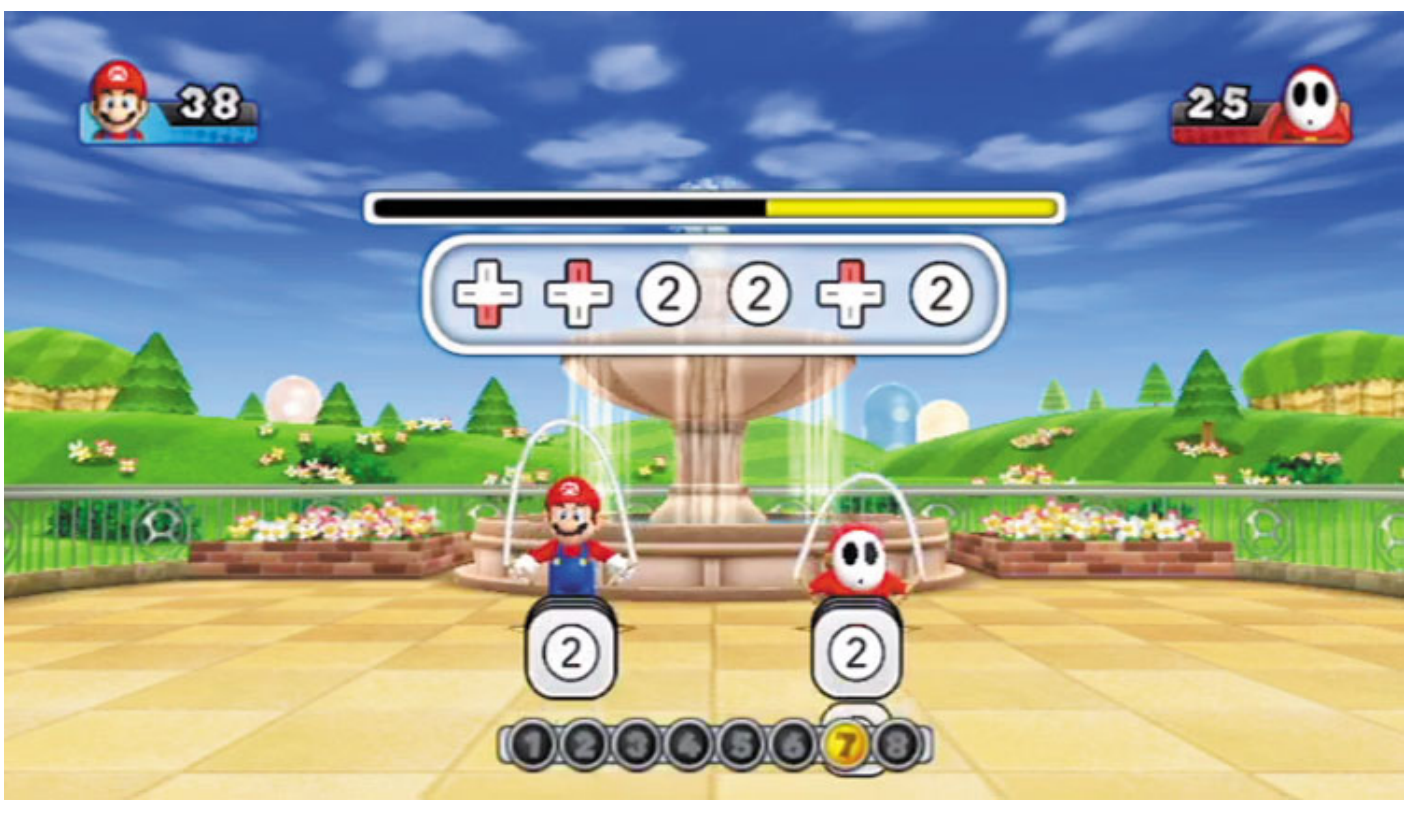

You've got to think and act fast in Skipping Class, a speed-based button-input minigame where your goal is to perform sick tricks with a jump rope. Quickly input the buttons that appear onscreen to bust out those combos and serve your opponents with your mad rope-jumping skills!

You have just seconds to input each string of buttons, so watch the screen carefully and bang out those moves. Speed is key, because the first player to complete each combo will earn extra points! Don't go so fast that you make a mistake—you won't score at all if you hit the wrong button during a sequence. And that's just not cool!

Tip

Don't pay too much attention to your Wii Remote controller's sound effects as you hit the buttons—they sometimes lag behind the action. Just input those commands as fast as you can to perform each combo with blistering speed!

There are seven stages to Skipping Class, each one more difficult than the last. At first the button combos are pretty simple to punch in, but they soon become longer and more challenging. Your rope-jumping tricks become increasingly impressive as well. Take a moment to enjoy those cool moves after each successful string!

Skipping Class isn't just fun, but it's also great exercise—for your thumbs, that is! This is one of the easier and more enjoyable combo-crunching minigames in Mario Party 9, because you only need to worry about pressing the four direction buttons on g and 2, all of which are within easy reach. Practice your skills and whip that rope around like nobody's business!

Skyjinks

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

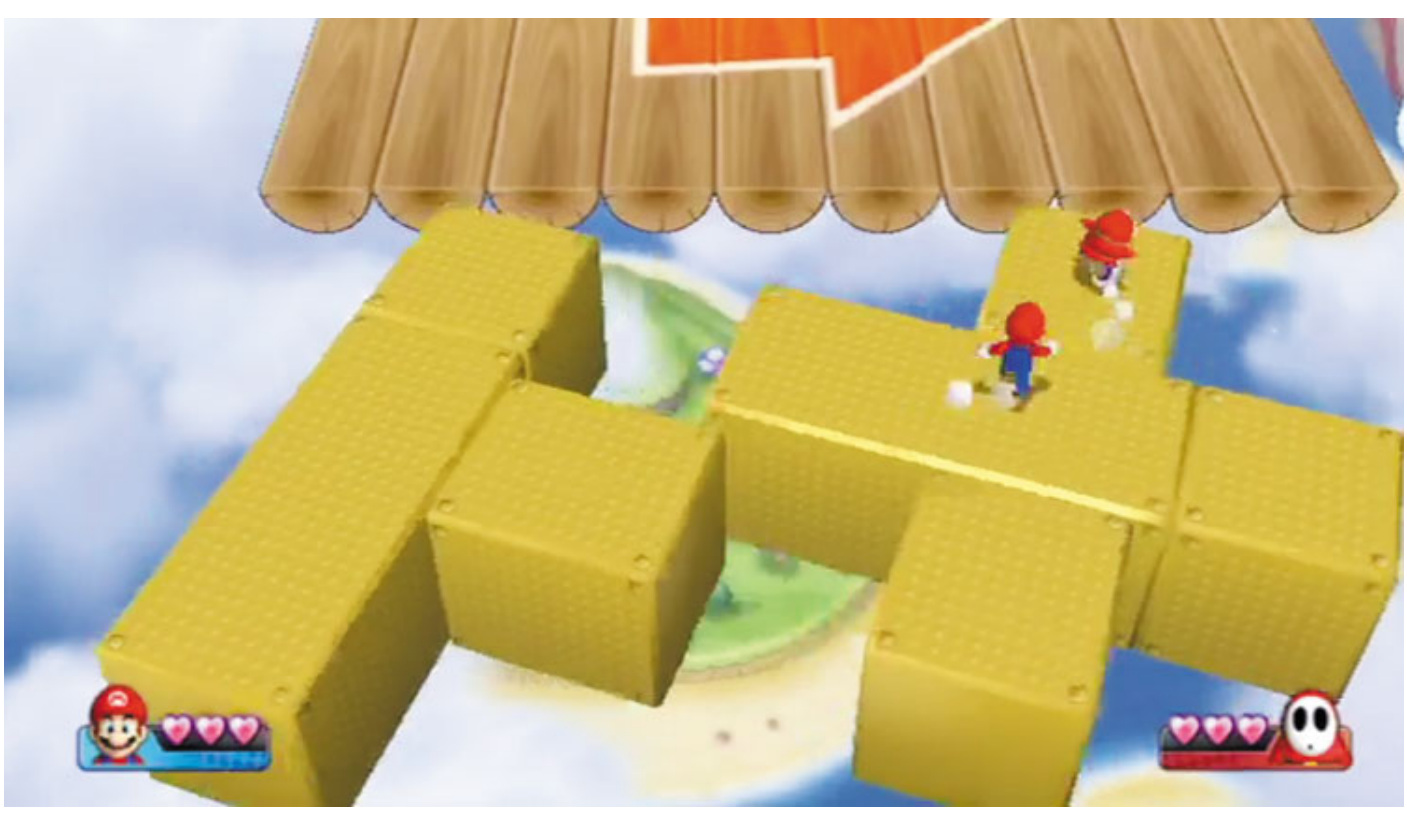

Skyjinks is a high-flying minigame in which players must navigate a short but tricky obstacle course that lies high above the sky. Moving platforms, rotating blocks, and bouncy clouds make for a challenging run as you recklessly rush toward the finish line. Race hard and strive to be the first player to reach that lofty goal!

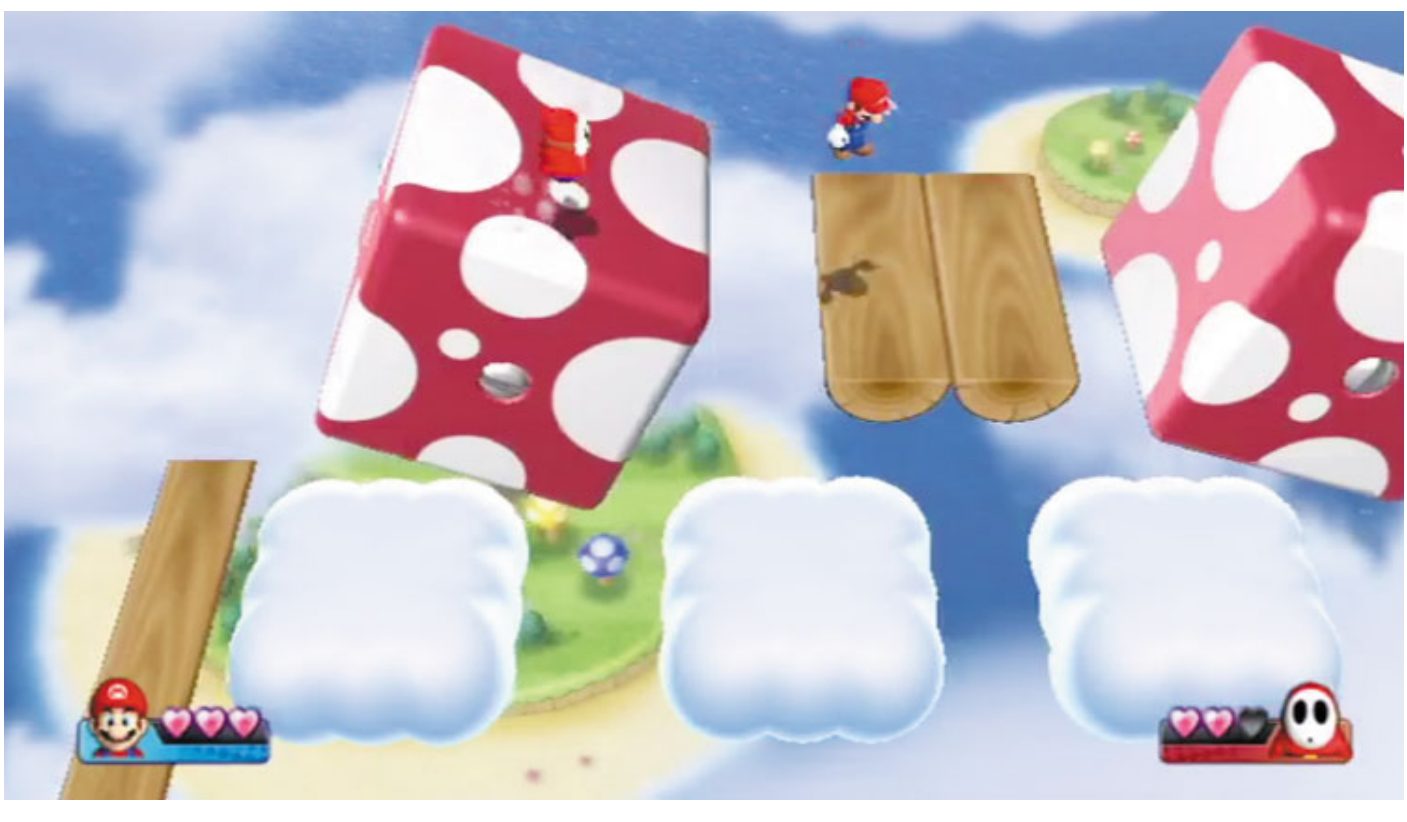

The Skyjinks course never changes, so you'll always sprint along the same treacherous track. The first slew of spinning platforms are easy enough to navigate: Just run to the edge of each one as you jump from one to the next. You can't jump very far, so make sure you mosey close to those edges!

Caution

Each time you take a tumble off the course, you lose one of your three hearts. It's game-over if you lose all of your hearts, so don't let that happen!

When you reach the rotating blocks, try to cross the ones on the right, or at least work your way over to the right as you go. This will eventually land you on the far right edge of the wide wooden platform that follows, placing you in prime position to gain a leg up in the rest of the course!

The final stretch is the most dangerous of all: Rotating blocks and bouncy clouds will have you struggling not to plummet. Those spinning blocks are usually bad news, so we recommend bounding along the foreground clouds instead.

Again, make sure you bounce from the edge of each cloud to ensure you clear the gaps and land safely on the next puffy platform ahead. And don't go trusting those small wooden platforms, either—they break apart shortly after you land on them! Once you're past these final obstacles, all you've left to do is cross the finish line. Bolt over to the screen's far right and make sure you place first!

Smash Compactor

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press the D-Pad to move, 1 to punch, 2 to jump, and 1 while jumping to kick.

This minigame is a smashing good time! In Smash Compactor, your goal is simply to drop into one of the small holes that open up on the floor. Do this quickly before the ceiling comes crashing down or you'll be smashed to smithereens! The last player standing gets to talk all the trash they want.

Smash Compactor games play out over several rounds—as many as are needed to determine a victor. Keep an eye on those holes and watch for ones that begin to glow with a soft blue light. These will soon open, so fight your way over to them and drop through one!

Note

One player will always be left without a hole to drop through each turn. Be sure that poor fellow isn't you!

Keep your rivals at bay by punching and kicking them. Punches pack less of a wallop than kicks, and it's possible to perform fast dropkicks by quickly pressing 1 immediately after you jump to boot standing opponents across the room!

With a massive falling ceiling to worry about and fisticuffs flying all about, Smash Compactor events are frantic battles for survival. Fight hard to claim a spot near one of those glowing holes and drop down before your rivals can take it. We'd all like to look a little thinner, but there are better ways to go about it than being pancaked!

Snow Go

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to steer, 2 to accelerate, and 1 to reverse. If you get frozen by a snowball, shake the Wii Remote to escape.

Snow Go is a fun wintery racing event in which players speed around a circular track in a snowmobile. Be the first to complete five laps around the circuit to record the first-place finish!

Steering your snowmobile takes a little getting used to, but all you really need to do is steer right and left with g as you press and release 2 to control your speed through the turns.

Be sure to hit that boost ramp every time you round the second corner and enter the upper straight. Missing this ramp forces you to motor through the surrounding thick snow, sacrificing precious seconds!

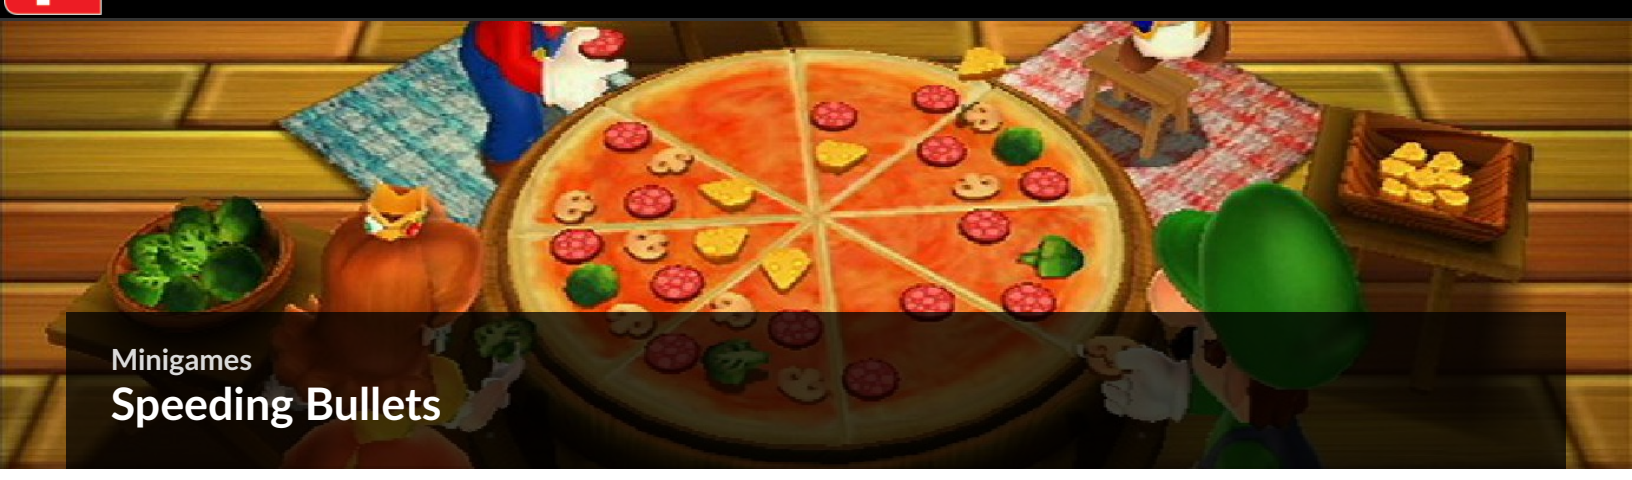

That deep snow can really slow you down, and so can the snowballs thrown by those pesky central snowmen. The snowballs they hurl can land anywhere along the lower half of the track, and these obstacles will freeze your vehicle solid if they strike you or if you run into one.

Quickly shake the Wii Remote to break free when frozen by a snowball, then get back to 'mobiling!

Each time you complete a lap, a little dot lights up near your character's portrait. Keep an eye on your rivals' progress and try not to let them into the lead! Get your motor running and bang out five laps ahead of your rivals to hoist that first-place trophy.

Speeding Bullets

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt the Wii Remote left and right to steer your Bullet Bill.

Strap yourself onto a Bullet Bill and hang on tight! In Speeding Bullets, you race against your rivals along a winding route. The first player to cross the finish line wins this wild race!

The trick to zipping along faster than your rivals lies in hitting those glowing dash zones. Each one you hit will boost your speed by one notch on the speed gauge located in your screen's lower-left corner.

Going faster makes steering your Bullet Bill much more challenging, but velocity is the key to victory in Speeding Bullets!

Note

The Speed meter has five notches. Light up all five and you'll be moving at maximum momentum!

Beware: Obstacles abound on this rough road. Warp pipes stick out from the sides of the trail at various points, and the occasional Piranha Plant will pop out of these to chomp you as you zip past.

Do your best to dodge these roadside hazards by striving to remain near the middle of the path.

You'll also lose speed if you bump into the outside wall, so be wary of areas where the road narrows.

Because there are so many things to bump into down the last few stretches, you might want to avoid those dash zones once you're comfortable with your speed.

Keeping your Speed meter to around three or four notches will greatly improve your control. As the old saying goes, slow and steady wins the race!

Thwomper Room

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

What could be more dangerous than a room full of Thwomps? Nothing! In Thwomper Room, your goal is simply to avoid being squashed by those scowling overhead Thwomps. Be the last player left standing and live to play another day!

Each Thwomp's expression changes and they shake a little before plummeting toward the floor.

Keep an eye on those Thwomps throughout this event, and run, jump, and do whatever it takes to ensure you're not stuck standing beneath one when it comes crashing down!

Because you and your rivals are restricted to a two-dimensional floor, you'll find yourself bumping into them as you frantically try to escape a painful fate.

This adds an extra layer of chaos to this frantic dash to avoid being smashed. Leap over your rivals to get past them, but be careful: Bouncing off of a buddy's head might cause you to accidently bound into a falling Thwomp!

This event lasts for 30 seconds, or until only one player is left un-Thwomped. Those big blockheads will fall more and more often as time ticks down, upping the challenge factor as the game unfolds. Keep a careful eye on those Thwomps and be quick to spy safe places to hide.

Toad and Go Seek

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to move and 2 to knock on a door while standing in front of a Toad House.

Hide-and-seek is so much fun, especially when you play with those wily Toads! In this imaginative minigame, your goal is to locate a Toad after he runs into one of the many houses in his friendly neighborhood. Be the first player to find that hiding Toad to win this little game!

First, watch as the Toad runs through his humble village, looking for the perfect hiding spot. Pay close attention to the path that he takes, and try to remember which house he runs into. Notice the color of the house and remember that color!

After the Toad bolts into a home, the action is turned over to the players. Make a beeline for that Toad's abode and be the first one to knock on his door.

If you guessed the right house, the Toad will welcome you inside. Perhaps he has a game of cards in mind next?

You aren't penalized for picking the wrong house, so don't worry if you accidentally knock on a neighboring Toad's home.

These little guys are used to playing all sorts of games, so this kind of thing happens to them all the time.

But don't waste time chatting up the neighbors—hurry and find that special Toad before your rivals do. You don't want to be the last one to arrive at the party!

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Hold down A and B, and shake the Wii Remote up and down. Release A and B to pick vegetables off the vine.

Everyone knows that vegetables are good for you, but did you know they're also good fun to play with?

In Tuber Tug, your goal is to fill your basket with as many fresh veggies as possible by pulling on a long vine to pop them into your basket. The player with the most tubers in their tub at the end of the event wins the blue ribbon prize!

If this is your first time playing Tuber Tug, you'll need to get a feel for the rhythm of the game.

The best way to do this is to simply wave that Wii Remote up and down as fast as you can while quickly tapping A and B at the same time.

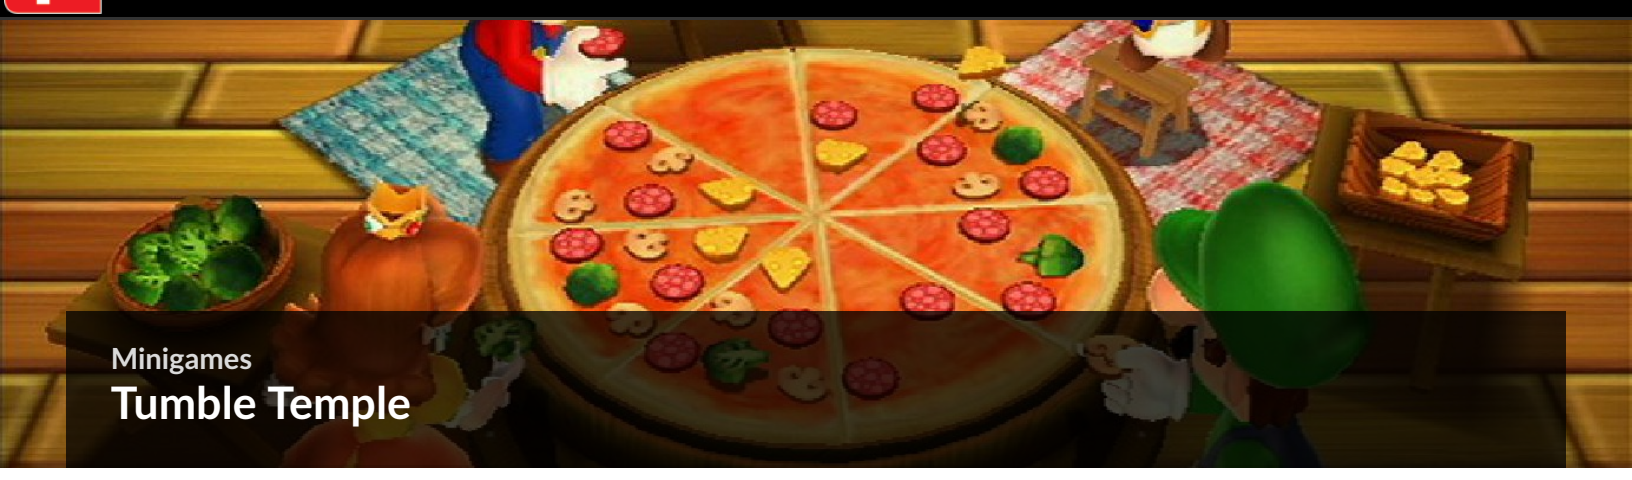

Watch how your character reacts, and you'll soon start to feel out the ideal pace of this zany game!

You can really reel in those veggies once you get a good rhythm going. Just keep waving that Wii Remote and hitting A and B as fast as you can to pack your basket full of fresh healthy goodness!

You have just 10 seconds to stuff your basket to the brim, so give it all you've got! Then head straight home to make yourself a delicious, nutritious salad. Yum yum!

Tumble Temple

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

Your task is clear in Tumble Temple: strive to avoid those inbound spiked balls by dashing and jumping your way out of trouble.

Be the last player left standing to survive this uncanny spiked ball assault!

Unfortunately, dodging those falling balls isn't as easy as you might think. As they come tumbling down the temple, they'll bounce off of the numerous poles that stick up from the slope.

This causes the balls to take unpredictable paths toward the players at the bottom. Do your best to anticipate where those balls will fall, and make sure you're nowhere nearby!

Caution

Though you can jump during this event, you can't bound over those big ol' balls. Jumping away from them just might save your skin in a pinch, though!

More and more spiked balls come rolling down the slope as time passes, and the poles begin to retract and pop back up again, steadily increasing the chaos of this event.

Watch those poles carefully and try to stand directly in front of the ones at the bottom while they're extended.

Balls that hit these poles will bounce and tumble off to the side, just barely passing you by.

Tumble Temple ends after 60 seconds, provided two or more players are somehow able to survive that long. But that won't happen often.

By the time the clock has ticked halfway down, a slew of spiked balls will be pouring toward you at varying speeds. Do your best to outlast your rivals and pray you manage to escape this dreadful place!

Twist Ending

How to Play

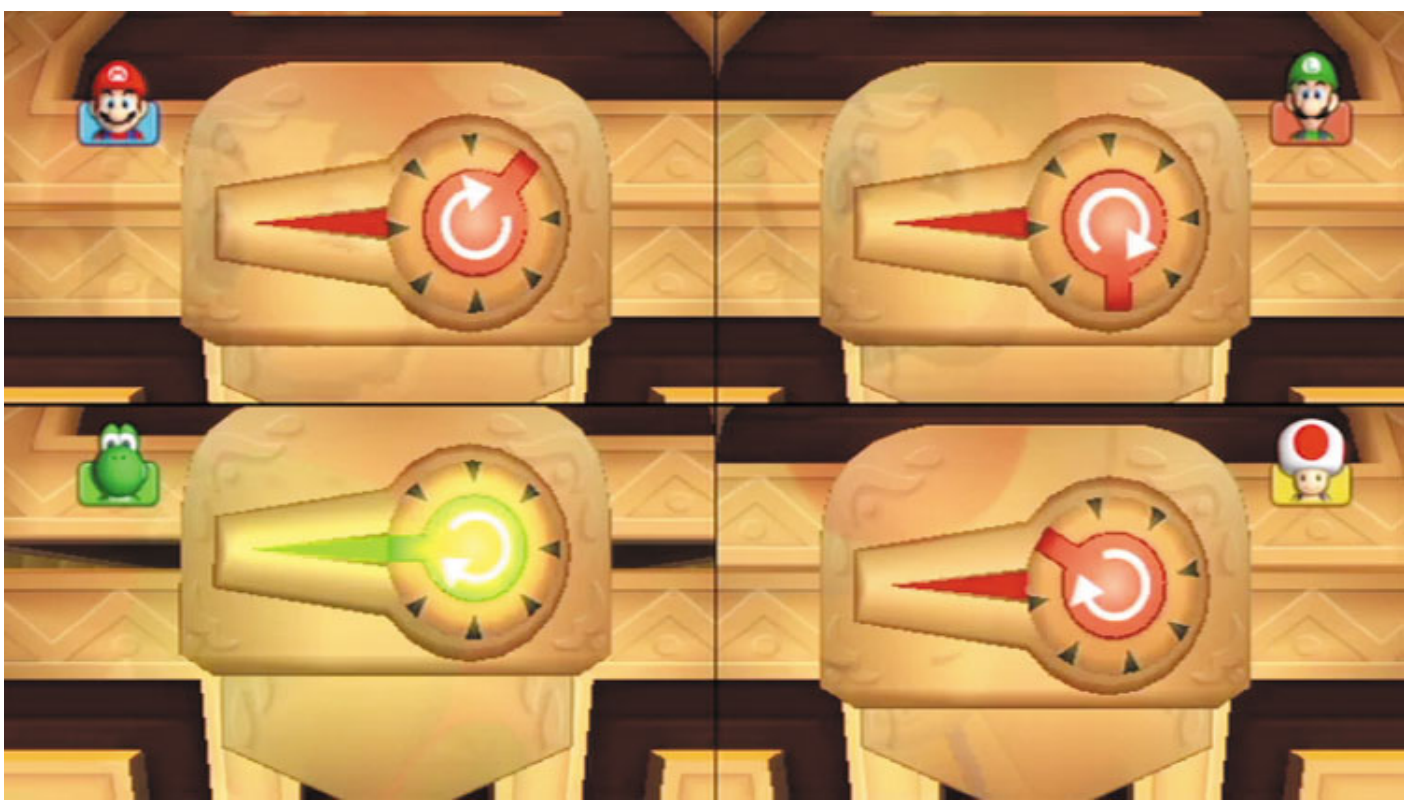

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Tilt it in the direction of the arrow to turn the dial. The angle of the tilt changes how fast the dial turns.

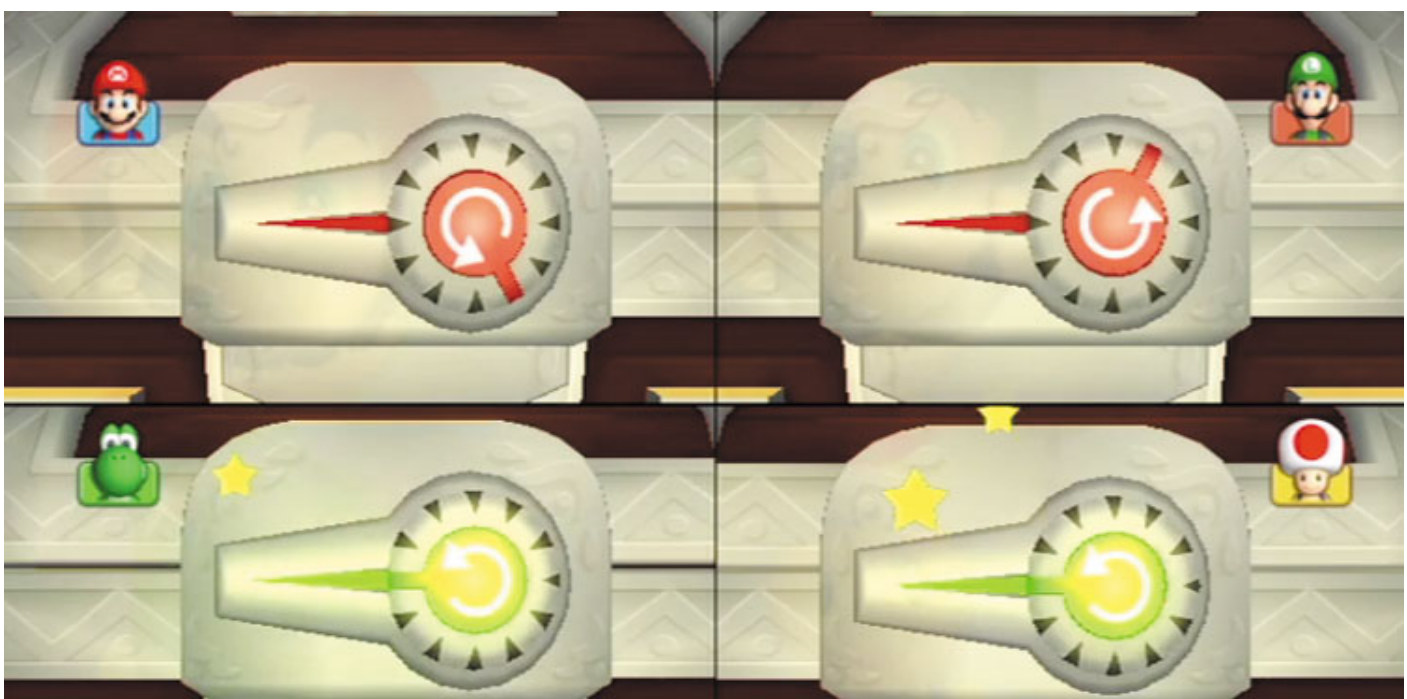

Crime is at an all-time high in Twist Ending, where your goal is to crack open a series of tricky treasure chests.

Twist open those locks faster than your rivals to make off with a fortune in bragging rights!

Simply hold the Wii Remote in front of you and twist it either clockwise or counterclockwise, depending on the direction indicated by the dial lock—the dials will turn in only one direction.

The more drastically you twist the Wii Remote, the faster the dial will spin! Make those markings line up to unlock each chest and hurry on to the next.

Speed is key during Twist Ending, so you've got to work fast. Twist the Wii Remote drastically to quickly spin the dial, then pull back and stop short right when the red marks are about to line up.

It helps to stop a little in advance, because you can always give the Wii Remote a little twist if you didn't nail it on the first attempt.

Spinning past the mark is not good, because then you'll need to turn it all the way around again!

When a dial's marks have been perfectly aligned, they'll glow a bright green, and the next chest will be presented.

Rush to open all of those chests before your rivals beat you to it—crime's awasting!

Upward Mobility

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

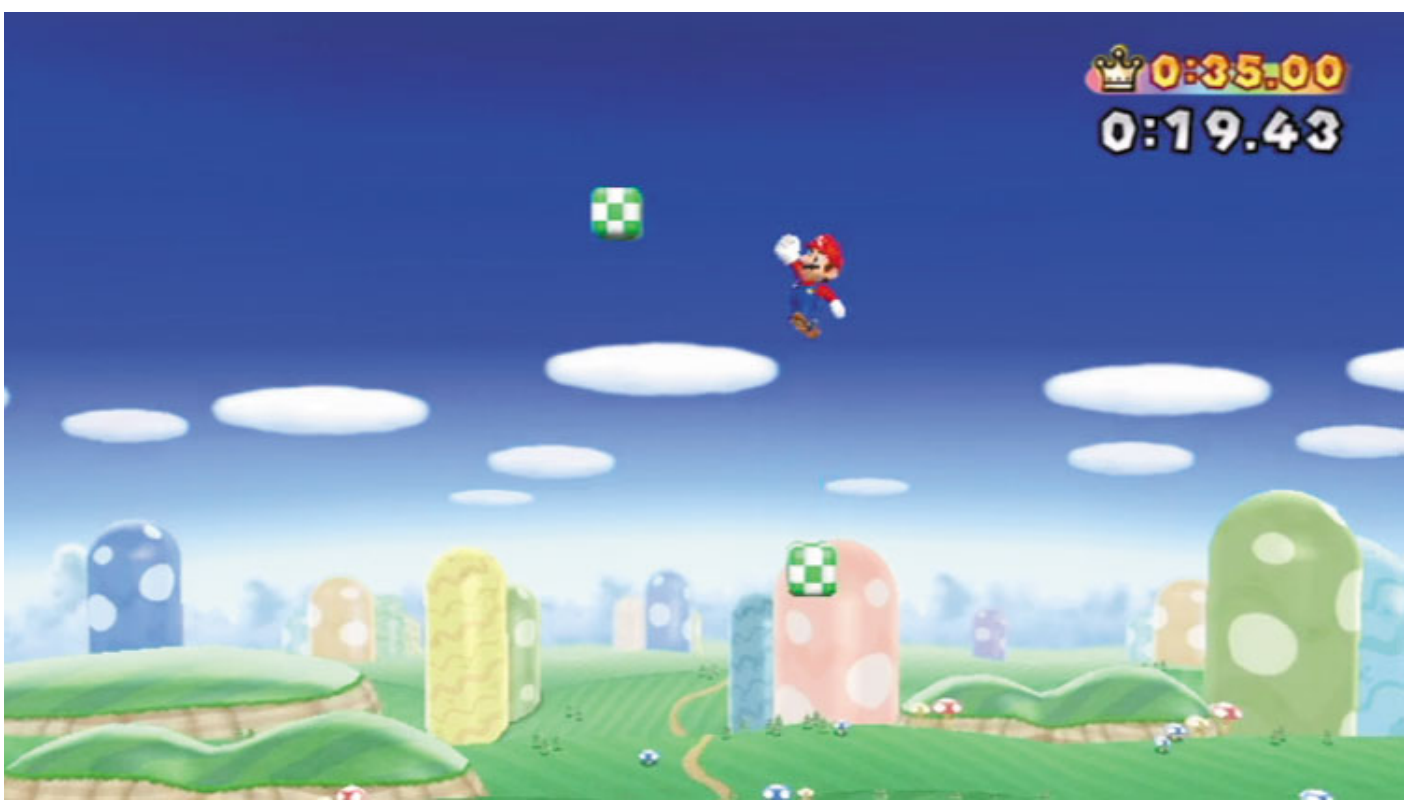

Everything's on the up-and-up in Upward Mobility, a fun minigame where your objective is to jump ever upward along long, vertical series of platforms. Get to the top the fastest and you'll be jumping for joy!

The trick to Upward Mobility lies in bouncing off those green checkered jump blocks. These special blocks sink a little under your weight when you land on them before popping back up and boosting you to greater heights.

But don't just rely on those jump blocks alone—be sure to press 2 each time you bound off of one to soar super high!

The jump blocks are arranged in a simple, staggered pattern that lets you leap from one to the next without breaking your rhythm.

Try to avoid landing on anything except the jump blocks—you can do this pretty easily if you time your presses of 2 properly.

Precise landings become important as you soar to greater and greater heights, because the jump blocks begin to appear in little singles instead of wider pairs.

Keep an eye to the sky so you can prepare yourself to land on each new block. Leap into the lead and don't look back!

Urn It

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at the image you want to select, and press A to confirm your choice.

Are you ready to earn your victory? In Urn It, you've got to be quick at identifying the correct patterns that are painted on a series of spinning urns.

Be the first player to correctly identify each urn's markings to win the game!

Each game of Urn It plays out over three rounds. Watch as each urn tumbles and spins, then quickly point to the pattern you believe is correct and press A to lock in your vote. You get to make only one pick, so choose carefully!

Note

Each urn's rotation slows over time, making it easier to guess correctly as time passes.

You'll earn points even if you're the last one to vote, so don't be too hasty in making your choice; otherwise you risk guessing wrong and earning no points at all!

The first thing to look for is the general shape of each urn's symbols—this helps you quickly weed out one or more of the false options.

Many urns have one or more lines painted around them as well. The placement of these lines in relationship to the urn's other symbols can also help you weed out false options.

The patterns you may pick from are usually very close in appearance to one another, so wait to make your choice until you've eliminated all of the red herrings.

Each urn spins a little faster at the start of each new round, making it more and more challenging to quickly choose the right pattern as the game unfolds.

Eliminate those false options as fast as you can, and be quick with your picks to "urn" the win!

1vs. Rivals Minigames

Free-for-All minigames pit every player against one another, but certain players get to work together during 1-vs.-Rivals minigames, which adds teamwork mechanics into the mix. During 1-vs.-Rivals minigames, one player will have a special objective to complete, while his or her rivals will be tasked with preventing that solo player from succeeding.

These minigames are therefore played from two very different perspectives, depending on whether you're acting as the solo player or a member of the team of rivals.

Tip

When you land on a 1-vs.-Rivals Space on a game board, the captain always acts as the solo player, while all remaining players team up to thwart him or her. The more players there are, the more challenging the minigame will be for the captain!

Block and Roll

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-pad to move. Go to the right to pick up a block, then carry it to the left to drop it off.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-pad to move and 2 to release a boulder.

Ready for some rockin' times? In this 1-vs.-Rivals minigame, the solo player's goal is to carry three blocks from the stack on the right to the bins on the left before time expires.

This task is made difficult by the rivals, who roll giant boulders down a slope to smack the solo player while he or she is carrying the blocks. Who will roll on toward victory?

The solo player moves pretty fast while unencumbered, but his or her movement speed is slowed while carrying a block.

It's therefore necessary to fake out the rivals by starting to carry a block over to the left, then quickly turning around and doubling back to avoid being struck by a tumbling rock.

Use guile and your fanciest moves to get past those rolling boulders!

Compared to the solo player, the rivals have a fairly easy time of things in Block and Roll. Simply use g to stand close to one another and just keep rolling those boulders over and over.

You can send the rocks rolling so rapidly that the solo player won't have much chance to slip past them!

Tip

Don't be fooled by the solo player's antics. Let them run around all they want, so long as they're not carrying a block. Only send those boulders tumbling after them while they're slowly moseying with a block in hand!

The solo player has just 60 seconds to bring those blocks over to the left. This sounds like a lot of time, but those precious seconds tick by awfully fast.

Each time the solo player is hit while carrying a block, he or she is forced to return to the pile and grab another.

This wastes precious time, so do your best to fake out your rivals and avoid being hit when you're playing from the solo perspective!

Hazard Hold

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-pad to face the different switches. Press 2 to activate the switch you're facing.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-pad to move and 2 to jump.

Horrific hazards abound in Hazard Hold, a unique 1-vs.-Rivals event that has the solo player attempting to zap, fry, and blow away his or her rivals with a variety of dastardly traps!

Dispatching every rival earns the solo player the win, while the rivals must simply strive to stay alive until time expires.

The secret to the solo player's success lies in staggering the traps so that the rivals have little hope of escape.

After pressing one of the three colored trap buttons, the solo player must wait a bit before they light up and can be used again.

The wind attack regenerates the fastest, followed by the fire attack, and then the electricity attack. Get into a rhythm and unleash those traps over and over to fill the room with all sorts of chaos!

When playing on the team of rivals, you must pay close attention to those traps and be ready to flee the moment they activate.

Jump to dodge the lethal electricity that spreads across the floor, and run away to avoid everything else. You can't jump over the fire jets or wind gusts, so make sure you're not standing in their path!

Tip

Pay attention to the fan at the top of the room. The direction in which the fan faces clues you in to the path that its wind gusts will travel!

Hazard Hold is no joke for the rivals. Luckily, this deadly event ends for them after just 30 seconds. Strive to survive by finding safe hiding spots and scurrying out of harm's way the moment a trap is triggered.

Rely on the traps' reload times to catch your breath and try to anticipate when the next one will be activated. Only one rival needs to survive, so split up to make yourselves more difficult to hit.

Tip

Keeping near the outside walls is a good way to avoid most of Hazard Hold's dangers.

Hole Hogs

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Point at your target and press A to hammer.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad, 1, or 2 to choose a hold to pop out of. Earn a point every time you escape being hit. Fill the points meter at the bottom to win!

In Hole Hogs, the solo player must use a heavy mallet to whack the players on the rival team, who pop up from several holes in the ground.

The rivals must poke their heads out from the earth in an effort to score points, while the solo player must simply prevent the rivals from scoring by whacking each one as promptly as possible. Who will achieve victory in this zany minigame?

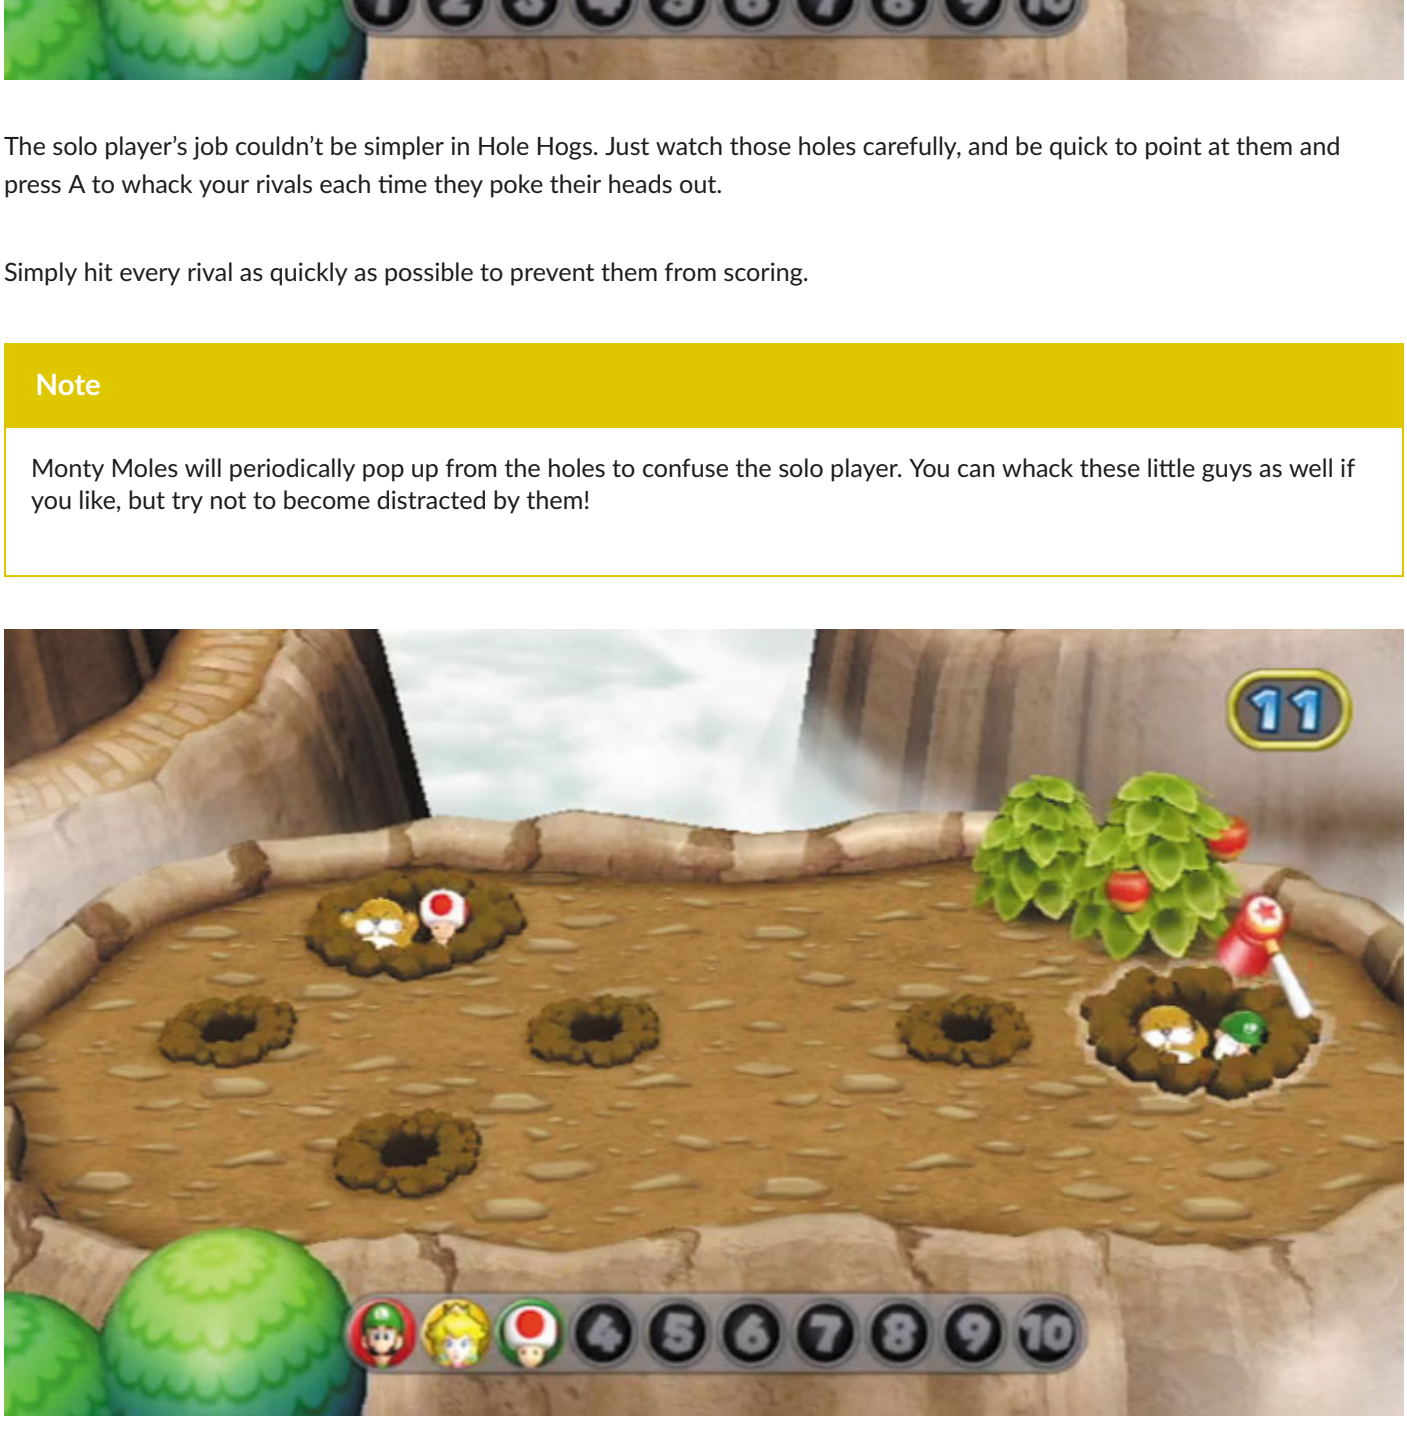

The solo player's job couldn't be simpler in Hole Hogs. Just watch those holes carefully, and be quick to point at them and press A to whack your rivals each time they poke their heads out.

Simply hit every rival as quickly as possible to prevent them from scoring.

Note

Monty Moles will periodically pop up from the holes to confuse the solo player. You can whack these little guys as well if you like, but try not to become distracted by them!

The team of rivals has their work cut out for them. They can only score points by popping up from a hole and praying that the solo player doesn't whack them before they dip back down.

Each time a rival manages to stick their head up for a few seconds without being whacked, a musical note appears over their head, and they score one point.

The rivals must fill out the lengthy points meter at the screen's bottom to beat their solo adversary—no easy feat!

Tip

Try popping out of holes alongside Monty Moles to confuse the solo player. Emerging from the same hole that a rival was just been whacked at sometimes works, because the solo player is apt to turn their attention elsewhere.

Hole Hogs last for 30 seconds, so the rivals need to average a point every three seconds in order to win.

This certainly isn't easy, but with enough guile and sneakiness, the rivals can take their lumps and still manage to eek out the win.

Line in the Sand

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Hold A while pointing to draw a line in the sand. Keep drawing to create a circle around the other players.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move.

All right, rivals, line up! In Line in the Sand, the solo player must eliminate every member of the rival team by drawing circles around them in the soft yellow sand.

If even one member of the rival team avoids elimination, the solo player's hopes for victory will be washed away!

The solo player should start drawing circles right away. You can draw fairly large circles in that sand, but don't make them too big or the "tail end" will start to evaporate, and you won't be able to close the circle.

Only closed circles are capable of eliminating enemies—but they don't have to be of perfect shape, mind you!

Note

After you draw a circle, there's a slight delay while the circle is "locked in." Rivals can escape the circle during this brief period, so make your circles as big as can be!

Tip

Fool the rivals by pretending to draw a circle around one of them, then quickly switching to another unwary target. Talk about a sand trap!

The rivals should spread themselves out. This prevents the solo player from circling more than one rival at once.

Run all around and make sudden changes in direction to really give the solo player a hard time.

Keeping close to the edges of the sandbox can make it more difficult for the solo player to draw proper circles, but this also limits your paths of escape. Still, there's no reward without risk!

Line in the Sand games last for 30 seconds, or until the solo player manages to encircle and eliminate every rival.

This really isn't much time to get the job done, especially when you're playing against a team of three. Don't overthink things too much; just make those circles as big as possible, and keep sketching them as fast as you can!

Mob Sleds

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Sleds move forward automatically. Press the D-Pad to turn up, down, left, or right along the snow tracks.

Mob Sleds is a cool minigame in which the solo player must avoid being caught by the team of rivals, who race speedy sleds around a network of icy tracks.

The solo player wins by avoiding the rivals for the duration of the event, while the rivals must catch the solo player in order to ruin his or her snow day!

Unlike the sled-riding rivals, the solo player has the advantage of being able to run wherever he or she pleases.

Use this to your advantage when you're flying solo, and simply avoid the rivals by keeping one step ahead of them.

Move from one the rink's corners to the next, slipping past those sledders when they begin to zero in.

Then take the shortest path to the opposite corner of the rink to force all of the rivals to work their way across the area again.

Tip

The rink's four corners are good places for the solo player to hang out—at least for a little while.

Stand in one far corner, then simply move a little inward to escape any rivals who come barreling down the outermost track! Then flee to another corner and repeat.

As a member of the rival team, you can't let that sneaky solo player escape. Don't follow your rivals toward the solo player; split up and approach your quarry from multiple paths.

Try to seal off as many avenues of escape as possible; this often puts the solo player in panic mode, causing him or her to slip up and make a fatal mistake!

Tip

Sleds move a little faster than the solo player can sprint, so look to take the inside track as often as possible and catch up to your quarry with all speed.

Thirty seconds can seem like an eternity for the solo player when they've got a full team of rivals sledding after them, but that's how long the solo player needs to survive in order to win.

The side that achieves victory during Mob Sleds will be the one that keeps their cool!

Pix Fix

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Point at a panel, and press and hold A to grab it. Twist the Wii Remote to rotate the panel, and then release A to put it back in place.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Point at a panel, and press and hold A to grab it. Twist the Wii Remote to rotate the panel, and then release A to put it back in place.

Pix Fix satisfies your craving for fast-paced puzzle solving. In this nifty minigame, the solo player races against the team of rivals to restore their respective portraits to rights.

The first side that manages to complete their portrait wins by stroke of genius!

The controls for Pix Fix are identical for both the solo player and the team of rivals.

Whichever side you're on, your goal is to reform your side's mixed-up portrait by pointing at each of its panels, pressing and holding A, and then twisting the Wii Remote to spin the panel back to its proper position.

You can spin the panels clockwise or counterclockwise. Some panels need to be turned only once (90 degrees), while others need to be spun twice (180 degrees) to make them line up.

It may sound unfair to have one player working against a whole team, but not to worry—this event is balanced by the fact that the solo player has only six panels to rotate, while the team of rivals must align many more.

No matter which side you're on, begin by spinning the panels that have easily identifiable images, such as characters or buildings—it's much easier to get these ones right from the get-go, because it's usually obvious to see which way is up.

Note

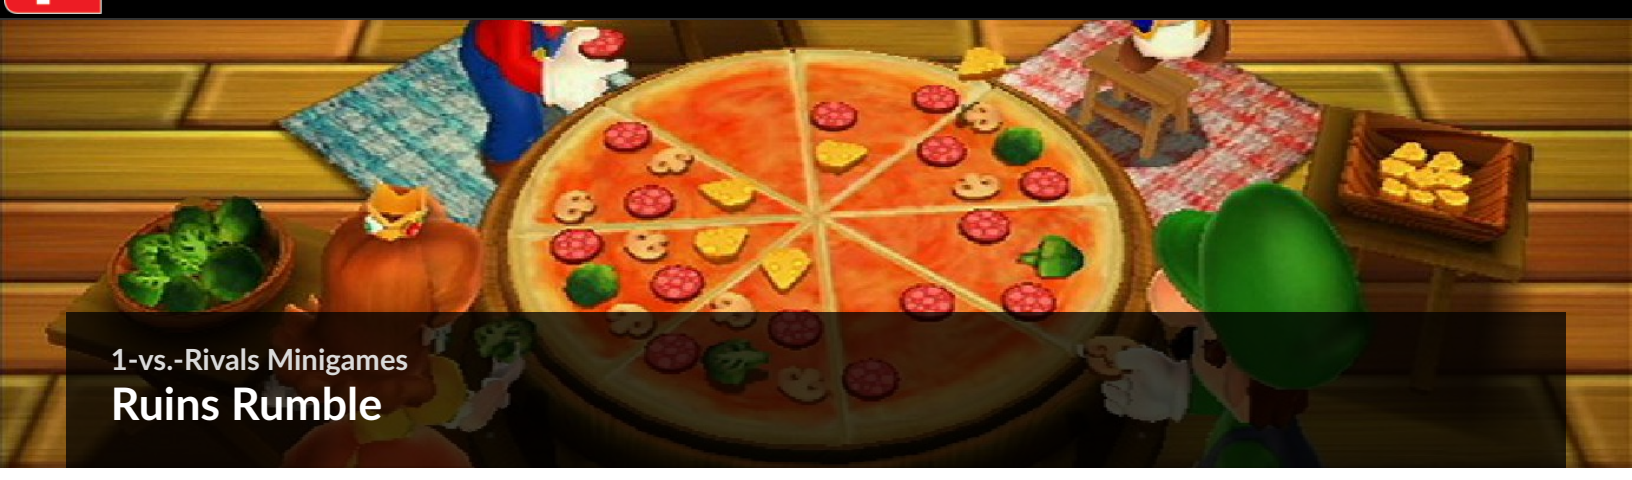

A flashing effect appears after you properly rotate a panel. Good work; now keep it up!

After you spin the more obvious panels to their proper position, start working on those head-scratchers.

With some of the panels already lined up, it's easier to tell which way the more vague panels should face.

In a pinch, just keep flipping a problematic panel by 90 degrees until it locks into place. Now that pic is fixed!

Ruins Rumble

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Tilt the Wii Remote in the direction you want to steer your vehicle.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move.

Ruins Rumble flips the script on Mob Sleds by letting the solo player chase down the team of rivals inside a crumbling maze.

The rivals must outmaneuver the solo player in order to win, while the solo player must catch up to every rival, along with those special guest rivals, Dry Bones, in order to eliminate them all and achieve sweet, sweet revenge!

In addition to chasing down all of the rivals, the solo player must also catch up to a number of Dry Bones—there will be one Dry Bones for every member of the rival team.

This may seem a little unfair, but the solo player's hovering vehicle moves much faster than the rivals or the Dry Bones, making matters a little easier.

Make good use of the middle ground to quickly cut through the ruins and catch up to those enemies as fast as you can!

Naturally, the rivals should split up in order to confuse the solo player and make catching them all the more challenging.

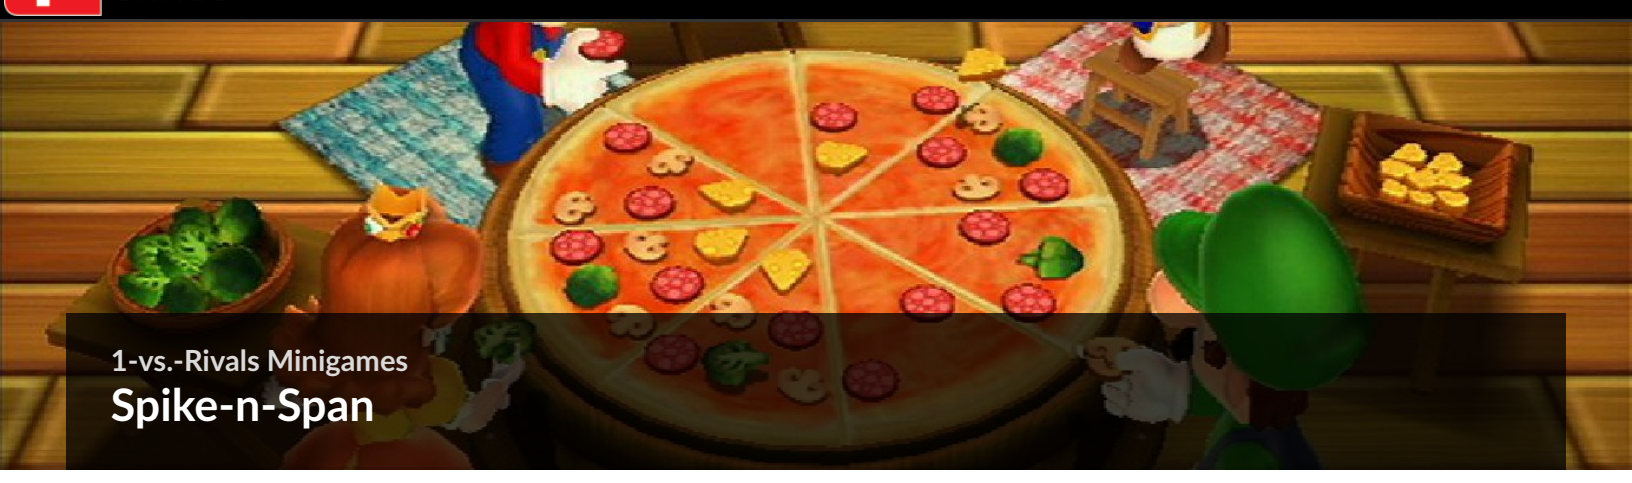

The solo player moves much faster than the rivals, so avoid running down long straights when you're on the side that's striving to survive.

Duck into side passages and keep making turns to throw off that speedy solo hunter. The longer you run in a straight line, the easier you'll be to catch, so mix things up and be unpredictable!

Thirty seconds is an ample amount of time to run down all of the rivals, provided the solo player is quick to anticipate their moves and doesn't allow them to slip away as he or she draws near.

Whichever way the game plays out, this epic rumble in the ruins is sure to go down in the history books!

Spike-n-Span

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

How to Play: Rivals

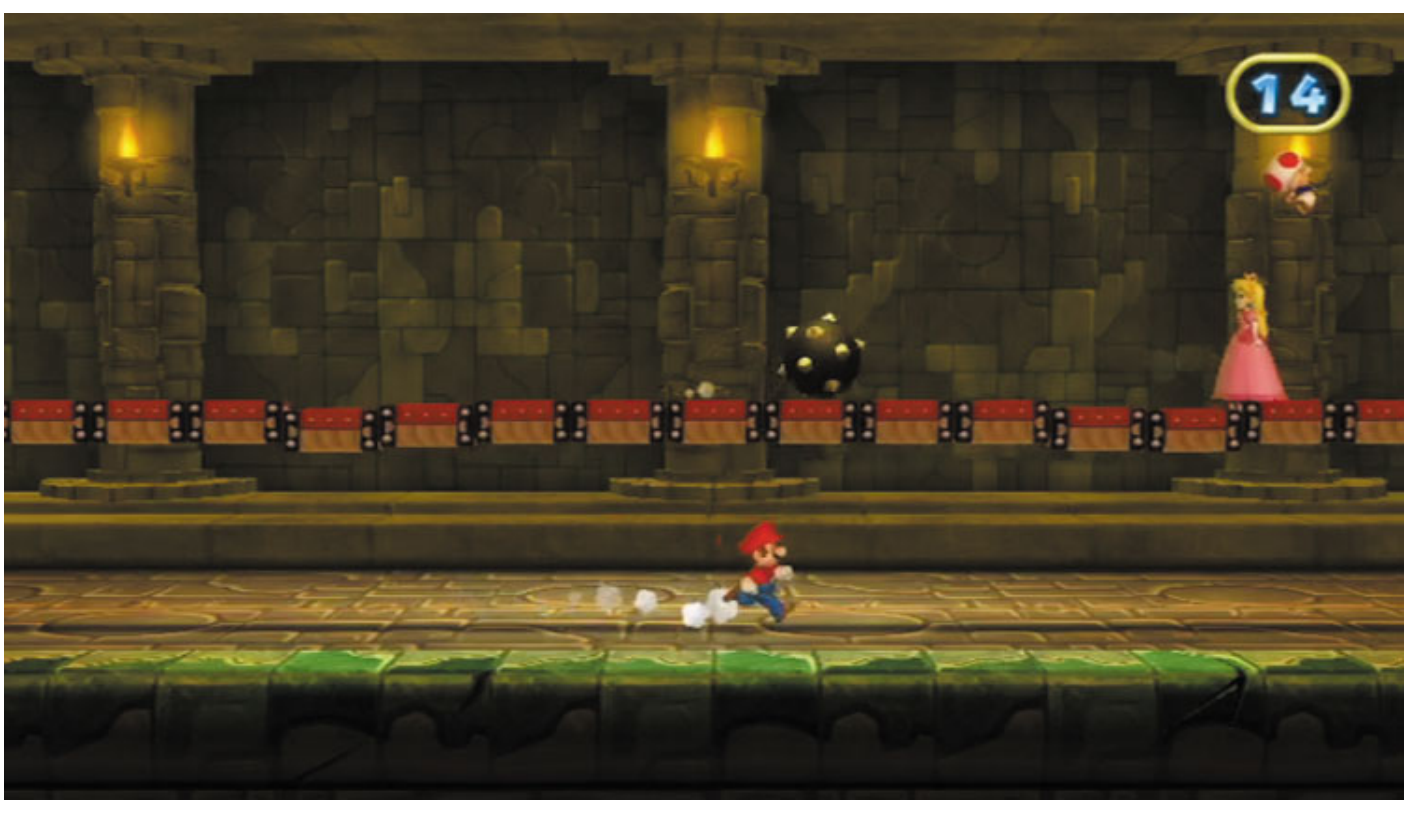

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press gthe D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

In Spike-n-Span, the solo player gets to spell disaster for his or her rivals by bouncing a spiked ball in their direction.

Any rivals who don't escape that rolling globe are knocked for a loop and eliminated.

The solo player wins by black-balling all of the rivals, while the rival team wins by surviving until time's up. Okay, let's get rolling!

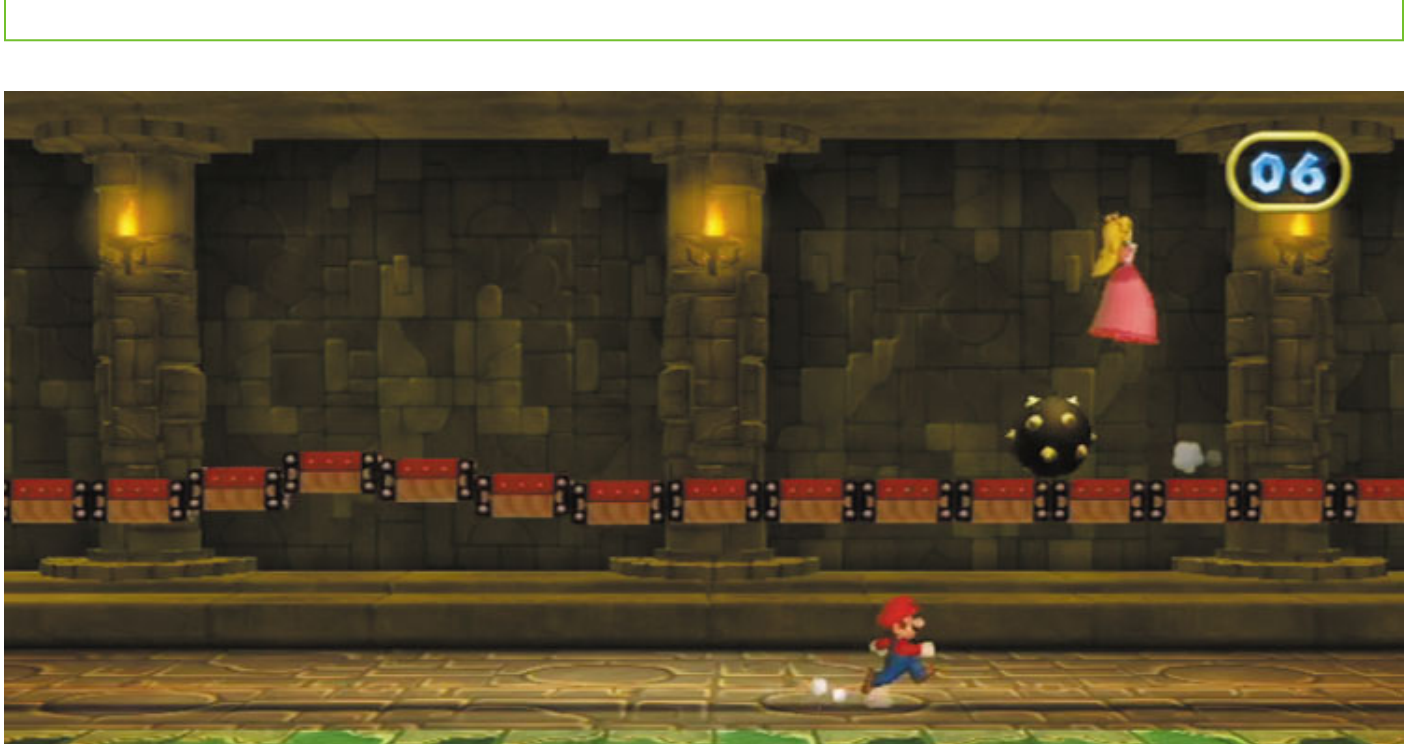

When playing from the solo perspective, you must jump up to punch the overhead floor upon which the rivals stand.Punching the floor to the left of the spiked ball will make it roll to the right, and vice versa.

If you punch the floor when you're directly beneath the spiked ball, it will fly up into the air to knock leaping rivals from the sky. It's therefore best to roll the ball toward the rivals and remain ready to punch it upward in case you see them jump!

Tip

Punch the floor beneath a rival to stun them for a split second. Do this after you've sent the ball tumbling toward them, and they'll have a tough time of escaping!

The rivals are restricted to a two-dimensional walkway, but they should still try to split up as best they can to present multiple targets.

Jumping over the spiked ball usually works at first, but a wily solo player will begin to follow the ball, ready to punch it into the air and foil this basic escape attempt.

Get crafty when this happens and fake out the solo player by lightly tapping 2 to perform a short hop, then steer away from the ball in midair and sprint underneath it the moment you land. Smooth moves!

With the unpredictable nature of the spiked ball and the solo player's small variety of tactics, Spike-n-Span allows for some interesting creativity on both sides.

The rivals must survive for a full 30 seconds up there, which can feel like quite a long time against a cunning solo player. Let's see what you've got!

Tackle Takedown

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to sprint. You can sprint as long as you still have a sprint icon remaining.

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press the D-Pad to move and 2 to tackle.

Are you ready for some football? In Tackle Takedown, the solo player must sprint for the end zone while the team of rivals attempts to tackle the solo player and stop him or her from scoring. Whose moves will score them the win on this little gridiron?

Things may sound tough for the solo player in this sporting event, and in truth, they are.

But the solo player has the excellent advantage of being able to briefly sprint three separate times during the game, gaining a short but dramatic boost of speed whenever they choose.

Each time the solo player sprints, one of the sprint icons in the lower-left corner disappears. Use your sprints wisely to slip around those rival tacklers and make a dash for that end zone!

Tip

Run to one side of the field to make the rivals give chase, then quickly change directions and sprint around those silly rivals, making them miss with their tackles as you give them the slip!

When playing as the rivals, it's important to employ sound defensive tactics. Remain patient and don't overpursue the solo player.

Send just one or two tacklers toward him or her while the rest hang back to defend the turf near the end zone.

Even if the first line of defense falters, you'll still have one or more teammates in the backfield, ready to bring that ball carrier down. And any teammates who fell on their faces before can play catch-up and make a game-saving tackle from behind!

Note

The rivals must tackle the solo player in order to stop him or her. Simply running into the ball carrier won't do!

Tackle Takedown is a challenging event for the solo player, but the ability to sprint makes all the difference.

If the solo player is wise with their sprints, they can use them to slip past each defender and score the game-winning touchdown fairly easily. But if those rivals are keen on defense, that solo player is in for a quick trip to the showers!

Weird Wheels

How to Play: Solo Player

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. To move forward, press up, down, left, or right on the D-Pad according to the order of buttons shown onscreen.

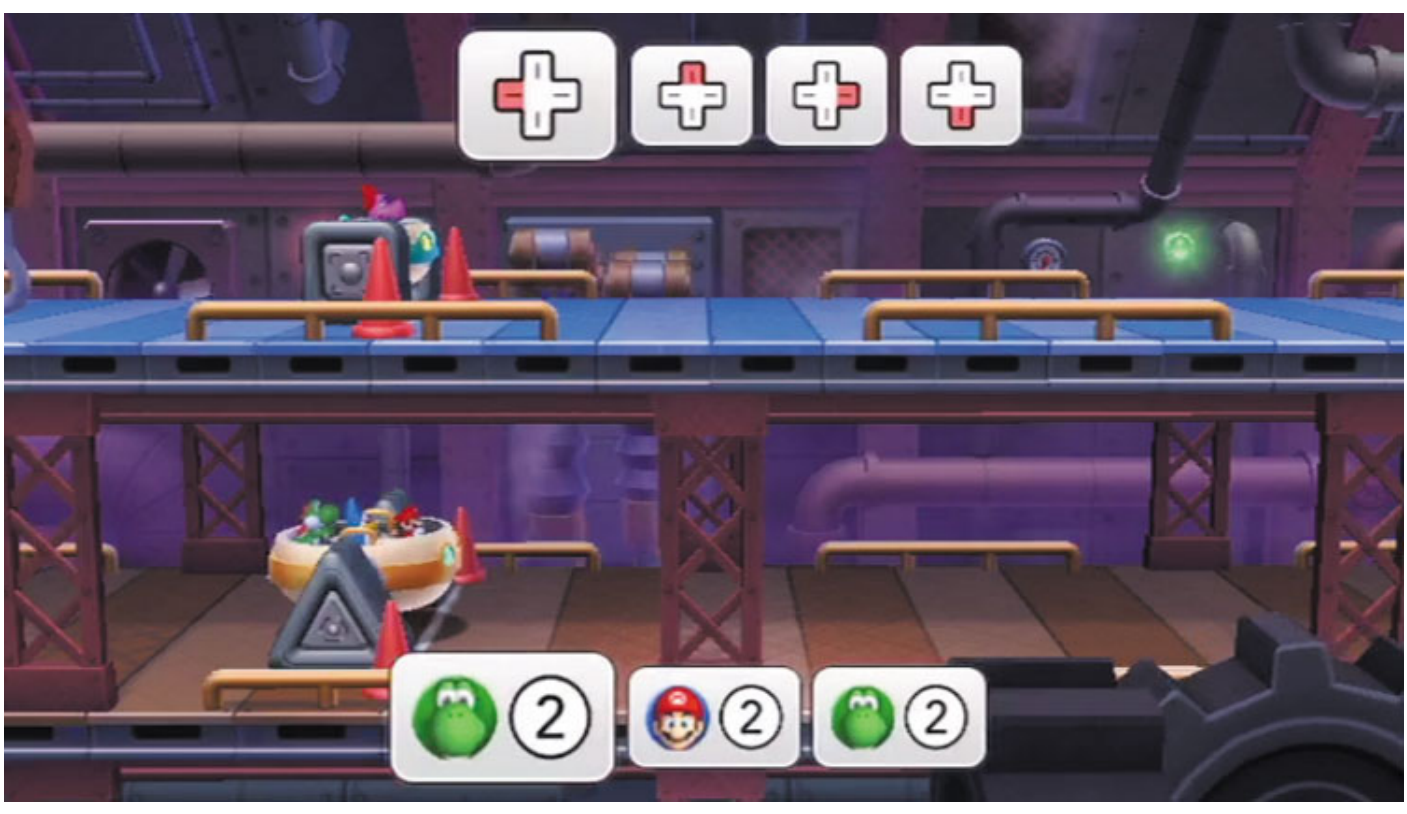

How to Play: Rivals

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. The players take turns moving the vehicle forward by pressing 1 or 2 according to the order shown onscreen.

In Weird Wheels, both the solo player and the team of rivals must race their zany vehicles along a straight path by quickly inputting the buttons that appear on their respective halves of the screen.

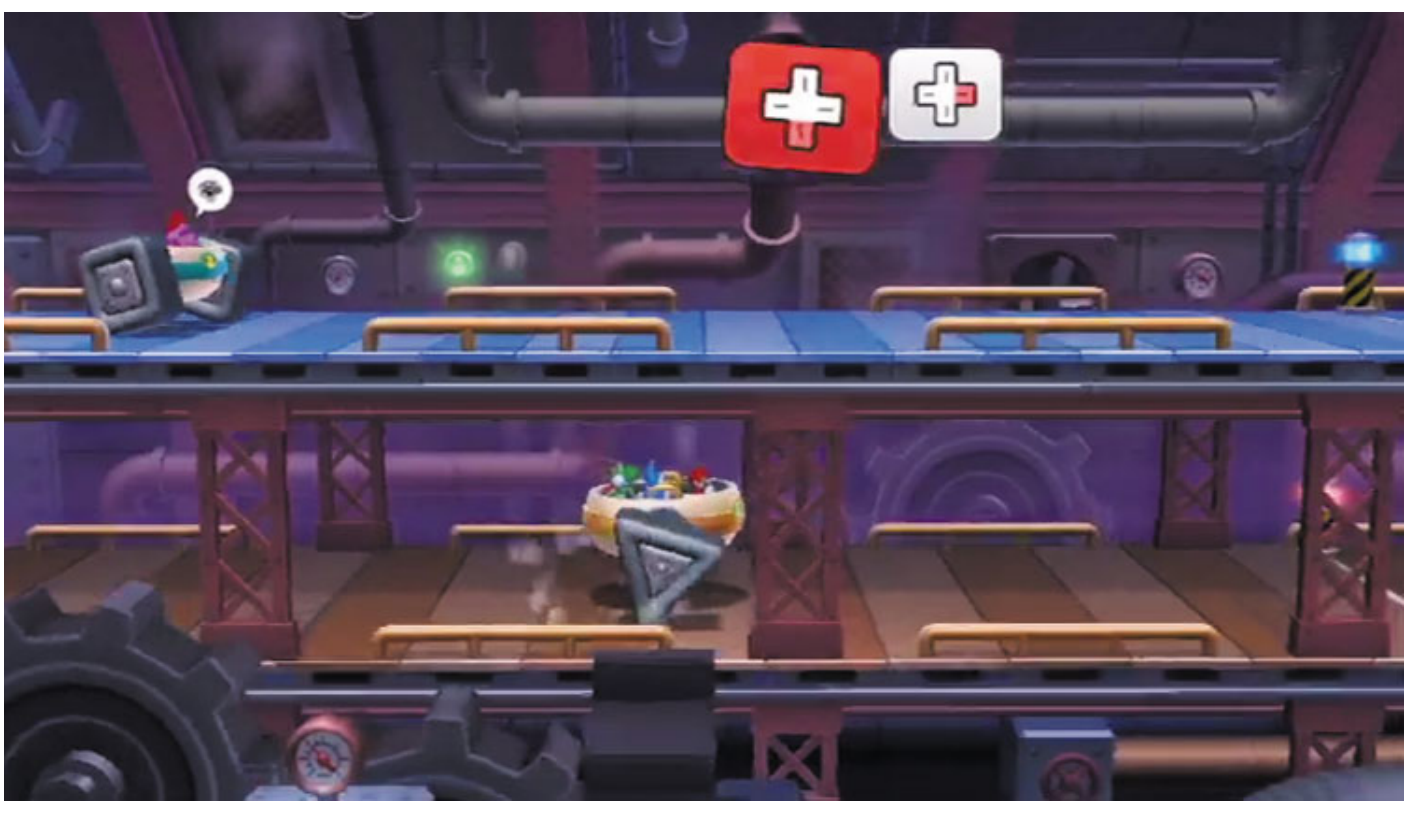

The side that's faster at keying in those commands will arrive at the finish line in style!

Both sides have similar tasks in Weird Wheels, but the solo player has more buttons to worry about.

Though this seems like a disadvantage, consider how much easier it is for one person to tap in a string of commands compared to a team of players who must coordinate their efforts.

Given the extra challenge that the rivals face, it's only fair that their button strings are a little shorter and simpler!

Pressing the wrong button at any point will ruin a combo and force you to wait for a new string of commands to appear.

This can be a pretty big setback, so try not to mess those buttons up! Speed is clearly important, but so is pressing each button properly.

Note

Sometimes a member of the rival team won't be given a button to press. If a player on the rival team presses a button out of turn, that combo will be cancelled!

The button combos never really become any more challenging, but you've still got to keep a fast rhythm going if you wish to finish first.

And, of course, you do! So kick it into high gear and punch in those buttons faster than the other side without making any mistakes. Way to roll!

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Bowser Pop

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Press D-Pad to move and 2 to get on the seesaw while on the ground.

The player on the seesaw can press D-Pad to move it left or right.

Bowser Jr. is nowhere to be seen at the start of this little minigame. Instead, several balloons bearing his likeness float high in the sky.

Work with your partner to operate a seesaw device and use it to add loft to your leaps that let you fly up and pop those balloons.

Burst every one before time runs out to beat Bowser Jr. at his own game!

One player will be standing on one side of the seesaw at the start of Bowser Pop.

The other player should leap onto the seesaw's vacant side to start utilizing the device and boost their buddy up toward those overhead balloons.

Jump every time your partner is about to land on the seesaw to add even more height when your partner boosts you upward.

The player left standing on the seesaw between boosts should use the D-Pad to follow their partner as they maneuver through the air bursting balloons.

Line it up so that the airborne teammate lands directly onto his or her side of the seesaw and keep the momentum going!

Tip

Coordinate with your buddy and tell them which balloons you're going after so they know where to move the seesaw while you're soaring through the sky.

Beware: Bowser Jr. has a sneaky surprise in store for you. After you pop all of his initial balloons, Jr. appears on a much larger balloon and taunts you from on high.

Time is running out, so hurry over to Jr. and burst his bubble before it's too late!

Note

Ten seconds are added to the clock when Jr. arrives, giving you a fighting chance to beat the little baddy even if you were nearly out of time.

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Bumper Sparks

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt the Wii Remote in the direction you want to turn.

The tension is electric in Bumper Sparks, a fun yet frantic minigame battle against Bowser Jr. Your goal is to bounce Jr. into the electrified ring that surrounds the combat arena.

Knock that little loudmouth into the ring three times for a shocking good time!

This minigame seems simple enough, but Jr. has some slick moves and is pretty good at giving you and your partner the slip.

Work together with your teammate to close in on Jr. from two different angles. This limits Jr.'s escape options and gives him little chance of slipping past.

There's no penalty for touching the electrified fence—except for the few seconds you lose while you're being zapped!

Notice how Jr. is moving and gauge his momentum as a means of anticipating where he'll go next.

Maneuver into position to head Jr. off and ram him backward into the unforgiving electrified ring.

Jolt Jr. three times in this fashion to emerge victorious!

Each time Jr. suffers a nasty shock, he gains a brief moment of invincibility. Jr. uses this opportunity to flee to the center of the arena.

Expect this and retreat to the center along with Jr. so that you can ram him the moment he becomes vulnerable again.

Thirty seconds is plenty of time to punish Jr., so long as you and your teammate work together and are careful not to get in each other's way!

Cage Match

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Press D-Pad to move and 1 to hit the fence.
Press 1 while on one side of the revolving doors to switch which side of the fence you're on.

No, Bowser Jr. isn't strapping on his MMA gloves for this event. In Cage Match, your goal is simply to catch Jr. as he scampers all around a large wall of metal fencing.

Work with your partner to corner Jr. and capture him to secure the win!

Bowser Jr. is slightly faster than you and your partner, so you need a strategy to snare him. The trick to beating Bowser Jr. lies in using both sides of the fence.

One player should immediately move to the nearest cage door and press 1 to punch it.

This flips that player over to the fence's opposite side, letting you team up and approach Jr. from both angles.

Note

The square gaps in the cage serve as obstacles. Don't let Jr. use these to escape!

The player who's on the same side of the cage as Jr. should track the little pest down. The other player can't catch Jr. from the opposite side of the fence, but they can press 1 to punch the cage and stun Jr. for a brief time.

This is an important part of the Cage Match minigame, because stunning Jr. gives the pursuing player the precious seconds they need to catch up and secure the win!

You've just 30 seconds to catch Bowser Jr. during Cage Match, so don't waste any time up there.

Study Jr.'s movements and anticipate his escape routes as you work with your partner to corner him. Stun the little creepoid and catch him while he's dazed to knock him off the cage and score the KO!

Crossfire Caverns

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Tilt the Wii Remote in the direction you want to move your mine cart. Press 2 to fire your cannon.

All right, you've caught Bowser Jr. in a cross fire! In this exciting minigame battle, you and your teammate each man a cannon that's affixed to a mine cart.

Jr. is caught on the rail that lies between you. Blast away to blow that baddy to bits!

Like always, Jr. is pretty good at maneuvering out of harm's way. He can also take cover behind the giant stalagmites that stick up from the depths below.

Your first order of business is to blast those rocky obstacles out of your way so that Jr. is always exposed.

Caution

Be careful not to shoot your buddy, or you'll stun them for a brief time!

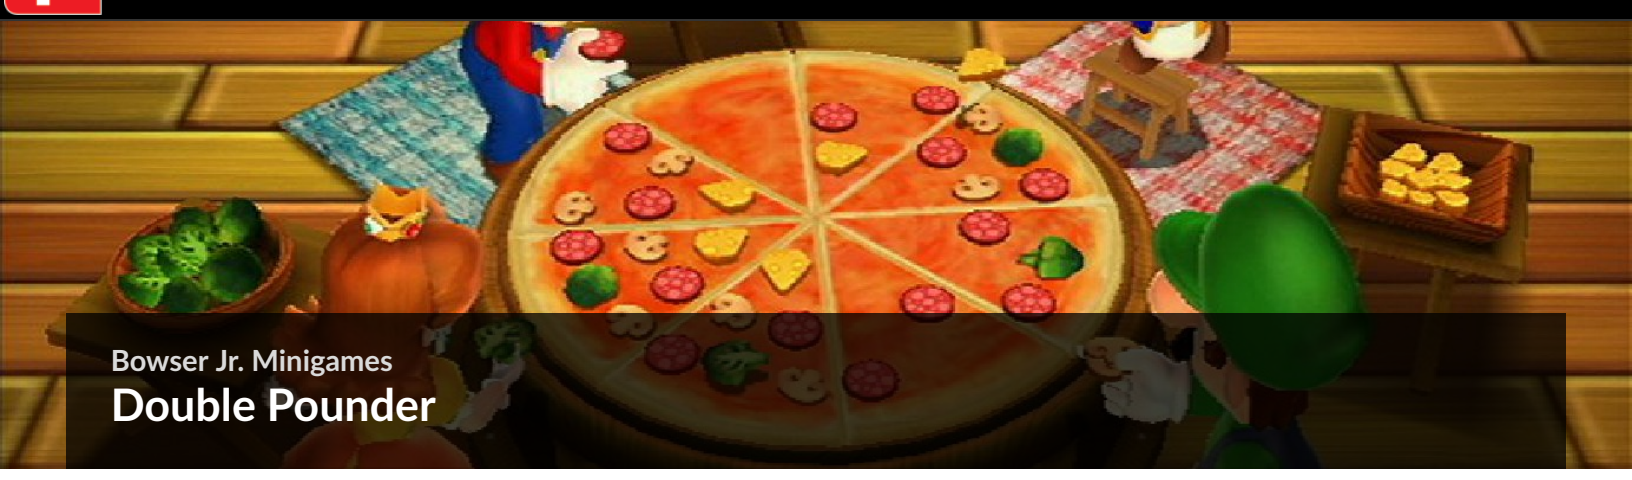

After you clear out most of the stalagmites, start focusing on blasting Bowser Jr. The best time to catch Jr. is when he's changing directions—speed after him until he reaches the end of his track, then fire when he's forced to double back!

Due to the lag of your cannonballs, blasting Bowser Jr. takes a bit of getting used to.

You need to account for this lag, which means anticipating Jr.'s moves and firing a little in advance.

It really isn't as tough as it sounds once you get the feel for how fast your cannonballs travel. Shoot Jr. three times to send him tumbling into the dark depths below!

Double Pounder

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Press D-Pad to move, 2 to jump, and 2 while jumping to perform a ground-pound.

In this Bowser Jr. minigame, you must work closely with your teammate to achieve victory.

Ground-pound all of the colored switches in the playing area as fast as you can, but make sure to hit those switches at the same time as your partner, or it won't count!

Start by sprinting over to any color switch you like. Wait for your partner to step onto the matching switch, then perform a coordinated ground-pound to shut both switches off.

You and your teammate need to come crashing down on your respective switches at the same moment in order to shut them off.

Repeat this with all four sets of switches to pull the plug on Jr.'s chances of victory!

If you're playing with a computer-controlled teammate, hitting the switches is a total breeze—the computer will anticipate your moves, so just jump up high and then hit 2 to slam down with a ground-pound.

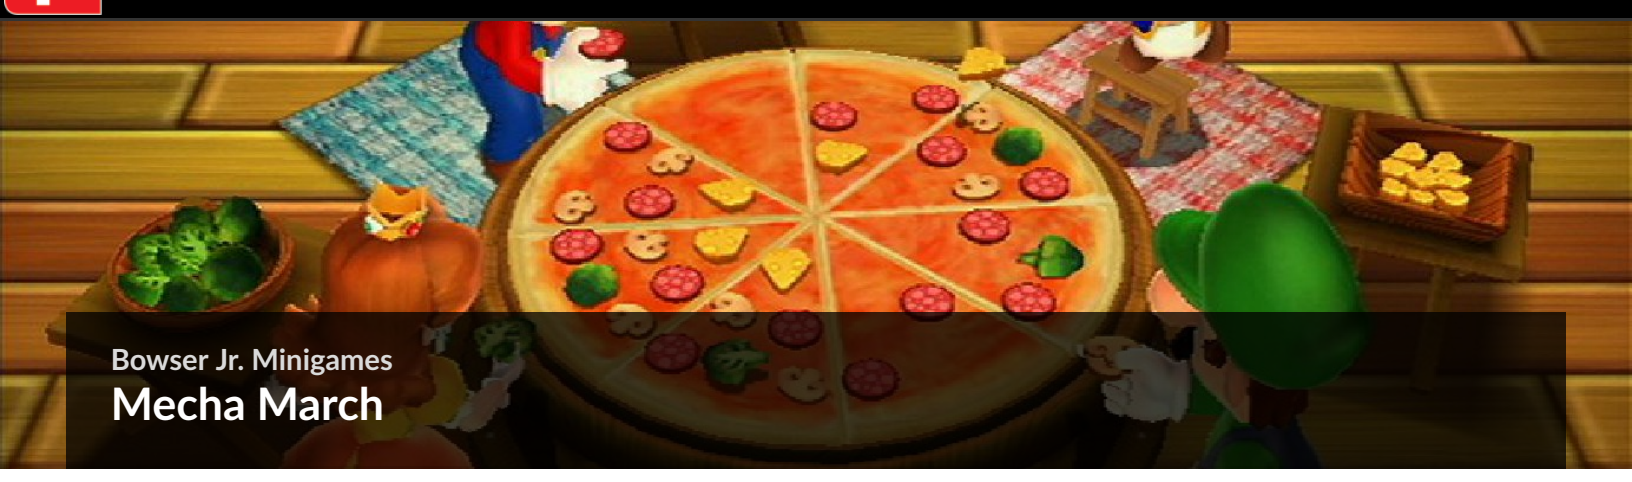

However, when playing with a real buddy, it helps to coordinate your efforts through verbal communication.

Stand over both of your switches, then count out loud: one, two, jump! Press 2 at the height of your jumps to ensure a well-timed ground-pound every time.

Double Pounder is probably the easiest and most straightforward Bowser Jr. minigame, so pick this one every time the little guy gives you the option.

You have a whole 30 seconds to trigger just four pairs of switches, so take your time and pound each pair properly!

Mecha March

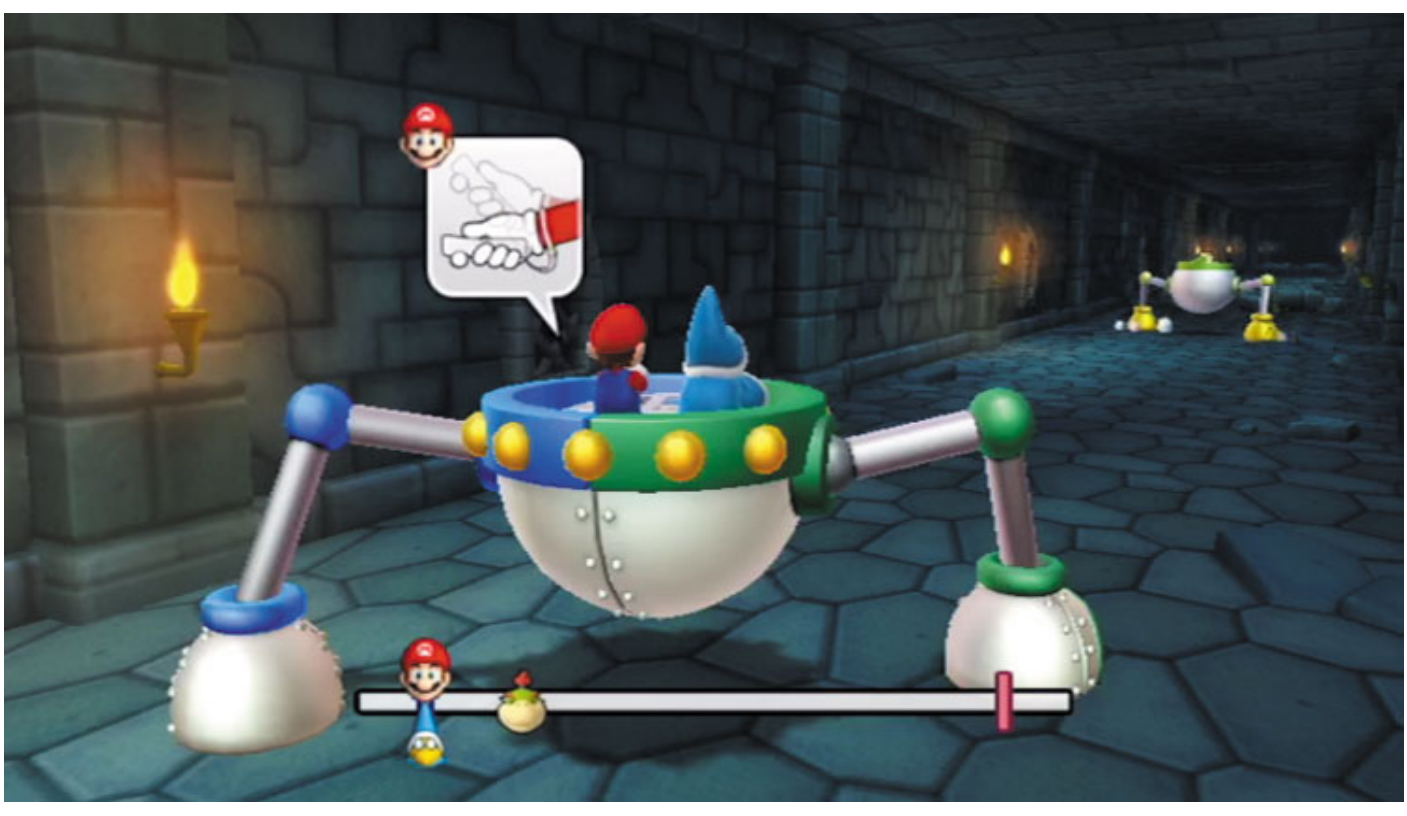

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Swing it in time with the instructions shown onscreen.

Mecha March is an inventive Bowser Jr. minigame in which the players must chase Jr. down a long hallway in their robotic two-legged vehicle.

Input the onscreen commands as fast as you can to stomp forward with speed and catch Jr. before he can escape!

Jr. starts off a good distance ahead of you, so you and your partner have work to do.

Fortunately, the controls are simple: just swing your Wii Remote downward each time the onscreen instruction appears over your character's head.

You'll operate one leg, and your buddy controls the other. This means you must take turns swinging your Wii Remotes in turn.

Tip

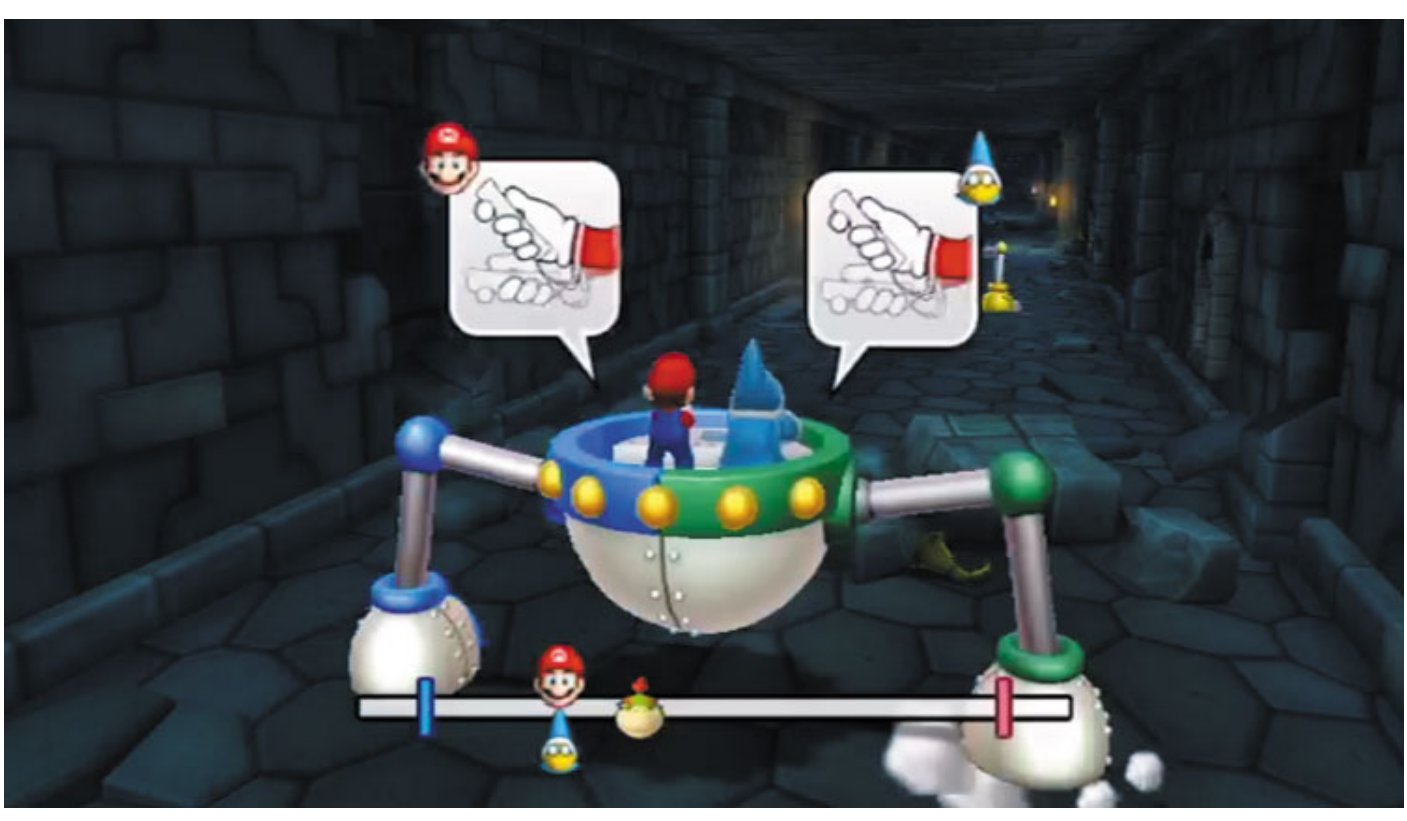

Start slow until you get a feel for the rhythm of your vehicle—one, two, one, two. You'll naturally begin to swing faster and faster, picking up speed and gaining ground.

Once you master the timing, you can swing your Wii Remote to take a step before the onscreen instructions have a chance to appear!

Caution

Don't just wave your Wii Remote around like a crazy person or you'll upset the timing of the sequence and cause your vehicle to stumble.

Swing downward once, then wait for your partner to do the same before you swing again.

At certain points, you'll need to perform a simultaneous downward swing with your partner in order to leap over rubble that lies in your way.

When you see some rubble up ahead, be prepared to swing downward along with your partner. You must both swing downward at the same time to make your vehicle leap past the debris.

The meter at the screen's bottom indicates how far ahead Jr. is of you, and how much more hallway you have to work with.

Though Jr. enjoys a good head start, the hallway is really long, so you have plenty of time to catch up. Keep on truckin' until you catch that little creep!

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Pair of Aces

How to Play

Hold your Wii Remote vertically.

Point at the area you want to shoot your cannon, and press A to fire. Press B to dodge Bowser Jr.'s incoming attacks.

In this high-flying minigame, your goal is to outgun Bowser Jr. as you battle him among the clouded skies.

Blast that little baddy three times before the clock ticks to zero and you'll ground him for good!

Jr. has some slick moves, so you've got to pick your shots carefully during Pair of Aces.

Watch the little creep carefully as he bobs and weaves all about, then be quick to blast him each time he pauses for a moment.

This is the ideal time to strike Jr. because he's really tough to hit while moving!

Pair of Aces isn't just a turkey shoot, mind you. Jr. has attacks of his own in the form of heat-seeking missiles that he commonly fires when he becomes stationary.

Be quick to press B the moment you see the B icon appear above your character, or Bowser Jr. will blast you, leaving you unable to return fire for a moment!

Like most Bowser Jr. minigames, you have a full 30 seconds to get the job done in Pair of Aces.

This is ample time, provided you're careful to avoid Jr.'s missiles and are quick on the draw when he pauses. Blast Jr. three times to send him tumbling down in flames and ensure these stormy skies are secure!

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Pedal to the Paddle

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

In Pedal to the Paddle, you and your partner must work together to operate a large gondola wheel made of spokes and platforms.

Take turns jumping on the wheel's platforms to make it travel toward the goal on the far right. Beat Bowser Jr. to the finish and race off with the win!

Steering that giant gondola wheel takes a bit of getting used to.

One player should stay near the top, leaping onto each platform as it passes across the center line and begins to descend to the right.

The other player can hang out near the bottom and jump onto platforms that the top player "sends" their way.

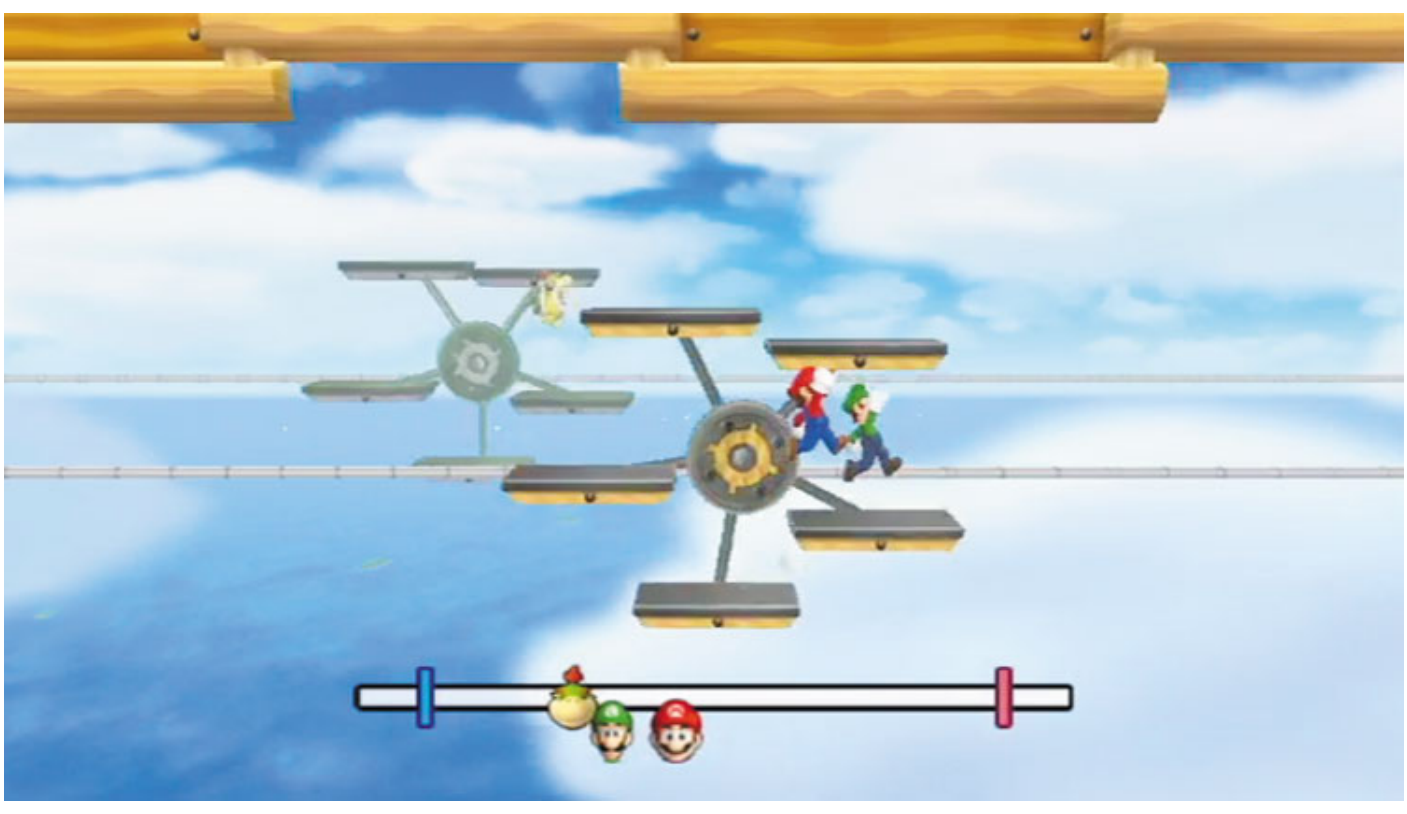

If you can keep to these ideal positions, you'll leave Bowser Jr. in the dust!

Caution

Don't land on any of the platforms while they're to the left of the gondola's center line, or your ride will stop dead in its tracks!

Caution

Try not to fall from the gondola or you'll lose precious seconds waiting to reappear!

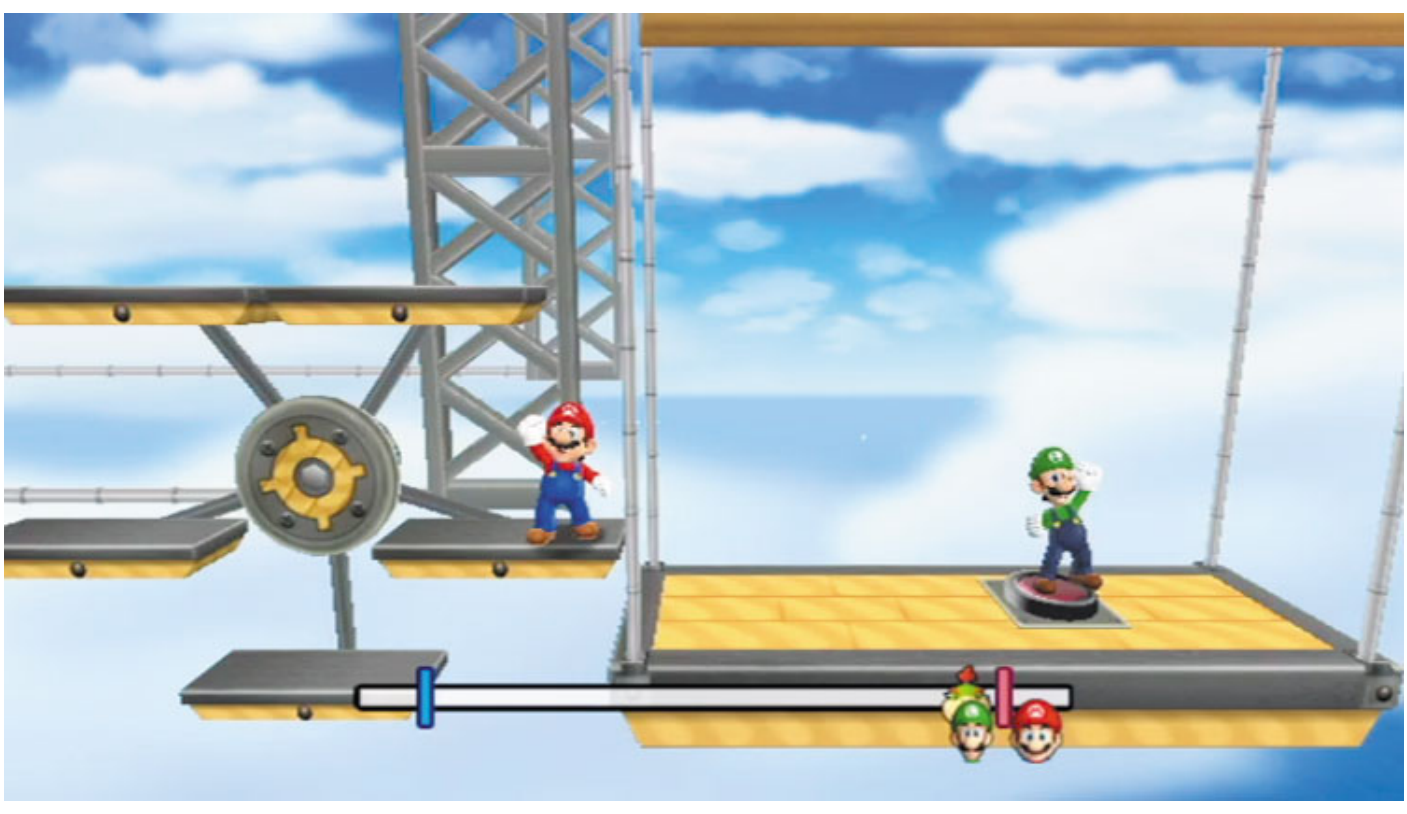

Keeping near the top of the gondola is tricky, so don't bother if you're having trouble at it.

You can still move the gondola pretty quickly by hanging out near the bottom and leaping onto the platforms as they pass the horizontal line.

It helps if one player can remain above the other, but they don't need to be all the way up top.

Moving the gondola wheel in this fashion is significantly slower, but it's still fast enough to beat Jr. on the default difficulty setting.

Just keep landing on those platforms as they spin over to the right, and make sure that wheel in the sky keeps on turning!

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Sand Trap

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Press D-Pad to move, 2 to jump, and 2 while jumping to perform a ground-pound.

Sink Bowser Jr. in Sand Trap, a unique minigame in which you and your partner must work together to trigger special panels that cause sections of the board's sandy floor to vanish.

Knock out the floor beneath Jr.'s feet to drop him into the pits!

Think of Sand Trap as a more challenging version of Double Pounder.

You and your teammate must perform simultaneous ground-pounds to activate the panels along the outside edge of the gridlike sand pit where Jr. frolics.

Each time you do this, a square segment of the sand pit evaporates, giving Jr. fewer places to hide. Keep it up until he has no place left to run!

Tip

When playing with a real buddy, use a simple two-count to time your jumps, then press 2 at the height of your jumps to spin into simultaneous ground-pounds!

Bowser Jr. is good at reading your intentions and moving out of harm's way, so you've got to work fast if you're going to trap him.

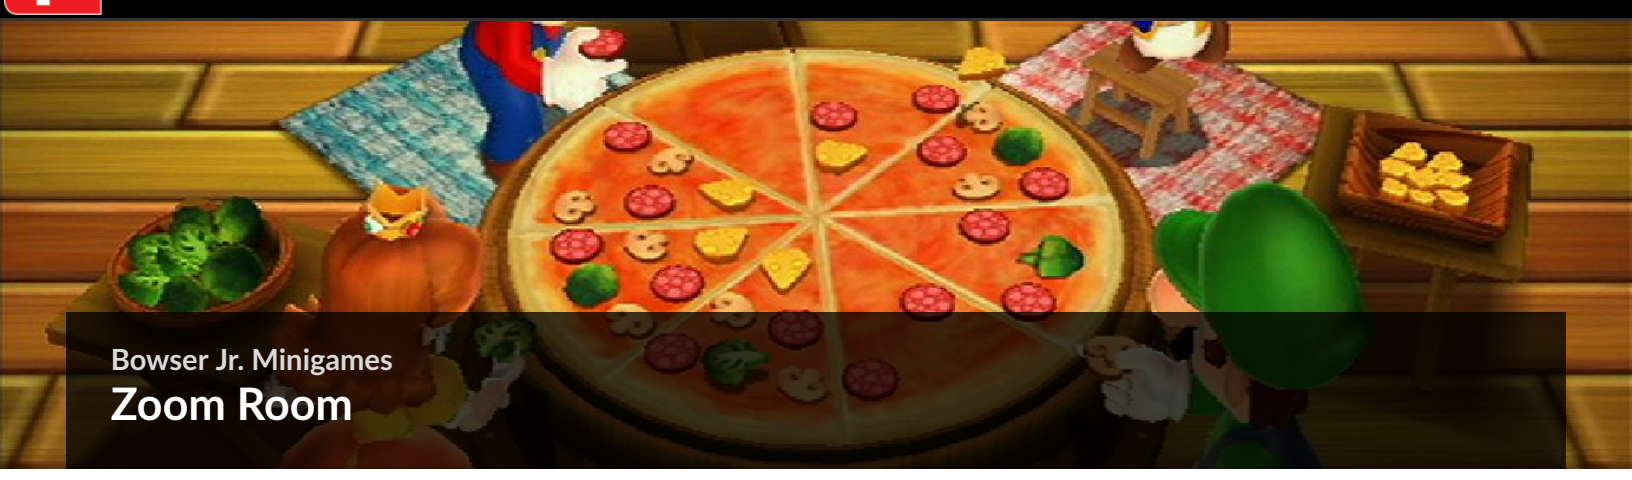

Just keep pounding those panels to make more and more of the sandy floor disappear. The faster you do this, the sooner Jr. will become stuck and unable to flee his fate!

Sand Trap is a tricky minigame until you get the hang of it.

Pay attention to where Jr. is running, and look for ways to box him in by making certain sections of the sand pit vanish before he can flee.

Once you've got Jr. cornered, eliminating him is short work. But don't dally out there in the desert sun—you've just 30 seconds to dunk Jr. beneath the dunes!

Bowser Jr. Minigames

Zoom Room

How to Play

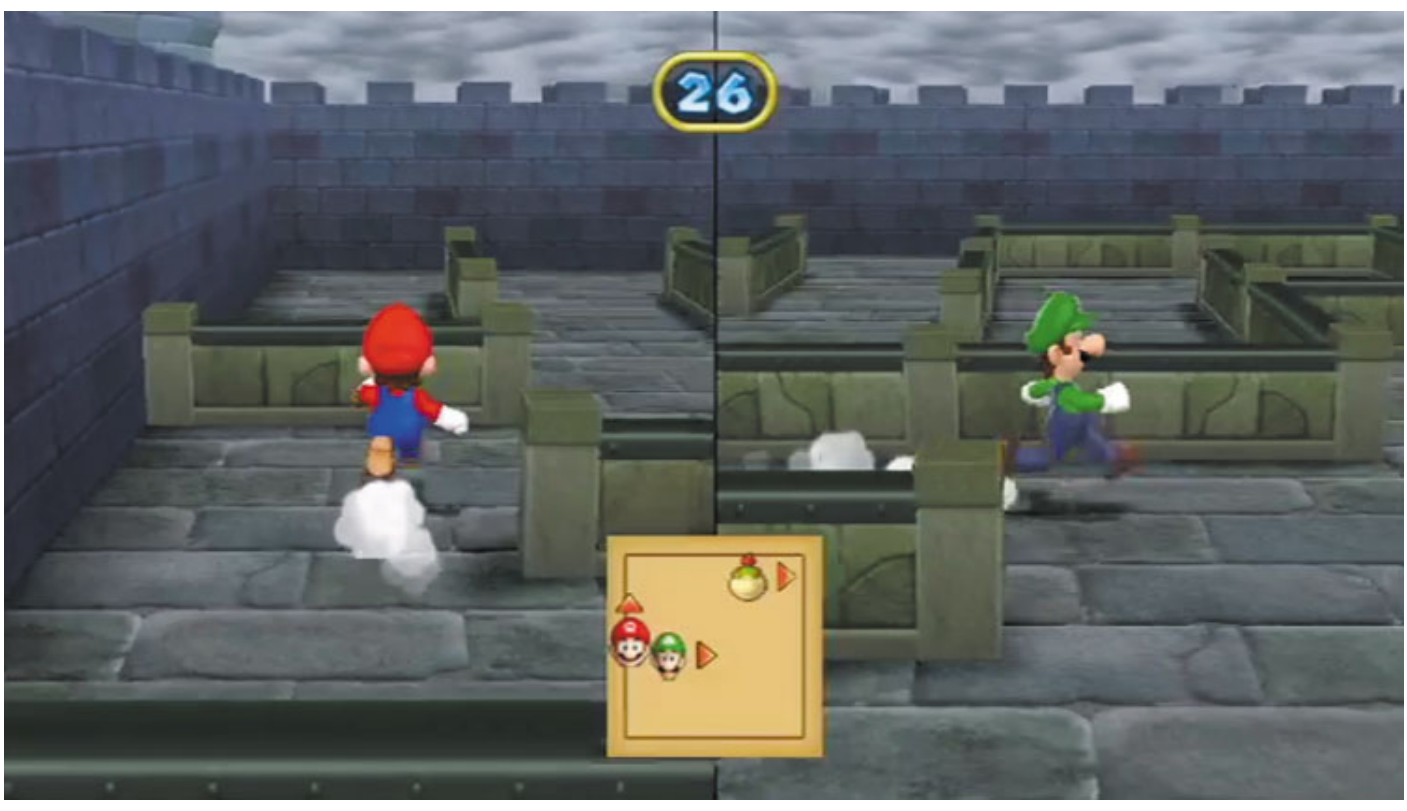

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.

Press D-Pad to move.

In this frantic dash through a mysterious maze, your goal is to track down and capture Bowser Jr. before time expires. Can you catch that little cretin before it's too late?

Zoom Room is one of the more challenging Bowser Jr. minigames because your zoomed-in view prevents you from seeing much of the maze you're running through.

Instead of relying on your eyes, you've got to use the little radar that appears at the bottom-middle of your screen.

Use this tiny HUD element to keep tabs on Jr. and your partner as you work at closing in.

Don't follow your partner through the maze. Instead, work together to corner Jr. by approaching him from separate paths.

Keep glancing back at the radar to ensure Jr. doesn't give you the slip as you begin to zero in on him. Jr. always begins way up north.

Try to trap him early, and don't let him escape to the middle or south half of the maze, or you'll have a tough time getting the job done!

Jr. is a bit faster than you and your buddy, so you've got to outsmart him. Communicating with your partner and continually glancing at the radar are the ways to do this.

The tiny troublemaker starts to sweat bullets when you and your teammate begin to close in. Don't let that pesky punk off the hook!

Boss Battle Minigames

Boss Battle Minigames Introduction

You may play all of the boss battles from every board at any time by visiting the Minigames menu. This helps you brush up on your skills for when you face these big baddies during regular Party mode games!

Even Donkey Kong and Diddy's special minigames are available to play at the Minigames menu, but only after you unlock DK's Jungle Ruins at the Museum. You'll find these same sections in the "Game Boards" chapter whenever bosses are encountered, but we figured it'd be nice to put them all in one convenient place for you as well. You're welcome!

Boss Battle Minigames

Blooper Barrage

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at the area you want to shoot, and press A to fire.

This is one of the more straightforward boss battles in the game, but that doesn't mean Blooper is a pushover. Only the objective is simple: point your Wii Remote at the screen and press A to fire your cannon at Blooper each time the boss bounds out of the surrounding blue.

You earn one point for each hit you score on the ill-tempered squid, so fire at will!

Tip

Aim for Blooper's tentacles when he leaps into the air—this gives you a good chance to hit the boss when he soon dives back underwater!

Blooper doesn't make your job easy. The slippery squid hops all around, ducks for cover underwater, and even heaves prickly Urchins that deduct one point from the player they hit.

Keep a close eye on Blooper and blast any inbound Urchins that are marked with your character's portrait. This redirects the Urchins toward another player, letting you unload on Blooper without fear of losing points!

Tip

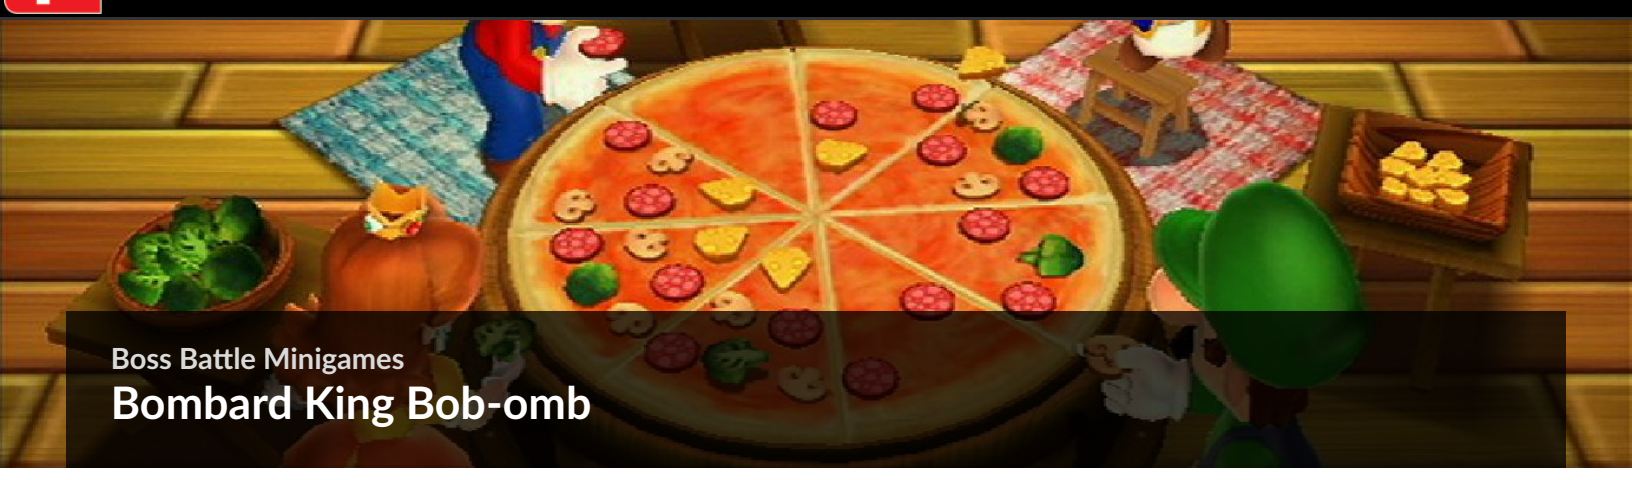

Shooting down Urchins is important, but don't let anything distract you from blasting Blooper. That's where the money is!

Bombard Blooper enough times to drain half his health, and the big squid's temper will get the better of him. Blooper will begin to bound around in a wild rage, presenting a far more challenging target. Blooper also tosses out many more Urchins than before, giving you plenty to worry about.

As if all that weren't enough, the steaming squid will even ink the screen from time to time, blotting out much of your vision. Don't let these dastardly distractions stop you from blasting Blooper to oblivion!

Boss Battle Minigames

Bombard King Bob-omb

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad, A, 1, or 2 to pick a bomb.

This event is much like a guessing game. Four bombs of varying sizes are presented to the players each turn. Secretly select a bomb by pressing the corresponding button on your Wii Remote. Your rivals will do the same!

After all four players have made their choice, their characters automatically rush toward the bomb they've chosen. Throw bombs in order from left to right, unless two or more players picked the same bomb.

Whenever this happens, those players will collide on their way to the bomb, and none of them will get to throw it! Don't always go for the biggest bomb in the batch or you may never get a chance to score.

Note

Bigger bombs do more damage to King Bob-omb and will also earn you more points. There are small, medium, and large bombs, and they're worth one, two, and three points, respectively.

Caution

When fewer than four players are fighting against King Bob-omb, the boss will sometimes randomly toss away a bomb before anyone can get to it. Jerk!

Like other bosses, King Bob-omb doesn't take kindly to having half of his health blasted away. Now each turn, the bulbous boss will toss bombs at anyone who fails to blast him with a bomb!

Being bombed by the king costs you one point, so pick your bombs wisely from this point forward. You may want to play it safe and go for the smallest bombs, which are often overlooked.

Tip

Throw the bomb on the far left when King Bob-omb is near defeat. It'll strike the boss first, giving you a better chance of scoring the final attack bonus!

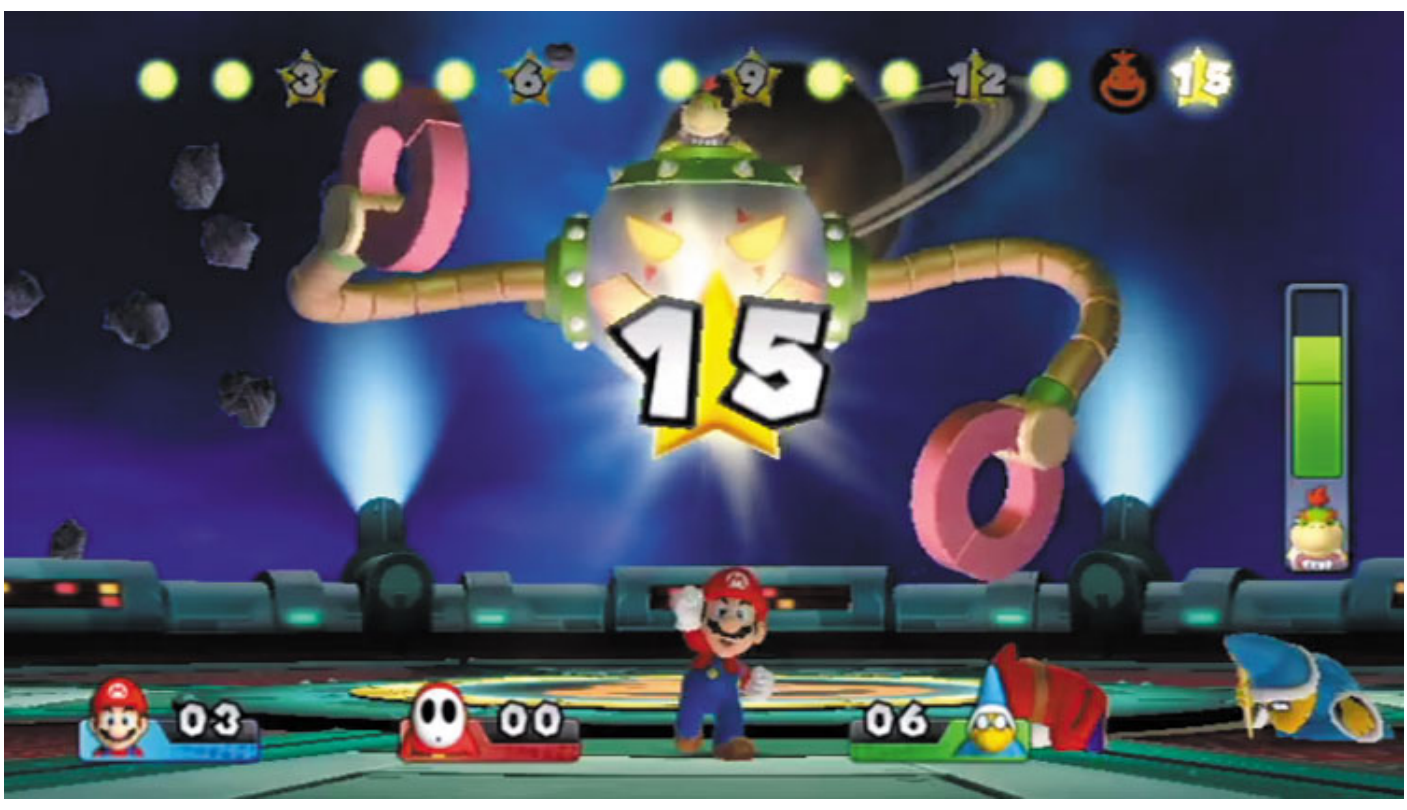

Boss Battle Minigames

Bowser Jr. Breakdown

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Press A to hit the Dice Blocks.
You can make the Dice Blocks spin faster by shaking the Wii Remote.

During this battle, each player takes turns rolling a unique Dice Block. The number that you roll will light up the same number of segments along the gauge at the screen's top. Each time you fill the gauge to one of the special star-shaped points, you get to leap over to Bowser Jr. and attack him, scoring points in the process!

If you fail to fill up the gauge to a star-shaped point, the next player gets to try. The gauge will continue to fill until someone damages Jr.; the more full the gauge, the more damage you can deal. If you manage to fill the meter without stopping on any of the star-shaped points, you'll unleash a massive attack on this trash-talking boss!

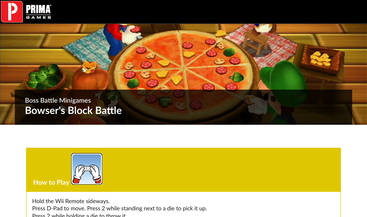

Caution

If your luck isn't running very high, you might end up filling the gauge to a Bowser Jr. point. Whenever this happens, the tables are turned and you lose some of your points. Not cool!

After you batter away half of Jr.'s health, the little guy throws a big ol' temper tantrum. Now several Bowser Jr. points appear on the gauge, making it more difficult to preserve your points. But what can you do? Just keep on rolling in the hopes that you'll damage Jr. and walk away the victor!

Boss Battle Minigames

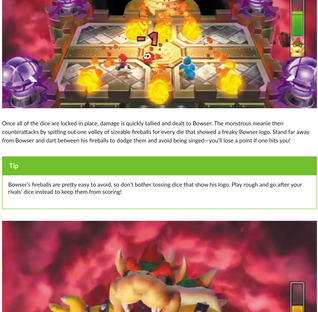

Bowser's Block Battle

How to Play

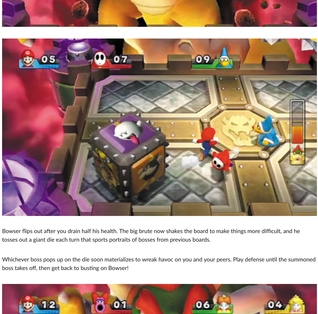

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad to move. Press 2 while standing next to a die to pick it up.
Press 2 while holding a die to throw it.

In this epic battle, hold the Wii Remote sideways and press 2 to hoist and throw oversized dice around a small, confined area. Your goal is to make your character's portrait pop up on as many dice as possible before time runs out. The more of your portraits you cause to appear, the more damage you'll deal to Bowser and the more points you'll earn in return!

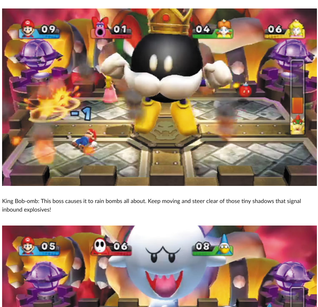

Of course, your rivals will be trying to accomplish the same feat. Don't let them! Toss any dice you see that have your rivals' portraits on them to mess up their game and potentially earn more points for yourself if your portrait pops up. See how much damage you can inflict to that big bossy brute each turn!

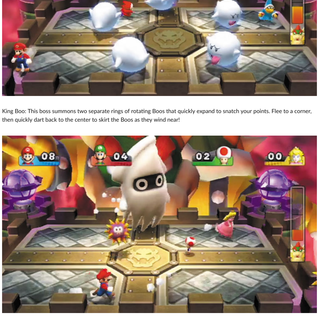

Once all of the dice are locked in place, damage is quickly tallied and dealt to Bowser. The monstrous meanie then counterattacks by spitting out one volley of sizeable fireballs for every die that showed a freaky Bowser logo. Stand far away from Bowser and dart between his fireballs to dodge them and avoid being singed—you'll lose a point if one hits you!

Tip

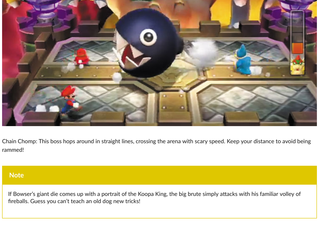

Bowser's fireballs are pretty easy to avoid, so don't bother tossing dice that show his logo. Play rough and go after your rivals' dice instead to keep them from scoring!

Bowser flips out after you drain half his health. The big brute now shakes the board to make things more difficult, and he tosses out a giant die each turn that sports portraits of bosses from previous boards.

Whichever boss pops up on the die soon materializes to wreak havoc on you and your peers. Play defense until the summoned boss takes off, then get back to busting on Bowser!

Wiggler: This boss stomps all around the arena in a rage. Stay out of his way to avoid being trampled!

King Bob-omb: This boss causes it to rain bombs all about. Keep moving and steer clear of those tiny shadows that signal inbound explosives!

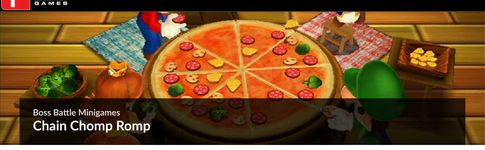

King Boo: This boss summons two separate rings of rotating Boos that quickly expand to snatch your points. Flee to a corner, then quickly dart back to the center to skirt the Boos as they wind near!

Blooper: This boss furiously hurls prickly Urchins every which way. Treat this barrage just like Bowser's fireballs: Stay near the foreground to give yourself more time to dodge!

Chain Chomp: This boss hops around in straight lines, crossing the arena with scary speed. Keep your distance to avoid being rammed!

Note

If Bowser's giant die comes up with a portrait of the Koopa King, the big brute simply attacks with his familiar volley of fireballs. Guess you can't teach an old dog new tricks!

Boss Battle Minigames

Chain Chomp Romp

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad, A, B, 1, or 2 to select a mine cart.

This unique boss battle presents you with a choice of five mine carts. Each cart will follow its own track toward Chain Chomp, but only some of the carts will take you to the cannons that lie at the run's end. Other tracks will lead you directly into Chain Chomp's choppers!

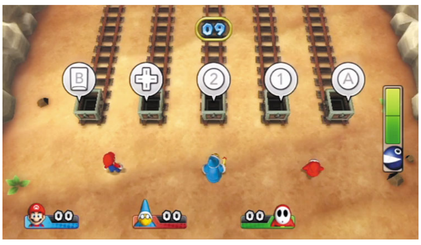

Note

Gold cannons are worth three points, while iron cannons are worth only one. Always go for the gold!

Mentally pick the cannon you wish to arrive at and then watch the tracks carefully as the camera quickly pans from the cannons back toward the players. The tracks change every turn, and certain tracks connect to others, causing you to take a wild ride toward your cannon of choice. It isn't easy, but do your best to find the ideal route for you, working backward in your mind as the camera quickly pans along the rails.

Once you've found the perfect path, press the corresponding button to select the appropriate cart before any of your rivals do!

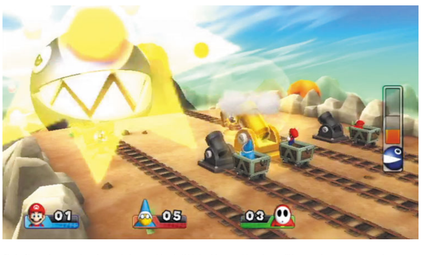

Tip

The cannons are always fired from left to right, so when Chain Chomp is near defeat, try to arrive at the cannons on the left for a better chance of scoring the final attack!

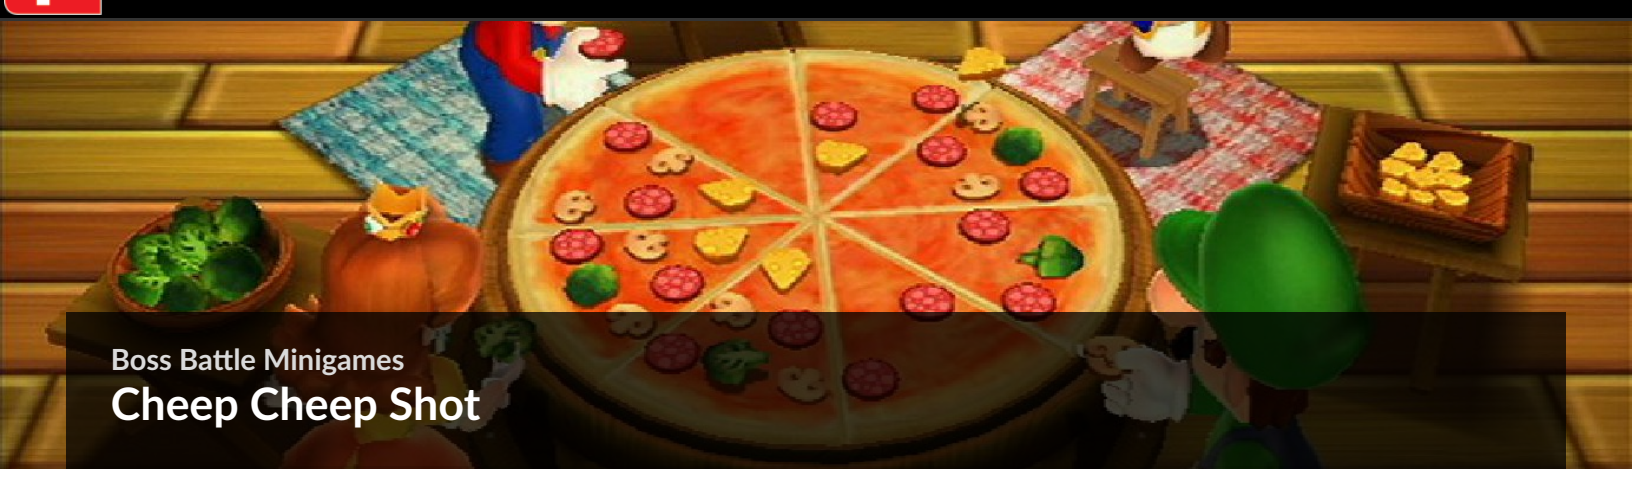

Reaching a cannon lets you blast Chain Chomp, feeding the fiend a mouthful of metal and scoring some points in the process. You lose a point each time you choose wrong and end up speeding toward Chain Chomp, so try to avoid taking this kind of thrill ride!

Chain Chomp becomes hopping mad after you blast half his health away. Now there will be even fewer cannons to choose from, and more tracks will lead toward the toothy titan. You've got to think fast when picking your carts from now on!

Boss Battle Minigames

Cheep Cheep Shot

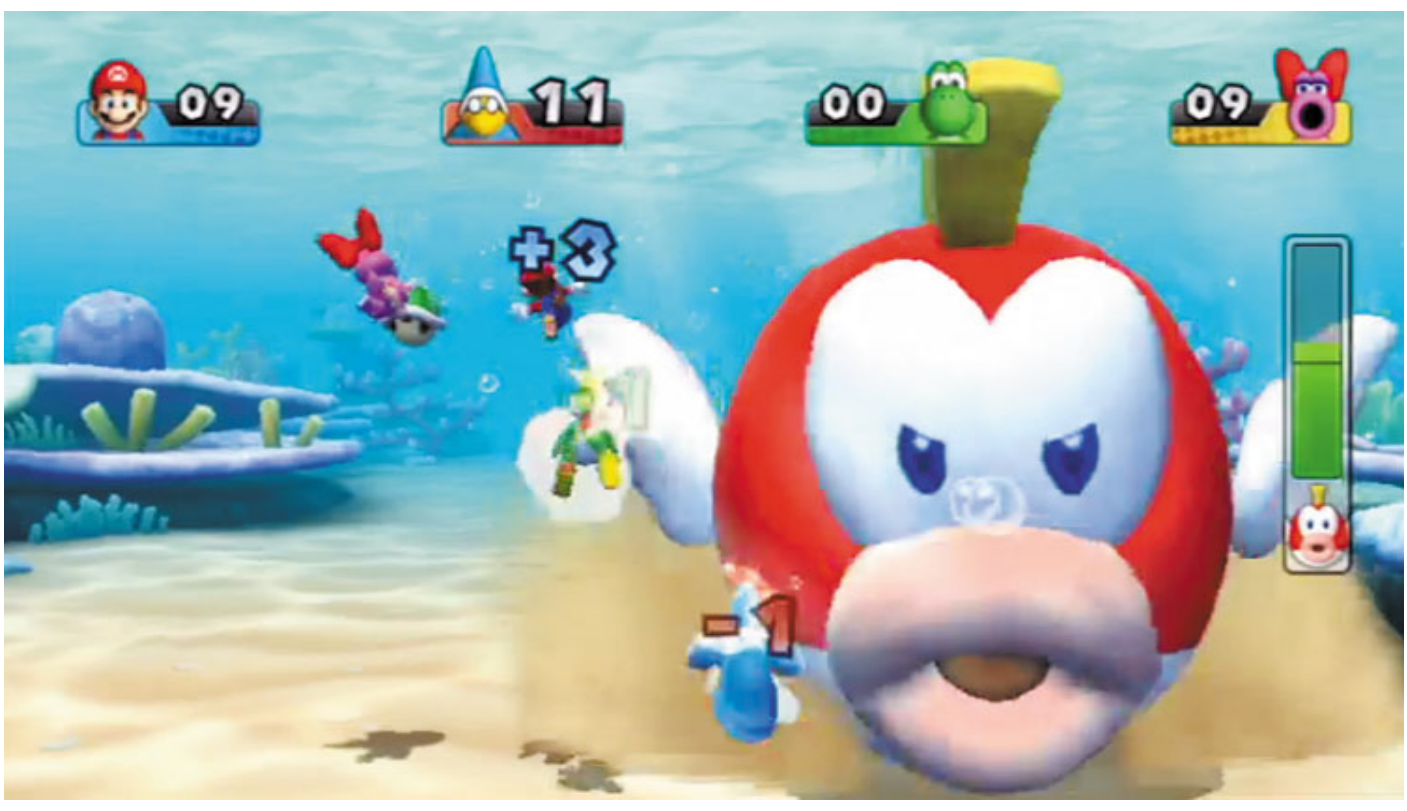

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Tilt it in the direction you want your character to move.
Swim into a shell to pick it up. Press 2 to throw shells.

Keep an eye on the background and look for shells that slowly drift toward the foreground. Swim up to a shell to grab it, then move into position and press 2 to fire the shell at Cheep Cheep. You score three points each time you smack Cheep Cheep with a shell!

Proper aim is important, but so is firing off lots of shells to score points. Don't linger in front of Cheep Cheep for long, either—the boss regularly darts toward the foreground, attempting to ram anyone who gets in the way. Being struck by Cheep Cheep causes you to lose one point, so keep clear of the boss when you're not attacking!

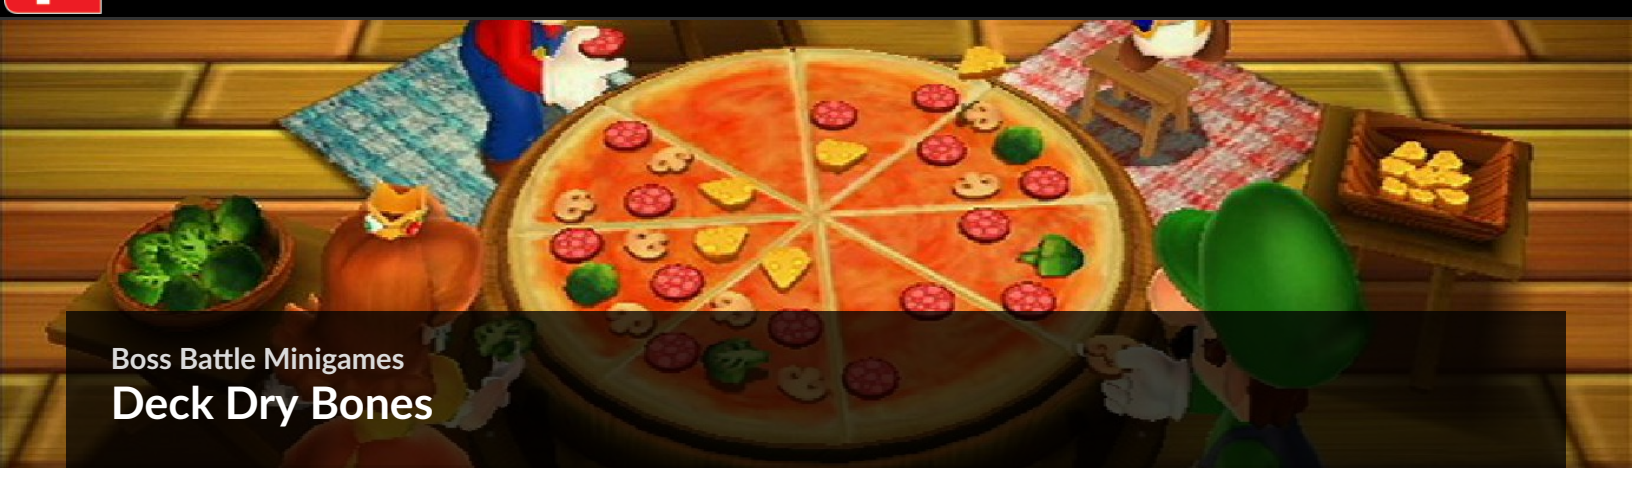

Tip

Cheep Cheep does an angry little dance before bolting forward, and he often charges at you in retaliation for hitting him with a shell. Watch that silly fish's movements carefully!

After half of Cheep Cheep's health is gone, the big baddie comes down with a serious case of shell shock. Cheep Cheep will now periodically fly into the sky and come splashing back down in a fury, knocking a point away from anyone who's caught in the irate fish's wake. Watch Cheep Cheep's shadow when the boss takes flight, and make sure you're nowhere near the splashdown point!

Boss Battle Minigames

Deck Dry Bones

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Point at the card you want to select, and press A to confirm.

This boss battle plays out much like a memory game. Several cards are shown faceup for a brief moment before they're all turned facedown. Try to remember the symbols on each card!

Dry Bones arrives moments later, landing on one of the colored platforms to the side. Notice where he lands, then quickly point your Wii Remote at the card you believe matches his platform's color and shape, and press A to select it. You've got to be quick or your rivals might choose the card before you!

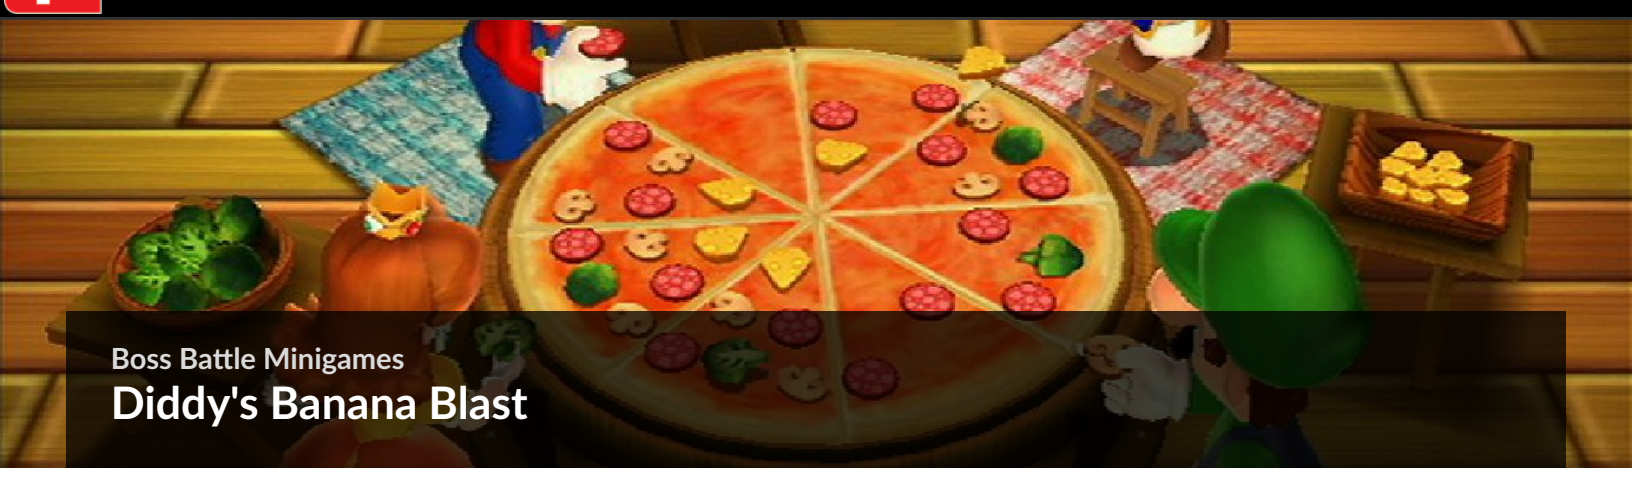

Guessing right wins you three points and causes Dry Bones to suffer damage. More and more cards are presented as the battle wears on, along with more types of Dry Bones platforms, making matters increasingly difficult. Worse, certain cards will sport Dry Bones logos—don't pick these or the fiend will toss a bone at you, knocking away one of your points!

Dry Bones may seem like a pushover at first, but he really cranks up the challenge after you cut down half his health. Now Dry Bones will shuffle the cards after they've been flipped facedown, making it tough to remember which cards were where! Do your best to pick cards that match Dry Bones's platform until you at last bury this bothersome baddy.

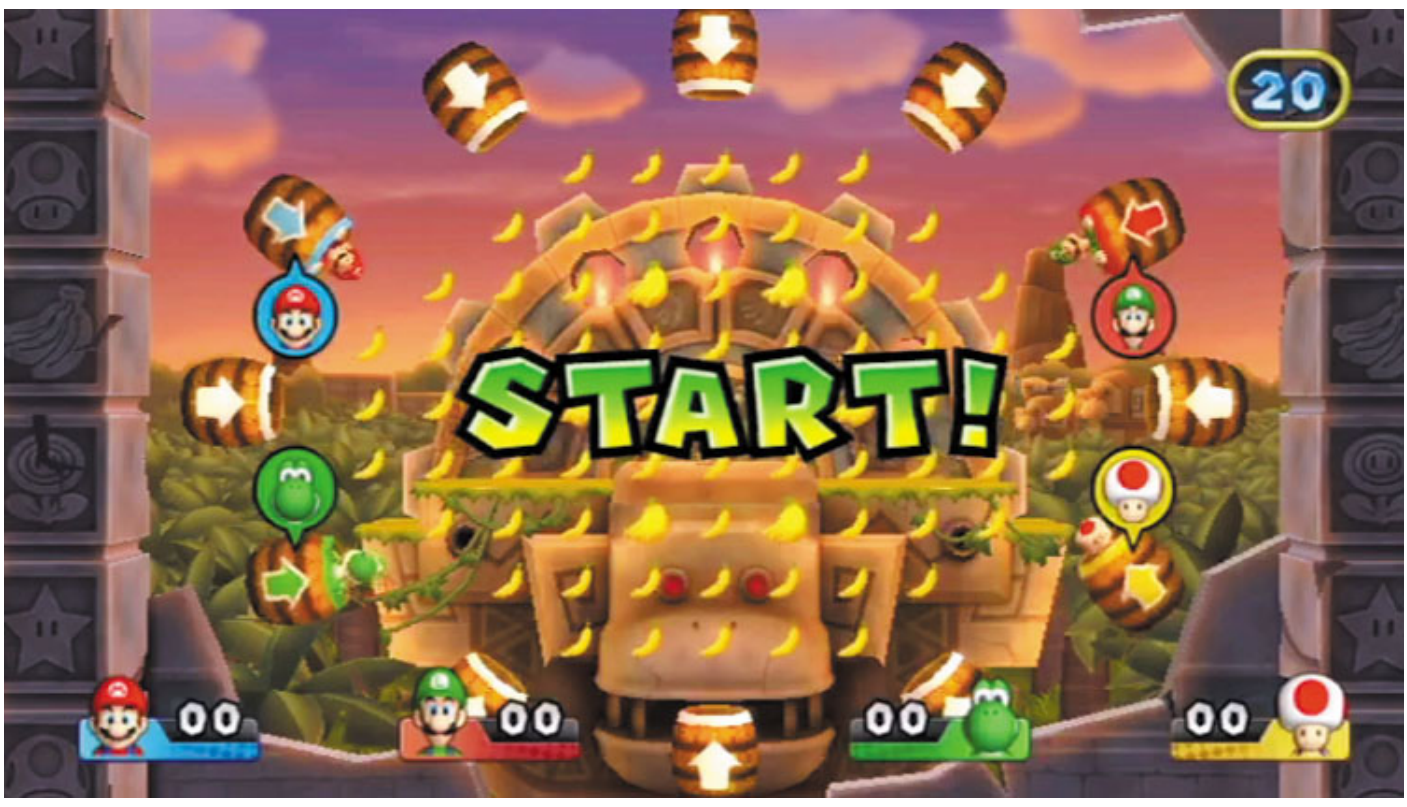

Boss Battle Minigames

Diddy's Banana Blast

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press 2 to launch yourself out of the Barrel Cannons.

Diddy leads you to a secret part of the ruins, where a wide ring of barrels surrounds a big spread of Bananas. Each player begins in a barrel. Hold the Wii Remote sideways and press 2 to boost out, grabbing Bananas on your way across the grove!

At first, just keep hammering 2 to quickly boost between barrels and collect as many Bananas as possible. When the pickings become slim, start using the barrels' guide arrows to line up and launch toward the few Bananas that remain. You may need to zip to another barrel before you can set up a good line of travel, but don't waste too much time!

Tip

The barrels' guide arrows change to the color of the player who's seated inside. This helps you keep track of your character during this wild Banana scramble!

Note

If a rival is already seated inside a barrel that you're headed toward, you'll bounce harmlessly off of him or her and land in a nearby barrel instead. Midair collisions are also possible, causing you to tumble off-course!

This mad dash for Bananas ends when time ticks down or there are no more Bananas left to grab. You can score big during this event if you're lucky, so give it all you've got!

Boss Battle Minigames

DK's Banana Bonus

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways. Press 2 to launch yourself out of the Barrel Cannon.
Press D-Pad to move left or right while in midair.

In this exciting event, a row of barrels lines the ground, with a host of Bananas floating up above. Hold the Wii Remote sideways and press 2 to blast out of the barrels, then press left or right to steer yourself in midair, aiming to claim as many Bananas as you can!

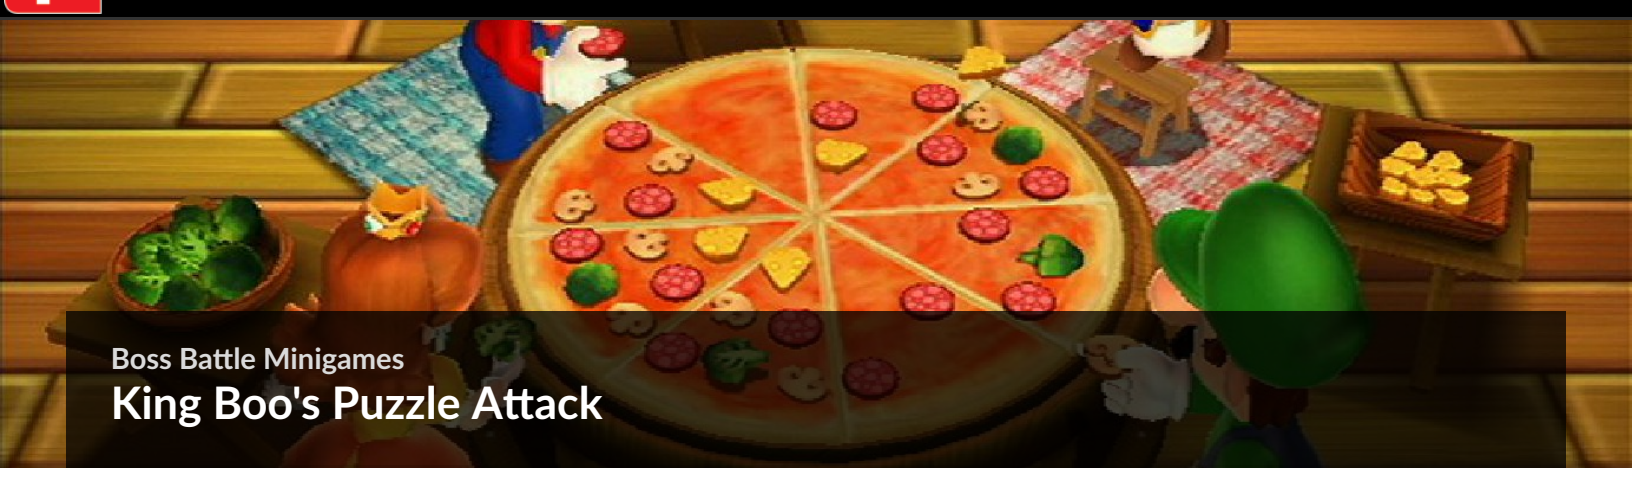

The biggest bunches hover way up on high. Rocket up to the moving barrel that drifts above the lower hanging fruit, then soar upward to claim even more tropical delights!

Those Bananas just keep coming, so don't stop launching until time runs out. See if you can impress DK with your fruit-harvesting skills!

Boss Battle Minigames

King Boo's Puzzle Attack

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad to move the cursor.
Press 2 to select an item, then press up, down, left, or right on g to trade places with another item.

In this frantic boss battle, you must damage King Boo by connecting three or more of the same type of item across a wide playing grid. Hold the Wii Remote sideways and press 2 to select an item, then press any direction to slide the item to a neighboring space, trading places with another item. Whenever you manage to connect three or more items in a straight line (not diagonally), you'll deal damage to King Boo!

Note

There are five different types of items: blue and red Fire Flowers, red and green Koopa Shells, and those almighty lightning bolts.

All items inflict the same amount of damage to King Boo except lightning bolts, which deal significant extra damage and also deduct some points from all of your rivals. Connecting lines of four or more is also worthy of bonus points, but don't get too fancy—just do your best to keep those points rolling in by scoring as often as you can!

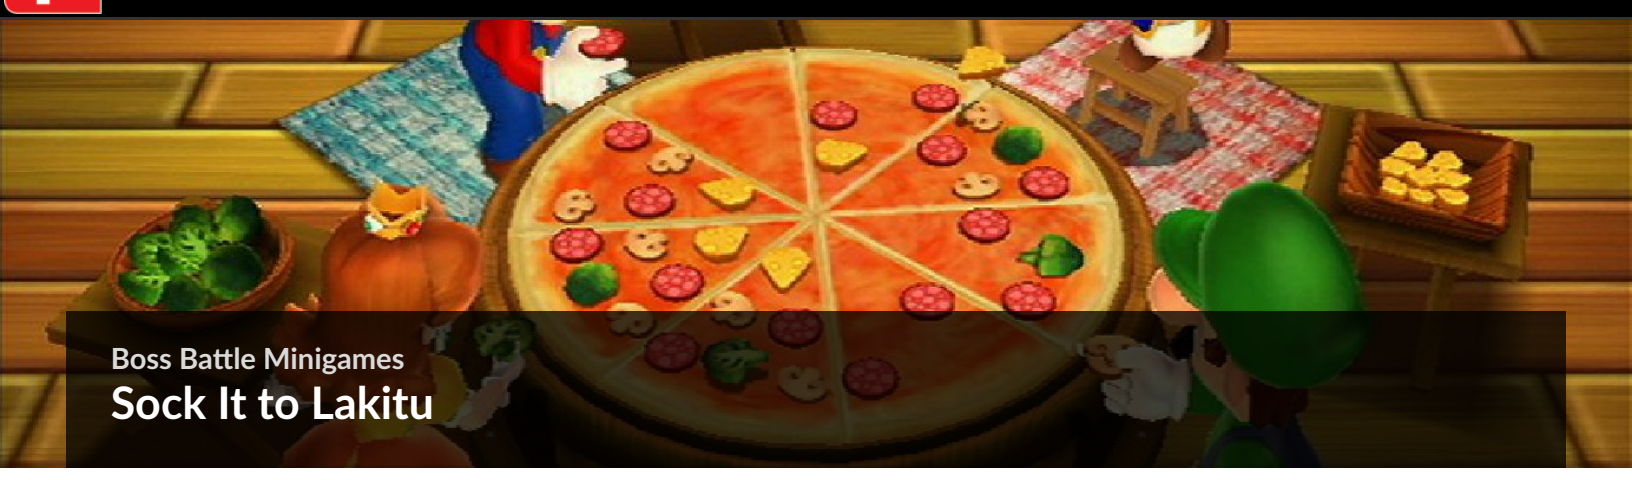

Note

There's no penalty for making a move that doesn't damage King Boo, so keep shifting items around until you make something happen!

King Boo throws a royal fit after you lop off half of his health. Now regular Boos will start chasing your cursor around the screen, freezing it in place whenever they manage to catch up. Quickly shake the Wii Remote to break free of a Boo's grip, then get back to beating on their wicked king!

Boss Battle Minigames

Sock It to Lakitu

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Use the D-Pad to move and 2 to jump.

Your goal is simple: Just press 2 to jump up and hit the floating blocks whenever Bullet Bills appear on them. This will cause one, two, or three Bullet Bills to fly out and blast Lakitu—the amount varies based on the number of Bullet Bills that are shown on the block when you hit it. The more Bullet Bills on the block, the bigger the attack!

Caution

Don't hit the blocks when a Spiny appears on them, or you'll spawn a troublesome enemy!

Caution

Avoid falling off the edge of the grassy area, or you'll lose time waiting to respawn.

Each Bullet Bill causes a bit of damage to Lakitu, whose health is measured by a meter on the right. You also earn one point each time you hit Lakitu. Your goal is to have the highest score at the end of the battle, so blast this bad boss early and often!

Caution

Steer clear of the roaming Spiny enemies that Lakitu hurls into play. You lose a precious point each time you bump into one!

Tip

Don't wait too long for those valuable triple Bills—you won't earn any points if a rival manages to run up and hit the block before you!

Lakitu becomes really angry after you blast half of his health away, and the boss throws a giant Spiny into play that's tough to avoid. Worse, this hulking Spiny costs you two points when touched—not good! Keep far away from the giant Spiny to preserve your precious points, and continue launching Bullet Bills at Lakitu until the boss finally goes down.

Boss Battle Minigames

Spike Strike

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically.
Quickly point at a hammer, and press A to choose it.
Be careful you don't pick a branch by mistake!

Hold the Wii Remote vertically during this frantic battle and aim at one of the "?" logos that appear onscreen. These logos will soon change into pictures of hammers and sticks. Quickly press 2 to pick up a hammer before your rivals can take it!

After you grab a hammer, you'll automatically use it to smack one of Spike's rolling balls back at him. This is why you don't want to pick up sticks—they're too puny to do the job!

You get one point for knocking balls back at Spike with an iron hammer, and three points for whacking them back with a gold hammer. Wooden sticks aren't worth anything—in fact, you'll lose a point when the stick shatters and the ball rolls you over!

Caution

There aren't always enough hammers to go around. Even iron hammers are preferable at times like these!

Soon enough, Spike will start seeing red. Like other bosses, this happens when you knock his health down to halfway. Now there will be even fewer hammers to choose from and less time to decide, forcing one or more players to suffer a loss of points each turn. Be quick to grab the first available hammer to protect your precious points!

Boss Battle Minigames

Whomp Stomp

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote vertically. Press left or right on D-Pad to select 0 or 1 turns of the platform.
While standing on Whomp, press A to jump and A again to ground-pound.

In this unique boss battle, each player must choose how many turns they wish to move around the central platform.

Hold the Wii Remote vertically and press right to move one turn, or press left to remain stationary. The idea is to pick a number that won't cause you to wind up underneath the background space, upon which Whomp comes crashing down after each turn. This is easier said than done, because you never know how many turns the platform will take. Everyone's choice is a secret!

When playing with four players, one unlucky soul will always wind up next to Whomp. This poor fellow is in for a nasty smashing! Each time Whomp comes crashing down on a player, they lose one point. Think about what your rivals might be picking and try not to end up under Whomp!

The remaining players who were not crushed by Whomp have a chance to score some points. Whomp falls face-first when he slams the ground, leaving his back exposed. Hurry and ground-pound him by pressing 2 to jump and 2 again in midair! Each successful ground-pound earns you three points, making this a high-scoring contest.

Note

The player who lands on the left space will have the least amount of time to ground-pound Whomp, while the player who lands on the right space has the most time. Don't wait for rivals to climb onto Whomp's back—start ground-pounding the moment you hop up there!

Tip

Hammer 2 as fast as you can to perform short ground-pounds that take less time. You can ground-pound Whomp up to four times if you're quick!

Eventually, Whomp will become irate and slam the center of the platform, increasing the turn count before anyone can choose how many turns they wish to move. Keep this in mind and continue to outthink your rivals in an effort to avoid being pancaked.

Boss Battle Minigames

Wiggler Bounce

How to Play

Hold the Wii Remote sideways.
Press D-Pad to move, 2 to jump, and 2 while jumping to perform a ground-pound.

To damage Wiggler, simply jump with 2 and then press 2 again to come crashing down with a heavy ground-pound move. Ground-pound Wiggler's various segments to harm the boss and score points.

You earn one point for ground-pounding Wiggler's plentiful purple segments and three points for ground-pounding the rare red segments. Pound those red spots as often as possible to pad your point total!

Tip

Ground-pound your rivals to temporarily flatten them!

Caution

Beware of Piranha Plants that emerge from the ground. Don't get too close or they'll take a bite out of you—and your points! You lose one point each time a Piranha Plant chomps you, so keep away.

Wiggler repeatedly trucks through the arena, damaging any player who gets in the way. Being walloped by Wiggler costs you a point, so avoid lingering in front of this rampaging boss!

After you've ground-pounded away half of Wiggler's health, the boss goes into full beast mode: Wiggler turns purple and starts to stomp around even faster!

Aiming for the red segment is tough at this stage, so just go for whatever segment is easiest to reach and keep those points trickling in. Continue pounding away until you finally bring Wiggler's reckless run to an end.

Minigame Modes

Introduction

It's no secret that Mario Party 9 is full of exciting and inventive minigames that put your reflexes and puzzle-solving skills to the test.

But you don't need to roll the dice around those game boards every time you wish to enjoy these bite-sized events.

Just visit the Minigames menu, and you can run through Mario Party 9's vast array of minigames in totally new and exciting ways!

Let's take a look at all of the various modes you'll find under the Minigames menu—there's plenty to know about each one!

Minigame Modes

Free Play

Free Play mode lets you jump straight into any minigame in Mario Party 9's massive library—no muss, no fuss.

Simply pick a minigame category from the four tabs along the top of the screen to view the entire catalogue of minigames that fall into that particular group.

Move the cursor across all those little screens, and each minigame's name will pop up in a word bubble. Choose the one you want to play, configure the number of players, and start partying!

Note

The "Minigames" chapter of this guide has been organized to pair nicely with Free Play mode.

All of the games are grouped by category in that chapter, so it's easy to find the one you'd like to learn more about. Click back a few sections and see for yourself!

Free Play mode shows you how many minigames there are to explore, and it helps you keep track of the ones you've played.

Any time you play a certain minigame in one of Mario Party 9's myriad of game modes, that minigame will receive a check mark in Free Play mode to indicate that you've played it before.

This lets you quickly find the games you've yet to play!

Note

Two minigames won't appear in Free Play mode until you purchase Mario Party 9's lone hidden board, DK's Jungle Ruins.

These are the special minigames that Donkey Kong and Diddy Kong have in store for you.

Unlock DK's Jungle Ruins by purchasing it at the Museum, and you'll find these two special games under Free Play mode's Boss Battles tab.

Minigame Modes

Step It Up

Step It Up is a neat little minigame mode in which up to four players compete in a series of minigames. Each time a player wins a game, they'll climb a little ways up a long flight of stairs.

The first one to step up their game and reach the top wins!

You have control of a few important options during Step It Up. First, decide how many victories will be needed to reach the top of the stairs: three, five, or seven.

The more wins you require, the longer and more exciting the Step It Up event will be!

Next, decide the type of minigame you wish to play. You can choose to play Free-for-All minigames or 1-vs.-Rivals minigames.

The first option allows for lots of variety, because there are 44 different Free-for-All events! While there are only 10 1-vs.-Rivals minigames, these can add extra drama to Step It Up mode, because competing players will be forced to work together on the same team!

Note

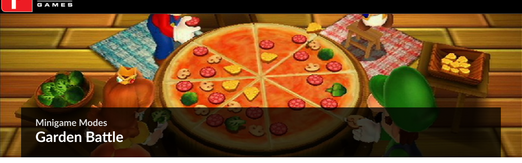

When you play 1-vs.-Rivals minigames in Step It Up, the player whose turn it is will always act as the solo player, while the rest will play on the team of rivals. Talk about top-flight competition!

The turn order is randomly determined at the start of Step It Up, and a special minigame wheel is spun each turn to randomly determine the event you'll play.

When it's your turn to spin the wheel, be quick to press A and try to stop on an event that you want.

Best your rivals more often than not to scale those steps and celebrate your rise to glory!

Minigame Modes

Garden Battle

Garden Battle is a unique minigame mode in which each player must fill their own square plot of soil with special plant blocks. But before anyone can get their hands dirty, they've got to compete in exciting minigames!

Each round of Garden Battle begins with a challenging Free-for-All minigame. Do your best to achieve victory in every minigame event—it'll help you fill your garden with flora!

When a minigame ends, the players get to choose plant blocks from a big ol' cart that's wheeled into the garden. The plant blocks are randomly arranged into clusters of different shapes and sizes, and some clusters will be much larger than others.

Whoever earned first place during the minigame gets first pick of the plant blocks. The minigame's second-place finisher gets to choose their blocks second, and so on.

This is a big benefit to the minigames' victors, because getting the pick of the litter helps them pack their plots much faster than their peers!

Note

It's not all bad news for the last-place finisher, for they get a chance to choose the next minigame!

When it's your turn to select a group of plant blocks, it's usually best to take the biggest cluster available.

Simply point at the desired group of blocks and press A to pick them up, then point to where you'd like to plant them in your plot and press A again to confirm.

Try not to leave any odd gaps when placing your blocks in your soil plot, or you'll have to win significantly more minigames to fill out your garden.

Twist the Wii Remote while placing your blocks to line them up just how you like.

Tip

It usually helps to place blocks along the outer edges of your plot and work your way inward or toward one corner—this makes it easier to fill in those vacant spaces down the stretch!

When Garden Battle events get down to the nitty-gritty, it pays to start playing dirty.

Plant blocks can only be placed if there's room for them to fit, so spy your rival's soil plots and look to steal the smaller block clusters that they need as their plot fills up.

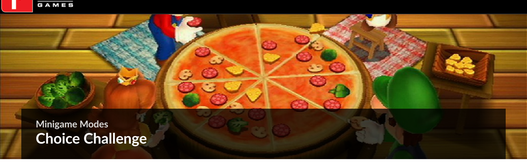

Leave your rivals with nothing but big groups of blocks that won't fit inside their plots, and they won't be able to plant a thing!

Tip

When your garden is nearly full, try to leave space for familiar plant block clusters that you've seen before. This can help you cultivate the win a little quicker!

The player who's first to fill out their plot with plant blocks wins the Garden Battle event. If that's you, be sure to stop and smell the roses!

Minigame Modes

Choice Challenge

Choice Challenge is a gameshow-style minigame mode for up to four players. Each contestant secretly picks three of the five random Free-for-All minigames that are presented to them.

Players will only participate in minigames that they've secretly chosen, and points are awarded based on who wins each game. The player with the most points at the end of the show wins the grand prize!

One hundred points are awarded to the player who finishes in first place after each minigame; 50 points go to the second-place finisher, and 30 points are doled out to the player who ends up in third.

Finishing dead last isn't ideal, but you do get a small consolation prize of 10 points to keep you in the runnings!

Because each player gets to pick the games they want to play, some games will only be contested between two or three players, even when a full panel of four contestants is playing Choice Challenge.

You can't win any points if you're not involved in a game, so just sit back and enjoy the show.

If only two or three players are involved in an event, only the top prizes will be doled out. For example, in a two-player showdown, one player will win 100 points, and the other will win 50.

It's therefore wise to pick difficult minigames that you think your rivals won't choose to play, because you'll have a better chance of scoring big!

Note

If only one player picks a particular minigame, that player will instantly win the top prize without even having to play!

Note

If an entire group of COM (computer-controlled) players is involved in a minigame, the event will be automatically resolved so that the real action can quickly continue.

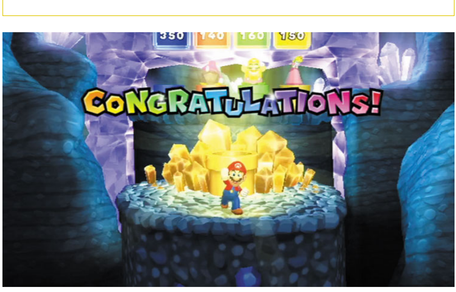

One of the five random minigames will always be showcased as the Chance Minigame. This special event lets the first-place finisher score 150 points, making Chance Minigames potential game-changers.

The other prizes for a Chance Minigame remain the same: 50 points for second place, 30 points for third, and 10 points for last place.

Note

Chance Minigames are always played as the final event in Choice Challenge, but you're informed as to which game will be the Chance Minigame before making your picks.

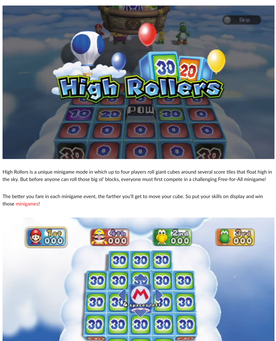

Be sure to toss your hat in the ring for these pivotal events!

Anything can happen in Choice Challenge, so don't be discouraged if you don't fare well in the first game or two.

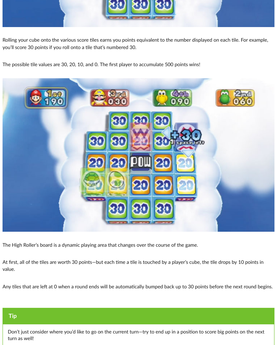

Play hard and do your best to come out on top in every minigame, and you'll do just fine!

High Rollers

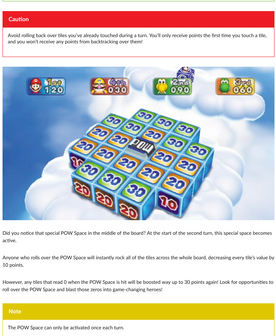

High Rollers is a unique minigame mode in which up to four players roll giant cubes around several score tiles that float high in the sky. But before anyone can roll those big ol' blocks, everyone must first compete in a challenging Free-for-All minigame!

The better you fare in each minigame event, the farther you'll get to move your cube. So put your skills on display and win those minigames!

Rolling your cube onto the various score tiles earns you points equivalent to the number displayed on each tile. For example, you'll score 30 points if you roll onto a tile that's numbered 30.

The possible tile values are 30, 20, 10, and 0. The first player to accumulate 500 points wins!

The High Roller's board is a dynamic playing area that changes over the course of the game.

At first, all of the tiles are worth 30 points--but each time a tile is touched by a player's cube, the tile drops by 10 points in value.

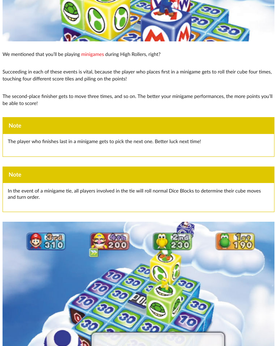

Any tiles that are left at 0 when a round ends will be automatically bumped back up to 30 points before the next round begins.

Tip

Don't just consider where you'd like to go on the current turn--try to end up in a position to score big points on the next turn as well!

Caution

Avoid rolling back over tiles you've already touched during a turn. You'll only receive points the first time you touch a tile, and you won't receive any points from backtracking over them!

Did you notice that special POW Space in the middle of the board? At the start of the second turn, this special space becomes active.

Anyone who rolls over the POW Space will instantly rock all of the tiles across the whole board, decreasing every tile's value by 10 points.

However, any tiles that read 0 when the POW Space is hit will be boosted way up to 30 points again! Look for opportunities to roll over the POW Space and blast those zeros into game-changing heroes!

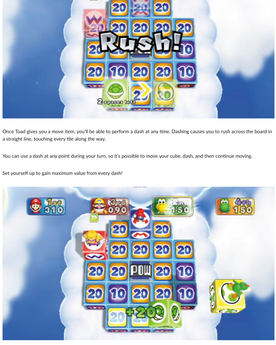

Note

The POW Space can only be activated once each turn.

Note

If a player's cube is ever "boxed in" by other players and is unable to move, the cube will be whisked away to the center of the board, triggering the POW Space when it lands.

Then the player will be able to move their cube as normal.

We mentioned that you'll be playing minigames during High Rollers, right?

Succeeding in each of these events is vital, because the player who places first in a minigame gets to roll their cube four times, touching four different score tiles and piling on the points!

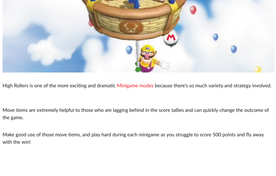

The second-place finisher gets to move three times, and so on. The better your minigame performances, the more points you'll be able to score!

Note

The player who finishes last in a minigame gets to pick the next one. Better luck next time!

Note

In the event of a minigame tie, all players involved in the tie will roll normal Dice Blocks to determine their cube moves and turn order.

As you know from playing Mario Party 9's various game boards, Toads just love an underdog.

But instead of handing out special Dice Blocks like they do at a game board's checkpoint, the Toad who runs High Rollers will grant special move items to players who are falling behind in the score totals.

These special items grant the ability to perform game-changing moves called dashes!

Note

A special icon appears near the portraits of players who possess move items.

Once Toad gives you a move item, you'll be able to perform a dash at any time. Dashing causes you to rush across the board in a straight line, touching every tile along the way.

You can use a dash at any point during your turn, so it's possible to move your cube, dash, and then continue moving.

Set yourself up to gain maximum value from every dash!

Move items help you score oodles of points, and you can use them to mess with your rivals. Dash into any other player's cube, and it will be knocked from the game board.

If that unfortunate player has yet to move their cube this turn, they won't be able to move it at all until their next turn!

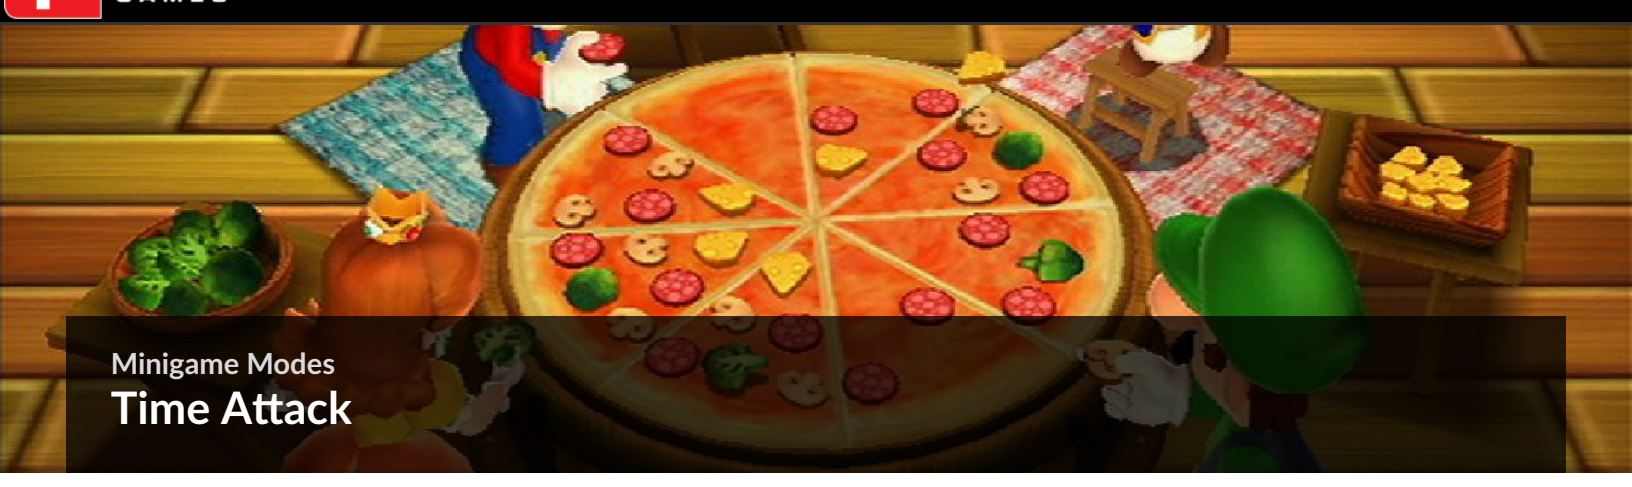

Note

Don't bother dashing into players who have already moved this turn--it won't set them back much, if at all. Only seek out rivals who have yet to move their cube.

High Rollers is one of the more exciting and dramatic Minigame modes because there's so much variety and strategy involved.

Move items are extremely helpful to those who are lagging behind in the score tallies and can quickly change the outcome of the game.

Make good use of those move items, and play hard during each minigame as you struggle to score 500 points and fly away with the win!

Minigame Modes

Time Attack

Time Attack is a one-player minigame mode in which your goal is to complete a series of 10 special minigames as fast as you can.

Your running time is tallied at the end of each event, with your final overall time presented at Time Attack's end. Let's see how fast you can smash through those tasks!

Tip

Spend a mere 100 Party Points to unlock the "Staff Best" item from the Museum and see the insanely low Time Attack record achieved by Nintendo's expert players.

If you can beat that ridiculous record time, consider yourself a master Mario Partier!

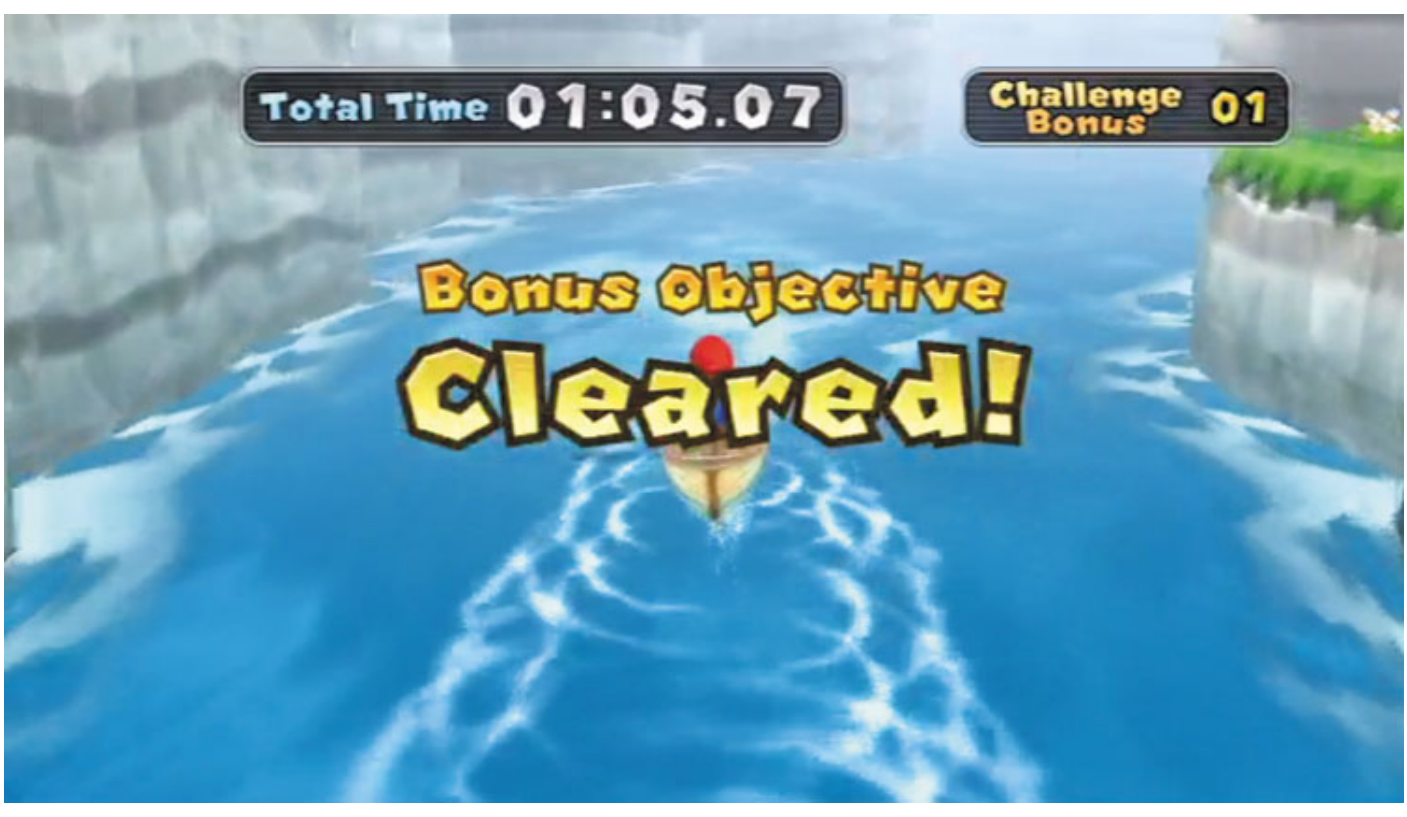

You always face the same 10 minigames during Time Attack mode, but you can modify the order in which they're played.

Once you're familiar with each of these events, decide which ones are your weakest links, and opt to play those ones first.

This way, if you really mess up, you can quit out and start over again without having lost too much time in the effort.

Tip

Save your favorite Time Attack minigame orders so you can quickly recall them at any time in the future!

Every minigame in Time Attack mode comes with a special Bonus Objective that can shave precious seconds off your overall time.

Three seconds are deducted from your final time for every one of these special objectives you complete, meaning a whopping 30 seconds can be deducted from your overall time if you manage to complete all 10!

Going after Bonus Objectives helps you perform better in the minigames anyway, so it's well worth attempting them.

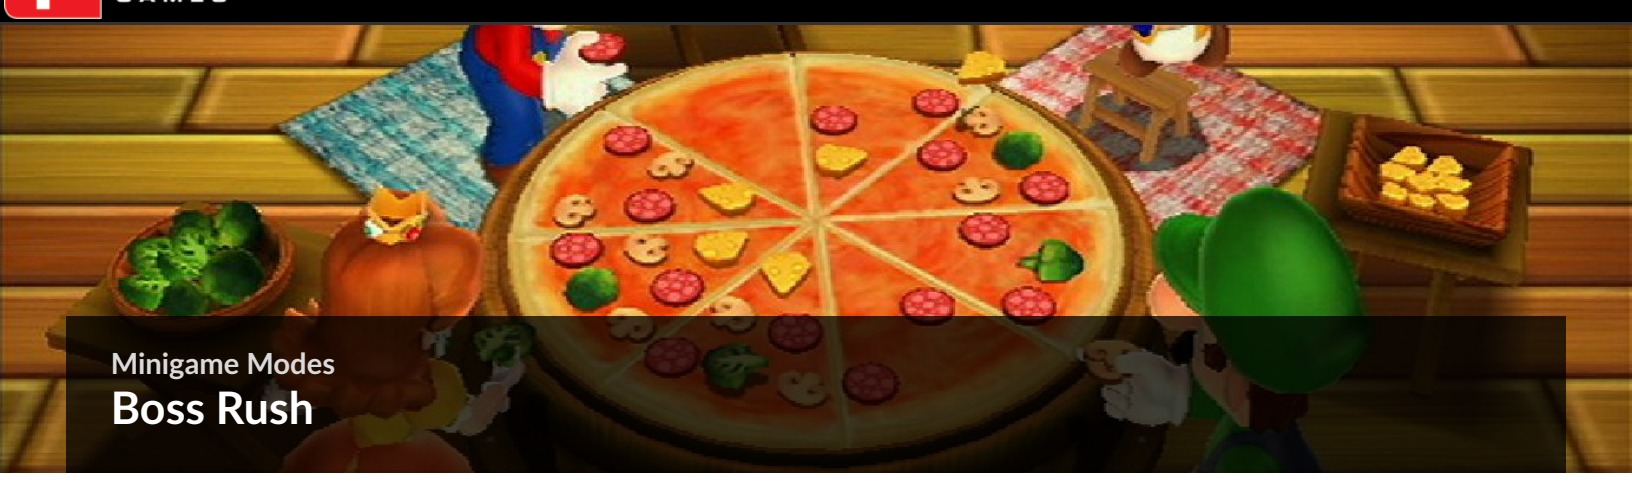

The following table lists all 10 Time Attack minigames, along with their individual default Time Attack records and special Bonus Objectives. Put this information to good use and pick out the order you think will serve you best!

Tip

Check the "Minigames" section of this guide for tips and strategies on every event you face in Time Attack mode!

Time Attack Minigames

Game	Objective	Time Attack Record	Bonus Objective
Snow Go	Complete 10 laps on your snowmobile!	50 sec.	Use the dash ramp on every lap!
Jigsaw Jumble	Complete five puzzles!	30 sec.	Only place correct pieces!
Peak Precision	Climb to the top of the wall!	15 sec.	Only press the correct buttons!
Speeding Bullets	Ride Bullet Bill all the way to the goal!	45 sec.	Pass over every dash zone!
Chain Event	Avoid the Spiked Balls, and reach the bottom!	25 sec.	Don't hit more than one Spiked Ball!
Ballistic Beach	Hit the targets on all of the islands!	60 sec.	Hit all the targets in 10 shots or fewer.
Upward Mobility	Jump your way to the goal at the top!	35 sec.	Reach the top without jumping on the same block twice!
Pizza Me, Mario	Toss all of the toppings on each slice of pizza!	60 sec.	Don't make any mistakes when tossing toppings on the pizza!
Flinger Painting	Cover over 90 percent of the canvas with paint!	25 sec.	Cover 90 percent or more of the canvas using 10 shots or fewer!
Pit or Platter	Roll the ball onto the glowing areas, and earn 100 points!	45 sec.	Complete the game without dropping the ball!

Minigame Modes

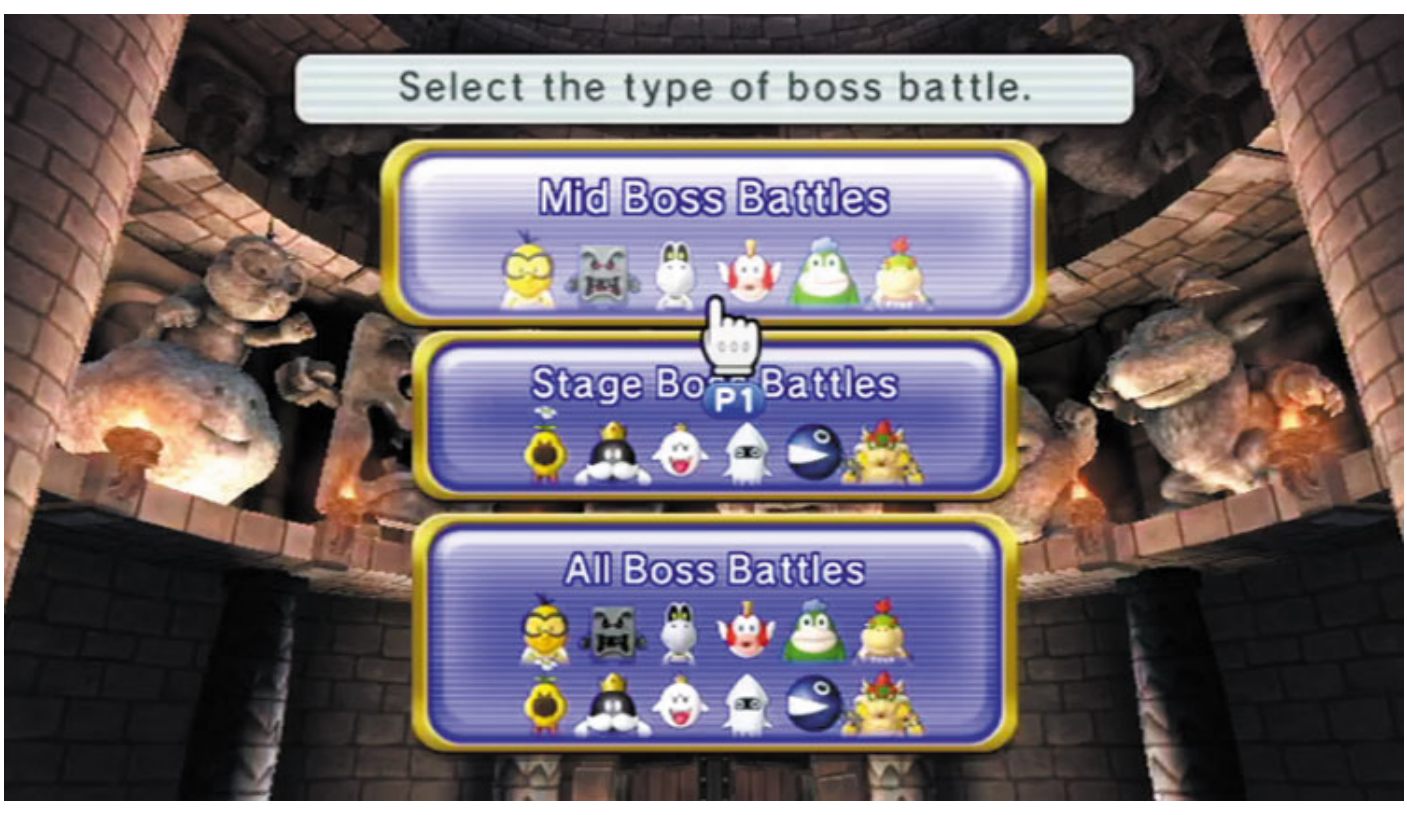

Boss Rush

Spend 500 Party Points to unlock this excellent minigame mode from the Museum.

In Boss Rush, up to four players can blaze through every boss battle, one after the next, vying to score more points than their peers by outperforming them in combat.

Which player will be the best at beating down those burly bosses?

You may choose to play all six mid-boss battles (the baddies you fight at the game boards' forts) or all six stage-boss battles (the titans you face at each board's end).

Or, opt to run the full Boss Rush gauntlet and face all 12 boss battles in one go!

Five points are awarded to the player who finishes in first place after each Boss Rush battle, while three points are given to the second-place finisher.

The player who comes in third earns two points, and the player who finishes last adds just one point to their total. Hey, it's better than nothing!

Tip

A few first-place finishes can make all the difference, so don't be discouraged if you flub up once in a while—just keep on fighting for first place and you'll do fine!

Boss Rush battles are always fought in the same order the bosses are encountered in Solo mode. Here's that order, to help you prepare:

Mid Bosses

Whomp (Whomp Stomp)

Dry Bones (Deck Dry Bones)

Cheep Cheep (Cheep Cheep Shot)

Spike (Spike Strike)

Bowser Jr. (Bowser Jr. Breakdown)

Stage Bosses

Wiggler (Wiggler Bounce)

King Bob-omb (Bombard King Bob-omb)

King Boo (King Boo's Puzzle Attack)

Blooper (Blooper Barrage)

Chain Chomp (Chain Chomp Romp)

Bowser (Bowser's Block Battle)

Extras

Castle Clearout

Pop by the Extras menu to view a small selection of additional game modes. Each of these modes offers enough challenge and replayability to consume hours of your life, so let's take a good look at what these exciting Extras have in store!

In this precision-based puzzle game, your goal is to place an endless series of falling marbles into groups by color. Each time you make six or more marbles of the same color touch one another, those marbles vanish. As a result, any other marbles of different colors that may have been resting on the marbles that just disappeared will tumble downward to land on the marbles below.

There are 50 levels to Castle Clearout, each one becoming more and more difficult. Your goal in every level is the same: Clear out all of those special Star Marbles at the bottom of the screen to win!

Note

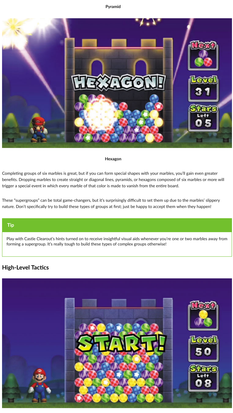

You'll earn two Party Points for every board you clear in Castle Clearout, even if you beat the same boards multiple times. This is a great way to pad your PP account!

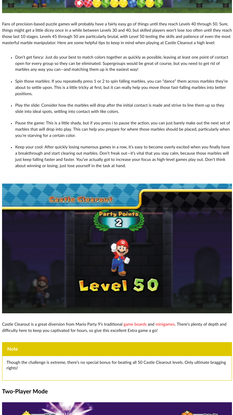

The secret to success in Castle Clearout is somewhat obvious: You need to group those colors together. The first several levels are a breeze, because you only have a few colors to worry about—but by the time you reach Level 10, you'll be working with a full spread of five different colors. At this point, matching colors becomes vital. You don't need to have a specific goal in mind, just keep dropping those marbles onto each other to match them up by color as best you can.

Tip

Take advantage of marble drops that come pre-packaged in groups of two or three of the same color—these can help you beat the odds when the going gets rough!

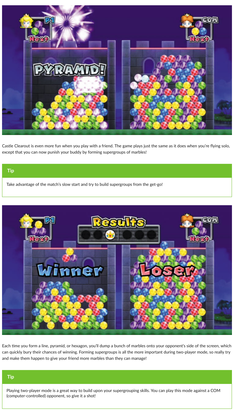

The other vital tip to keep in mind is that you need to avoid "closing off" groups of marbles that you're attempting to build upon. Simply ensure that at least one of the marbles in a group can be "touched" by a future marble of the same color. As long as even one marble in a group can be touched, you can continue to build upon that group until you manage to connect six or more and make them all vanish!

Eliminating marbles can often cause a "cascade effect" in which marbles above tumble down to land on other marbles below, automatically completing groups of six or more and causing a second or even a third group of marbles to vanish in chain reaction. This is why it's so important to group your colors together—it sets up radical cascades that can quickly clear out a whole bunch of marbles all at once!

Supergroups

Line

Pyramid

Hexagon

Completing groups of six marbles is good, but if you can form special shapes with your marbles, you'll gain even greater benefits. Dropping marbles to create straight or diagonal lines, pyramids, or hexagons composed of six marbles or more will trigger a special event in which every marble of that color is made to vanish from the entire board.

These "supergroups" can be total game-changers, but it's surprisingly difficult to set them up due to the marbles' slippery nature. Don't specifically try to build these types of groups at first; just be happy to accept them when they happen!

Tip

Play with Castle Clearout's hints turned on to receive insightful visual aids whenever you're one or two marbles away from forming a supergroup. It's really tough to build these types of complex groups otherwise!

High-Level Tactics

Fans of precision-based puzzle games will probably have a fairly easy go of things until they reach Levels 40 through 50. Sure, things might get a little dicey once in a while between Levels 30 and 40, but skilled players won't lose too often until they reach those last 10 stages. Levels 45 through 50 are particularly brutal, with Level 50 testing the skills and patience of even the most masterful marble manipulator. Here are some helpful tips to keep in mind when playing at Castle Clearout a high level:

- Don't get fancy. Just do your best to match colors together as quickly as possible, leaving at least one point of contact open for every group so they can be eliminated. Supergroups would be great of course, but you need to get rid of marbles any way you can—and matching them up is the easiest way!
- Spin those marbles. If you repeatedly press 1 or 2 to spin falling marbles, you can "dance" them across marbles they're about to settle upon. This is a little tricky at first, but it can really help you move those fast-falling marbles into better positions.
- Play the slide. Console how the marbles will drop after the initial contact is made and strive to line them up so they slide into ideal spots, settling into contact with like colors.
- Pause the game. This is a little shady, but if you press I to pause the action, you can just barely make out the next set of marbles that will drop into play. This can help you prepare for where those marbles should be placed, particularly when you're starving for a certain color.
- Keep your cool. After quickly losing numerous games in a row, it's easy to become overly excited when you finally have a breakthrough and start clearing star marbles. Don't freak out—it's vital that you stay calm, because those marbles will just keep falling faster and faster. You've actually got to increase your focus as high-level games play out. Don't think about winning or losing; just love yourself in the task at hand.

Castle Clearout is a great diversion from Mario Party 9's traditional game boards and minigames. There's plenty of depth and difficulty here to keep you captivated for hours, so give this excellent Extra game a go!

Note

Through the challenge is extreme, there's no special bonus for beating all 50 Castle Clearout levels. Only ultimate bragging rights!

Two-Player Mode

Castle Clearout is even more fun when you play with a friend. The game plays just the same as it does when you're flying solo, except that you can now punish your buddy by forming supergroups of marbles!

Tip

Take advantage of the match's slow start and try to build supergroups from the get-go!

Each time you form a line, pyramid, or hexagon, you'll dump a bunch of marbles onto your opponent's side of the screen, which can quickly bury them chances of winning. Forming supergroups is all the more important during two-player mode, so really try and make them happen to give your friend more marbles that they can manage!

Tip

Playing two-player mode is a great way to build upon your supergroupings skills. You can play this mode against a COM (computer-controlled) opponent, so give it a shot!

Extras

Shell Soccer

Pair up with a partner and take to the field in Shell Soccer, a fast-paced 2-vs.-2 sporting event in which each team tries to send that soccer shell flying at the opposing team's row of Goomba goalies. Knock out every opposing Goomba to win the game!

Note

You score two Party Points per game of Shell Soccer, regardless if you win or lose. Sweet!

Each game of shell soccer begins with a kickoff, where the shell sits in the center of the field and the players are huddled around it. Rather than rushing after the shell, let the opposing team grab it first—then quickly steal it away! This is highly effective during kickoffs that occur after goals are scored, because the team who lost Goombas will start a little closer to the shell than the team that scored. Keep your momentum going after each goal and steal that shell the moment the action resumes!

While carrying the shell, press 2 to pass to your partner, or press 1 to shoot for those Goombas. By pressing and holding 1, you can adjust the angle of your shot. This can help you knock out multiple Goombas in one shot. But beware: You're a sitting duck while taking the time to aim!

Tip

Bounce the shell off of brick walls to whack those Goombas off the rebound!

Caution

Any rival who stands between you and your target will automatically intercept the shell during a pass or shot. Make sure the shell's path of travel is clear!

Players who aren't carrying the shell move faster than the shell carrier, which lets defenders quickly catch up. Whenever you're on defense, try to snatch the shell away from the opposing carrier by pressing 2 to perform a quick sliding steal. Simply slide into the shell carrier to steal the shell away. You cover lots of ground when sliding, so make good use of this excellent defensive move!

When rival defenders are giving you grief, you've got to start playing the passing game. One player should remain in rival territory most of the time, ready to accept a long pass and shoot for the Goombas. Stealing the shell is somewhat easy, so let one player handle primary defense while the other moves about downfield, ready to score at a moment's notice!

Tip

When you're the player who's awaiting a pass downfield, watch where your rivals are moving and position yourself so that passes from your partner won't be intercepted.

Shell Soccer is a great addition to Mario Party 9's shorter minigames and longer game board romps. Spend some time out there on the field and find your rhythm while you go for the goal!

Extras

Goomba Bowling

Ever feel like that Goomba Bowling minigame is over before it really begins? Well, visit the Extras menu, and you can play an enhanced version of this minigame favorite! When playing the Extras version of Goomba Bowling, you get to play a complete game of five frames, and each player gets two shots per frame to knock down as many Goombas as possible. The player with the highest score at the end of the five frames wins!

Tip

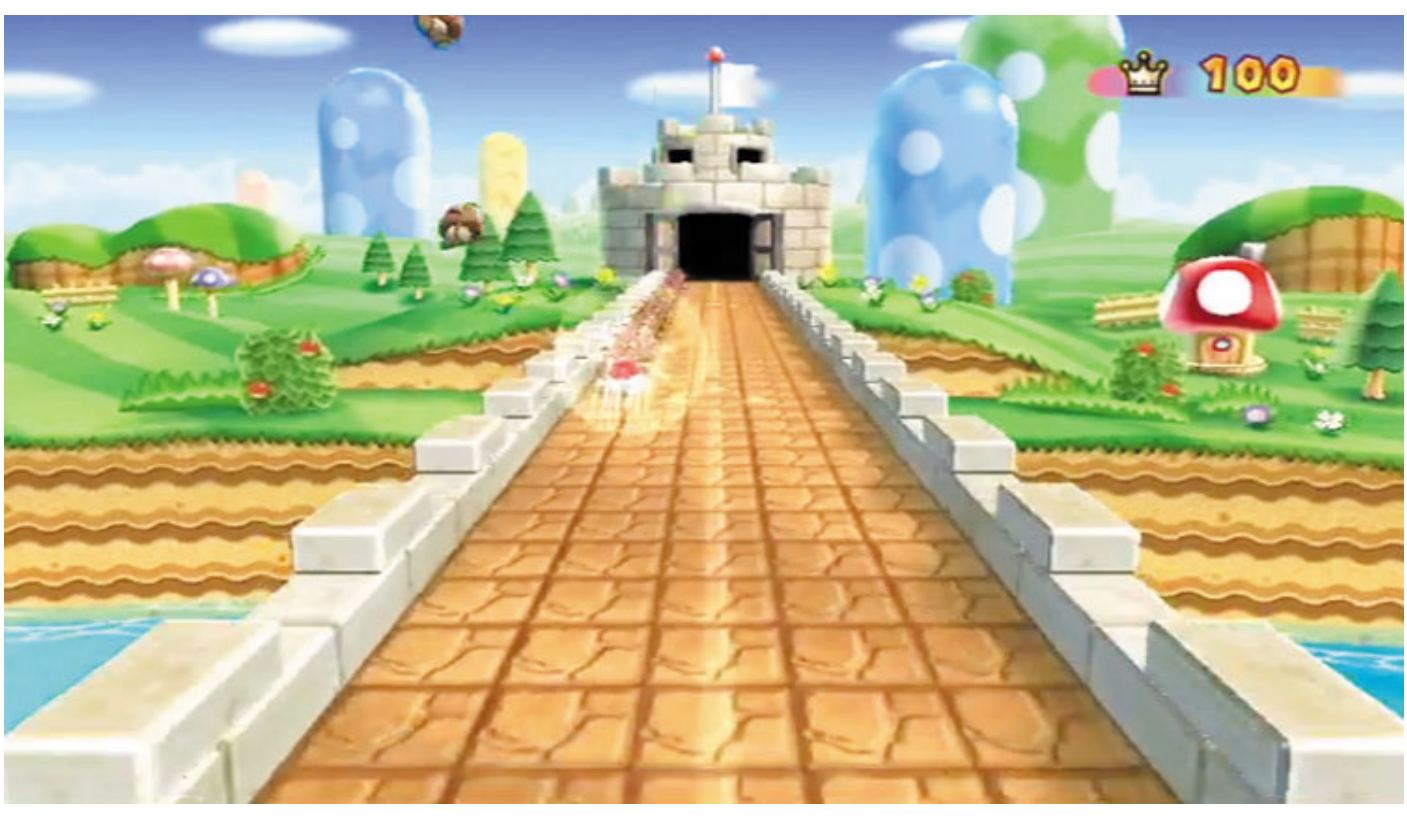

Whether you win or lose, you'll earn five Party Points for every game of Goomba Bowling you play. Good stuff!

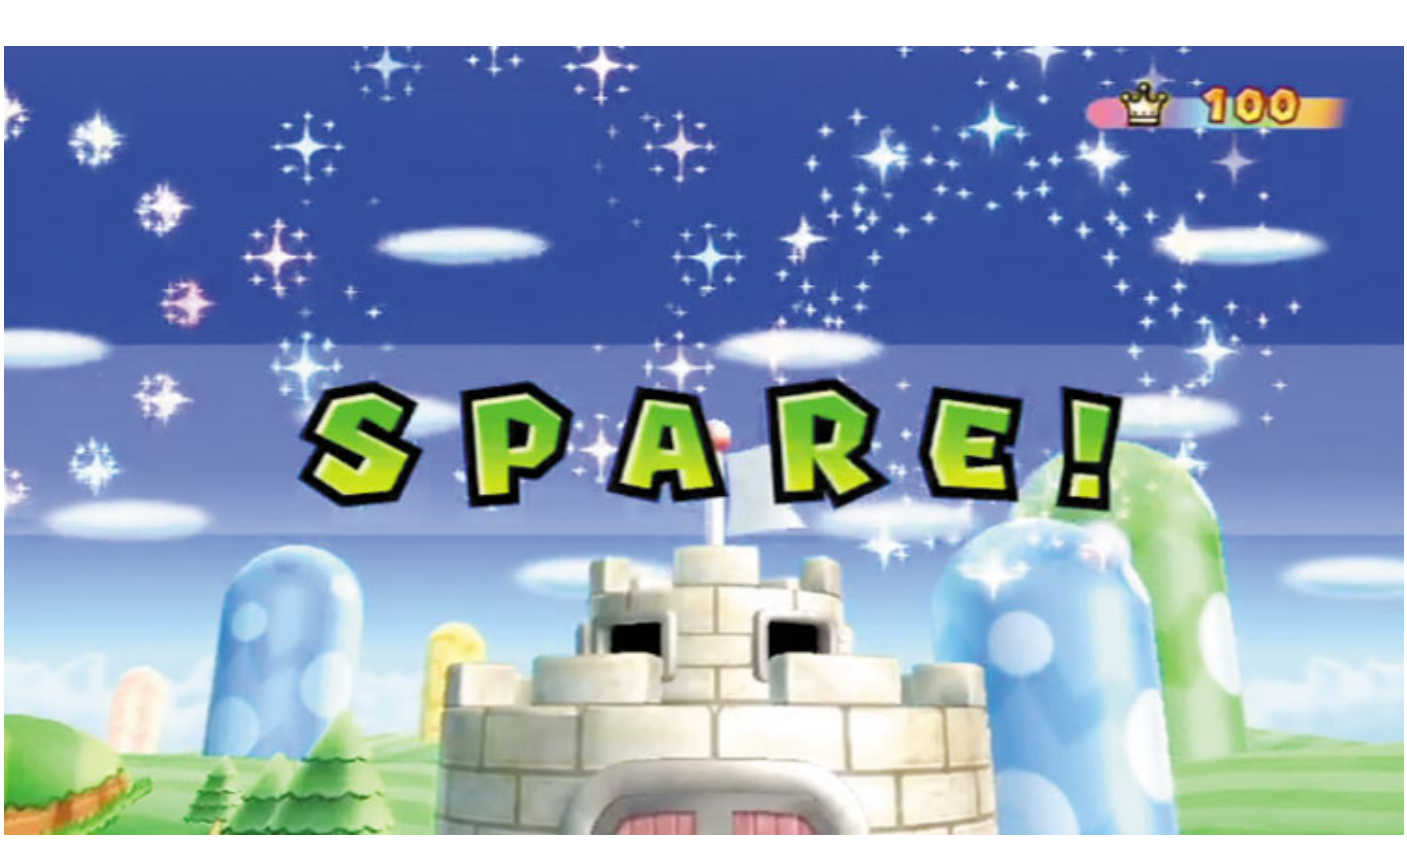

The nuts and bolts of Goomba Bowling remain the same as the minigame—the only differences are in the details. Take care in setting up your shots by studying how the Goombas are moving. The more out of sync the Goombas are stomping, the more drastically you'll need to adjust your angle. Consider how quickly the Goombas are shuffling as well—the faster they move, the more angle you need to add in order to compensate.

Tip

For your first toss, it usually helps to line up your throwing angle so that it closely matches the Goombas' line of travel. Then make any necessary adjustments during your second toss!

Because you get two throws instead of just one, you're able to score bonus points by picking up spares. A spare occurs whenever you manage to knock down every lingering Goomba on your second throw. Don't worry if you didn't manage to whack every Goomba on your first try—you always get a second chance to pick up that spare!

There are 20 Goombas to hit, each one being worth one point. However, by picking up a spare on your second throw, you earn 10 bonus points in addition to the 20 you get from hitting all of the Goombas. That's 30 points in just one frame!

Of course, the best throw you can make in Goomba Bowling is that elusive strike. Knock down all 20 Goombas on your first toss, and you'll get double points for each one. That's right: 40 points will be added to your score each time you make a strike! This is the best you can possibly do during a frame, so the highest score you can manage in Goomba Bowling is 200 by making a strike on every frame.

Goomba Bowling is a blast as a minigame, but it's even more fun to play from the Extras menu. Practice picking up those spares until you gain a familiarity for the game, then start scoring those high-value strikes!

Extras

Perspective Mode

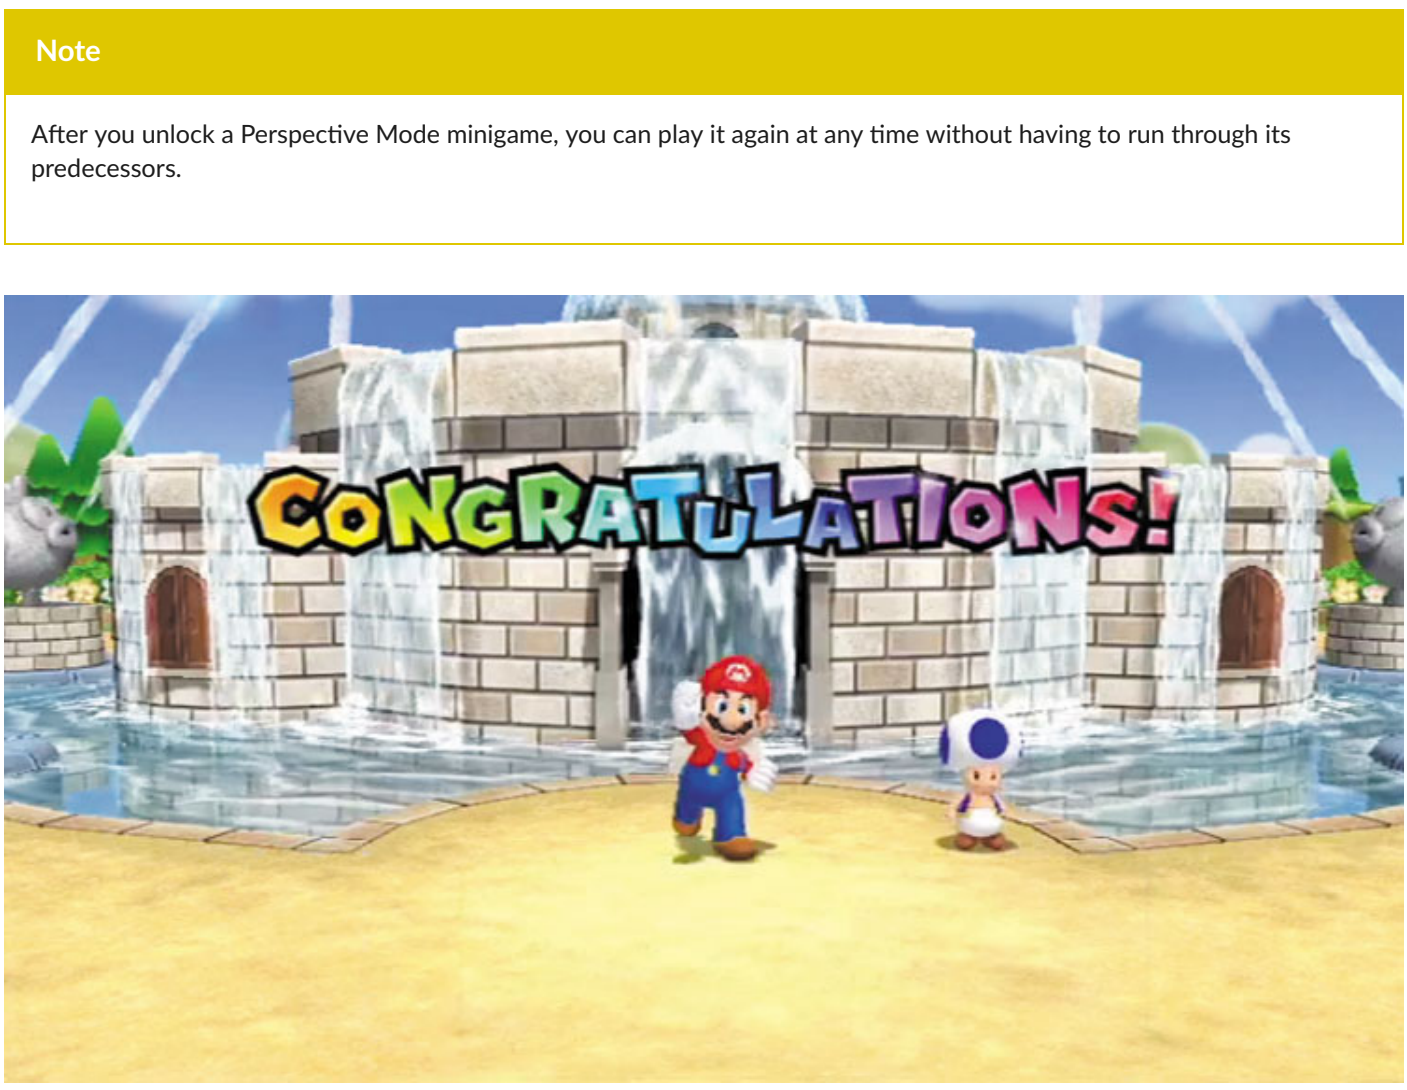

Perspective Mode takes 10 of Mario Party 9's most thrilling Free-for-All minigames and ramps up the challenge by adding a special twist: You get to play each of these games from your character's point of view!

The first time you play a Perspective Mode game, only one game will be available: Tumble Temple. Beat this first minigame to unlock the next one, and so on. Keep going until you clear all 10!

Note

After you unlock a Perspective Mode minigame, you can play it again at any time without having to run through its predecessors.

We reveal all 10 Perspective Mode games in the following list, and provide special tips to help you beat each one. Check the "Minigames" chapter for more in-depth looks at these Free-for-All affairs!

- Tumble Temple: You only need to outlast your rivals, so watch those pistons and try to keep near the center so you'll have options on where to flee.
- Logger Heads: This one's a breeze—just be quick to cut those logs and duck whenever you see a Bob-omb!
- Ring Leader: Timing is everything—you'll fly through this one once you get the hang of those jumps!
- Magma Mayhem: Stick near the middle of the platform and use quick dropkicks to knock your rivals for a loop!
- Pianta Pool: Keep to the middle of the pool so you can see where the rings are headed, then go for the gold!
- Piranha Patch: Hang out in the tall grass so you can grab those gold flowers, but beware of those pesky Piranha Plants!
- Skyjinks: The course is the same as ever, but you lose if you fall even once. Practice the normal minigame to memorize the course if you like!
- Plunder Ground: Stand where you can see each chest as they fill, and remain near the center so you can watch them all as they're shuffled underground.
- Billistics: This one boils down to pure luck. Just do your best to dodge those Bullet Bills and pray your rivals get hit quick!
- Mob Sleds: They've saved the worst for last! Run to one corner of the rink, then sprint to the opposite corner. Exploit the inner and outer tracks at the corners—you can dodge rivals by moving from one to the other.

Note

You earn two Party Points each time you play a Perspective Mode game, even if you lose. Beat all 10 games in this mode and you'll receive 100 Party Points as a special bonus!

Museum Goodies

Party Points

Attention Mario Party shoppers! Swing by the Museum at any time to spend your hard-earned Party Points on all sorts of glorious goodies. Let's take a look at everything you can buy!

Nearly everything you do in Mario Party 9 earns you special currency called Party Points. Don't just hoard your points—spend them at the Museum to unlock all sorts of neat stuff!

Here's a quick list of all the different ways you can earn Party Points in Mario Party 9:

- You earn 1 point for every Mini Star in your possession at the end of a traditional board game.
- You earn 1 point for every Banana in your possession at the end of games you play at DK's Jungle Ruins.
- You earn 10 points each time you complete a Minigame Mode game.
- You earn 2 or 5 points each time you complete an Extras game.
- You earn 500 bonus points for beating all of the game boards in Solo mode.
- You earn 100 bonus points for beating Perspective Mode (found in the Extras menu).

Note

You'll never lose Party Points except when you spend them. Still, they won't do you much good just sitting in your wallet!

TIP

A great way to earn fast Party Points is to play the Castle Clearout game that's found in the Extras menu.

You'll earn two points every time you clear a board in Castle Clearout, so just keep beating those first few boards over and over to stuff your wallet to the brim!

Museum Goodies: Stages

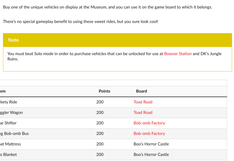

Swing by the Stages area of the Museum to unlock a small selection of special items related to the various game modes. These are some of the best unlockables you can buy!

Note

You must beat Solo mode in order to make Boss Rush mode available for purchase at the Museum. Everything else is available from the get-go.

Item	Points	Description
DK's Jungle Ruins	500	Unlocks a special bonus game board!
COM-Master Difficulty	200	Lets you choose to play against Master-level COM (computer-controlled) opponents.
Staff Best	100	Reveals the Nintendo staff's best record on Time Attack mode.
Boss Rush	500	Unlocks Boss Rush mode under the Minigames menu. You must beat Solo mode first.

Museum Goodies: Vehicles

Buy one of the unique vehicles on display at the Museum, and you can use it on the game board to whisk it betwixt.

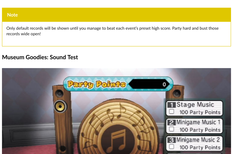

There's no special gameplay benefit to using these sweet rides, but you sure look cool!

Note

You must beat Solo mode in order to purchase vehicles that can be unlocked for use at Bowser Station and DK's Jungle Ruins.

Item	Points	Board
Rickety Ride	200	Toad Road
Wiggler Wagon	200	Toad Road

Records

What's this? There's nothing to buy here at the Records exhibit! Instead, you're simply able to view lists of the high scores you've set across all minigames and other special game modes like Time Attack and Solo mode.

Hey, this is still pretty neat!

Note

Only default records will be shown until you manage to beat each event's preset high score. Party hard and bust those records wide open!

Museum Goodies: Sound Test

Hit up the Sound Test room to bump Mario Party 9's most rockin' tunes. You can also purchase sound effect packages for all of the playable characters.

What a hoot!

Item	Points	Description
Stage Music	100	Unlocks every stage's background music.
Minigame Music 1	100	Unlocks a host of minigame background music.
Minigame Music 2	100	Unlocks even more minigame background tunes.
Other Tracks	100	Unlocks special tracks from various events and special moments in the game.
Character Voices	100	Unlocks every character's vocal sound effects.

Staff Credits
